DRIFT-BOUND CITY DIGS OUT

War of Propaganda Opens in London.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Modern naval policy, consisting of crippling a potential enemy's fleet at a round table conference, instead of employing a more dangerous method of trying to get ships out of the water by sheer force, probably will come into play at a naval disarmament conference at London, as it did in the abortive Anglo-American meeting at Geneva three years ago.

The first blast in a press campaign designed to impress Great Britain and, if possible, the United States, too, with the idea that Britannia has "ruled the rule" and the United States is now the greatest naval power has been fired by the Daily Telegraph with "figures which American delegates are bringing over."

Figures Carefully Selected.

Uncle Sam's delegates have no monopoly on figures which the Telegraph quotes. They are public property. The only thing new about them is the careful selection of particular figures which fit into Great Britain's case, and the United States delegates may quote the same figures as the Telegraph, but they will be easy marks to other countries if they interpret them the way the Telegraph does.

The Daily Telegraph's naval correspondent lists six points of American superiority. Every one is open to refutation in the light of other figures that the Telegraph fails to give.

Number one is the superiority of the American battleship fleet, "the only completely oil burning fleet in the world, which gives an immense advantage in cruising radius." This advantage vanishes, when the enemy fleet possesses naval bases in all parts of the world, as England does.

British Guns Heavier.

The American fleet mounts 190 heavy guns, against 166 for the British. The figure is correct, but the British guns are heavier. America possesses 16 battleships, of which four are older and slower and less heavily armed than ANY of Great Britain's sixteen battleships. Three of these ships carry 14-inch guns, against two ships similarly armed by the British navy.

But ten British battleships carry 15 inchers, while the rest of the American ships carries 15 inch guns, except the four old ships already mentioned, which mount 12 inch guns, against 13.5 inch guns on Britain's four remaining battleships.

Moreover, the highest speed of American battleships is 21 knots, while only four of the oldest British vessels are that slow. The rest make between 23 and 25 knots. Big guns are useless if they can't be brought to bear against their opponent, naval experts agree.

The second point is a touchy one, because the Telegraph seeks to prove the superiority of American cruisers, of which Great Britain has 55 and America, 15, not counting the two launched in September and which are not yet completed.

U. S. Minus Battle Cruisers.

The Telegraph correspondent ignores Great Britain's four battle cruisers, as powerful as battleships, a category in which America possesses not a single vessel. He furthermore includes two aircraft carriers among American cruisers. He states that America has 11 new war ships—but only 11 are in the process of building or are ordered, and the present conference may scrap four.

Great Britain possesses 15 post war ships and is building five. America possesses only two 10,000 ton cruisers, not counting the two just launched and uncompleted, against Great Britain's 11. The Telegraph's correspondent compares ordnance by counting guns on ships not yet built and then blandly states that America has an 8 inch gun cruisers superior to Great Britain's 6 inchers, ignoring the fact that equivalent vessels in the British fleet mount 8 inch guns.

Four U. S. Cruisers Obsolete.

Three of America's 15 cruisers are obsolete, while only two of Great Britain's 55 are nearing retirement. They were launched in 1911 and 1912, respectively, while of the three cruisers which the Telegraph counts among America's "formidable" fleet two were launched in 1903 and the third in 1891.

Point three has to do with the superior number of destroyers, of which America possesses 270 (21 obsolete) against Great Britain's effective 142. Another number of torpedo tubes

GROUP MEDDLES IN CITY AFFAIRS, NELSON ASSERTS

Wants Budget on Basis of 1929.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], floor leader in the council for Mayor Thompson, last night assailed the Strawn financial "rescue" committee and included in his attack the Fairweather joint tax commission as an illustration of the undermining of constitutional government by quasi-public bodies. He ended his remarks with a declaration to the council finance committee that it is "futile" to attempt to budget city services within the estimaed revenues for 1930.

Nelson spoke quietly, in contrast to his usual vehemence when attacking citizens who "meddle" with elected officials. His remarks, listened to attentively by the committee, brought to a close a session during which the aldermen had lopped off $1,727,000 from the 1929 appropriations.

Assails Aid of Citizens.

"There has been a certain invidious attempt on the part of certain private citizens to take over the functions of elected officials in the local governments," Nelson began. "In this present financial situation we find the same individuals who tried a year ago, despite the guarantees of the constitution, seeking to take over our duties.

"Now I find from reading the newspapers that President Elmore and Ross Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee of the sanitary district, have written to Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the 'rescue' committee, asking him for advice on a bond issue. And later I read that Strawn asked them for a delegation of power, a vote from the sanitary board asking him to act, before he would advise them.

"We haven't the right to delegate our powers to any one. Yet I find evidence in Strawn's actions that it is the intention to obtain a quasi public standing for the 'rescue' committee. But I don't want any committee to take over the duties of the officials of any branch of local government.

Assails Fairweather Group.

"The best evidence of the undermining of constitutional government is seen in the functioning of the quasi-public body (the joint tax commission) headed by George O. Fairweather, business manager of the University of Chicago. There was a delay in the reassessment of eight months, but after the job was finished the people who tried to delay it were the loudest in proclaiming its merits. We don't want a repetition of what happened to the reassessment under Fairweather."

Nelson mentioned the lowered valuations of loop property and stated to his colleagues that if the job reassessment had been allowed to stand as in 1927 the city would have had no deficit of $13,000,000. The taxes lost by the city from the decrease in city valuation, he said, amounts to $8,000,000 and interest would add enough to nearly total the deficit figure.

The responsibility for the lowered loop valuation, Nelson also stated, belongs to Fairweather. The University of Chicago, he said, owns considerable property in the loop and Fairweather was connected with the university at the same time he was chairman of the joint tax commission, which played a part in the reassessment.

Tells His Budget Views.

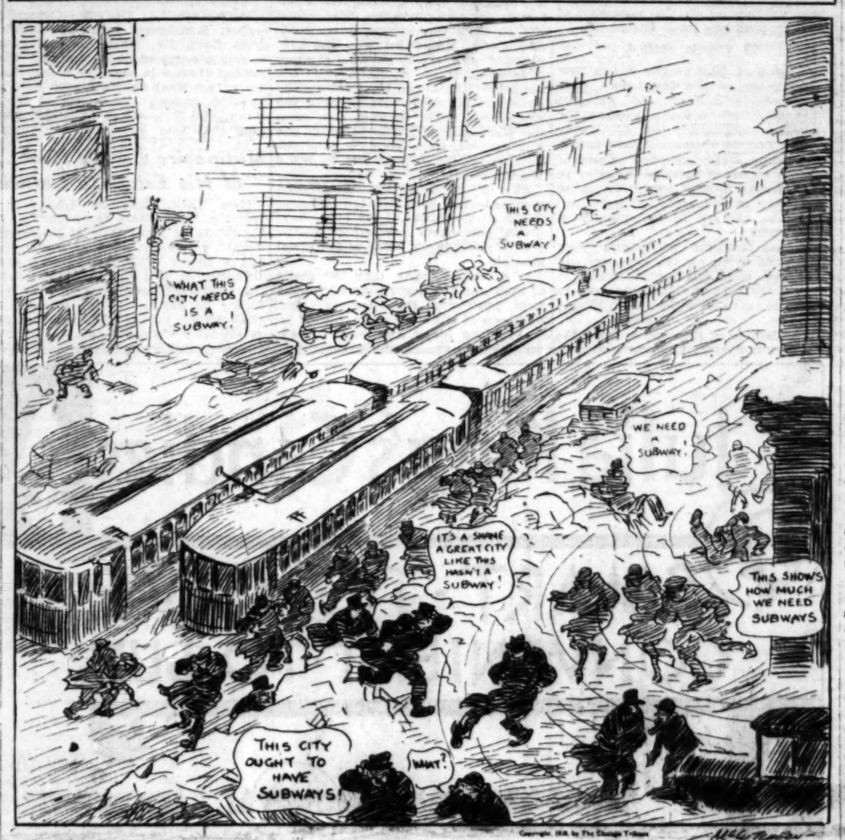

Nelson was asked to listen to a plan of Health Commissioner Kegel to put some of his employés on a ten or eleven month basis, a procedure the alderman has often attacked as a decrease in salary for employés.

"I think that all this"—and he swept his arm around the table upon which lay much pencilled budget books before each committeeman—"is futile. My stand is for a budget on the 1929 basis except where any one can show me that a job can be dispensed with. I know that Ald. Clark (chairman) says that we will be without money by Oct. 1 if we adopt that kind of a budget. But that condition should be made plain to all citizens and to the governor so that we can obtain relief legislation."

Nelson then admitted that the work on the 1930 budget so far has been for the purpose of painting a black picture of conditions in an attempt to arouse public opinion to the point of aiding in relief work. What he open-

THE MESSAGE BROUGHT BY THE BLIZZARD

HOLD CHICAGOAN ON CHARGES OF $35,000 THEFT

Max Dimentz, 46 years old, president of the City Installment Dealers Protective association, was arrested yesterday at New Orleans and is being held for the Chicago police on charges of absconding with approximately $35,000 belonging to members of the association. A dispatch from New Orleans said Dimentz told the police that he was "down and out" and intended to commit suicide. He said he would waive extradition to Chicago.

Dimentz disappeared early in November and members of the association told Judge William R. Fetzer, who issued a warrant charging him with operating a confidence game, that they had entrusted to him sums ranging from $200 to $1,000 for investment. His wife, who lives at 2215 South Ridgeway avenue, told the police that Dimentz left her penniless and that she believed he had returned to Syria, his birthplace.

Court Orders Titled Mother Pay Daughter's Dance Bill

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Lady Falkland was ordered today by the lord chief justice to pay $3,275 for her daughter's coming-out dance at the Mayfair hotel in 1928. She had been sued for that amount by the hotel company, but insisted that her husband, Lord Falkland, should pay the bill. The court ruled that as Lord Falkland had forbidden his wife to pledge his credit she was entirely responsible for the debts incurred.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Social changes that have taken place in American life during recent years are to be made the subject of special study by a committee of trained technicians appointed by President Hoover, it was announced at the White House today. The investigating body will be known as a research committee on social trends and its labors are expected to consume at least two years.

Two of the five members of the commission were appointed from the University of Chicago. The Chicagoans include Charles E. Merriam, chairman of the department and professor of political science, and William F. Ogburn, president of the American Sociological society and professor of sociology at the Midway school.

New Yorker Is Chairman.

Wesley C. Mitchell, chairman of the board of directors of the Social Science Research council and professor of economics of Columbia university, New York, was selected as chairman by the President. The other two members are Howard W. Odum, Keenon professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina, and Shelby M. Harrison, director of the Russell Sage Foundation.

Problems arising from increased leisure for the working classes that has come with improved machinery and shorter working hours, will be among the subjects placed under the research microscope by the committee of five. The changes in family life caused by scientific progress, development of faster means of transportation, and the increase in the number of apartment buildings, will be among other subjects investigated.

Rockefeller Foundation Backs It.

An attempt will be made by the committee to obtain statistics showing the improvements made in recent years in national health and vitality. The effect of city life on mental and physical health also will be studied.

This survey will parallel in character the investigation of economic changes made over a year ago.

Funds for the research work will be supplied by the Rockefeller foundation.

Officer Suspends Self Until Proven Innocent

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—G. Claude Pike, chief of police here, who was indicted and convicted in United States court here of stealing whisky from the police station, today announced that he had suspended himself "until proven innocent." Pike has appealed to the Circuit court.

BISHOP CANNON BATTLES NEWS PHOTOGRAPHERS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, who came here from Virginia to aid his son and daughter-in-law in financial and other difficulties encountered by them in the operation of a military academy, engaged in a lively set-to today with news photographers outside of justice court in Montrose, a suburb.

The bishop leaped into action when photgoraphers clicked their cameras as he stepped from the court during a recess in hearings involving Richard M. Cannon and Mrs. Margaret Cannon.

"What right have you to take my picture?" he demanded, grappling with one cameraman, while other cameras clicked. Observing that pictures of himself in action were being made, the bishop calmed himself quickly and consented to pose and also to be interviewed until a reporter asked about recent reports of the failure of a New York stock brokerage house, records of which contained his name.

"That's my business," he said, "and I certainly consider it a very indelicate question, quite without the province of a newspaper reporter's scope." He returned at once to the courtroom.

Charges of insanitary conditions and unpaid labor checks at the Cannon Military academy, filed against the younger Cannon and his wife by the county health department and state labor commission, were dismissed when it was shown the checks had been paid and other conditions were being remedied.

Jobless Riot in Berlin; Erect Yule Tree Fort

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 19. — A barricade mainly composed of Christmas trees was one of the features of big jobless riots in Berlin this evening when, after three hours of constant charging and some shooting by foot and mounted police, the attempts of thousands of unemployed to storm the city hall were beaten off.

Four policemen were wounded in the fray and two of the jobless were reported killed. It is presumed that their bodies as well as the many wounded were taken off by the Red Cross detachments which the communist leaders had in attendance, so the number of casualties is not ascertainable.

Riot Despite Warning.

The chief of police this morning issued an order forbidding today's jobless demonstration which had been planned ahead of time. Despite this order, however, in two hours a mob of thousands had gathered, shouting for bread and work. The unemployed then paralyzed Berlin's central section around Alexanderplatz and foiled every effort of the police to dislodge them until a cavalry charge at 8 in the evening cleared the square.

The worst fighting took place around the Alexanderplatz railroad depot, where the police were bombarded with paving stones and beer bottles. In ejecting the demonstrators the police had to fire fifteen times in order to gain even partial control.

In the Dircksenstrasse the jobless erected a barricade of Christmas trees which were out in the street on sale. They were dislodged after a stiff tussle.

Capture Motor Buses.

The unemployed rioters then seized a number of motor buses, ejected the travelers, and forced the drivers to ride in the direction of the police lines and ride them down. In spite of a police charge the jobless succeeded in forcing their way to the police cordons around the city hall. There they were put to rout after a strenuous battle.

Kiel, Paulen, Stettin, and Stuttgart also reported extensive jobless riots around their city halls. At Cleves and Hagen the jobless entered inside the city halls and were thrown out by the police. The communist and National Socialist councillors in these two cities joined forces with the unemployed in demanding increased Christmastide relief.

MEXICAN FIRING SQUAD EXECUTES REBEL CHIEFTAIN

Nogales, Ariz., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Gen. Carlos Bouquet, officially considered military head of the latest incipient revolution in Mexico, died yesterday in Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, before a federal firing squad. This was announced today by José Valenzuela, Mexican consul here. Gen. Juan Rico, who made the arrest, conducted the trial, and ordered the execution, said Bouquet at the end repudiated his asserted chief, José Vasconcelos, defeated in the recent Mexican presidential election.

Sentenced to Stay Away from Home on Christmas

Willard Doyle, 45 years old, must spend Christmas away from home or go to jail. His wife, Mary, and his stepdaughter, Louise, 19 years old, both of 3140 Jackson boulevard, had him arraigned in Des Plaines street court. He had beaten them, they said, when they remonstrated at his spending $16 for a Christmas tree. The mother and daughter assured Judge Heller their Christmas would be happier without him. The judge placed Doyle under probation for a year but said the sentence would be changed to sixty days in the bridewell if he dared go home for the holiday.

THOUSANDS PUT AT WORK TO CUT SNOW BLOCKADE

12 Deaths Blamed on Storm Here.

Senator Snowbound

Valparaiso, Ind., Dec. 19.—(AP)—After being marooned at the farm home of William Kent, near here, with 39 other persons for 20 hours, United States Senator Thomas Connally of Texas tonight set out on foot for Wheeler, Ind., west of here, in search of food. Late today he had appealed to the office of Gov. Leslie for assistance.

Their automobiles snowbound, the forty persons spent the night at Kent's home, but there was insufficient food to supply all of them. Highway workers tonight were nosing their snowplows into eight foot drifts in efforts to release the stranded machines and tourists.

Capricious winter toyed with Chicago yesterday, mingling threats and promises in such a contradictory manner, while it pelted the city with the worst blizzard in eleven years, that even the weather bureau admitted last night the forecast for today is largely a matter of guesswork. Instead of the zero wave and clearing skies that were expected to climax two days of raging storms, the outlook is for a minimum temperature of 10 to 12 degrees above zero and possibly more snow.

The blizzard that buried Chicago and the middle west under a snow blanket only one-tenth of an inch short of the record for all time apparently had blown itself out by midafternoon, but light snow flurries continued throughout the night, and C. A. Donnel, official weather forecaster, predicted that the record might be equaled or broken by morning.

14.8 Inches of Snow.

During the forty hours of almost incessant snowfall 14.8 inches fell in Chicago. The record of 14.9 inches was established on Jan. 6 and 7, 1918, and no other storm had approached that record since then.

The threat of more snow, while thousands of laborers were trying to free the city from the mounds and drifts that have tied transportation lines into a hopeless snarl, was brought about, Mr. Donnel said, by a sudden shifting of the storm, which had been passing eastward. Instead of continuing on its way, a part of the storm veered northwestward, back across the great lakes and a section of the storm area doubled back over Chicago.

The high pressure area, which was bringing zero temperatures down out of the northwest was breaking up, however, and the mercury hovered between 13 and 16 degrees above zero throughout the day.

Sees New Snow Storm.

Dr. Donnel said indications were that there would be little change in the temperature today or tomorrow, although a new disturbance developing in the far southwest might bring a second storm into Chicago by late tomorrow night or Sunday.

"The chances are 100 to 1 that it will not be a repetition of this last storm," Mr. Donnel said. "You might say that this storm was almost one in a lifetime. Storms like this seldom occur more than four or five times in a quarter of a century."

With the end of the blizzard, Chicago and the central states were beginning to emerge from the icy bonds that had held virtually all traffic at a standstill. Highways were being cleared of drifts and railroads were beginning to "see daylight" as thousands of men, snow plows and tractors worked to dig them out. Street car service was slowly getting back to normal, and although motor traffic was still hampered by deep drifts in streets and boulevards, automobiles were moving more freely with the danger from blinding snows removed. Air mail moved for the first time in nine days.

Lay 20 Deaths to Storm.

In Chicago and suburbs, 12 persons died yesterday from causes directly attributable to the cold and weather conditions, while several others were killed or fatally injured in traffic accidents growing out of the storm. Associated Press dispatches placed the death toll in the middle western area at 20.

The waters of Lake Michigan, after threatening to wreck the shore line, were dying down, having defeated their own purpose in pounding at the beaches. The towering waves that had sent surf spraying across the outer drives froze as the water struck the earth and a steadily mounting wall of ice lined the shore from the northern suburbs to Indiana, acting as a seawall for the protection of the coast.

Fears for the safety of one ship, the Alabama, owned by the Goodrich Transit lines, were aroused when it wirelessed Chicago it might have to return to Grand Haven because of the seas and the inability to reach the Chicago harbor. Capt. A. Franklin of the Goodrich lines announced last night, however, that the boat had reached Grand Haven safely with its crew of 70 men.

Chicago's great task was to remove the snow from the streets and street car tracks as the drifts reduced traffic to a minimum. Forty trucks, eight snow plows and one thousand men tabored all day in the loop, with a force of 400 men at work in other sections of the city. These forces were augmented at 5 p. m. when 1,400 more were added and at 2 a. m. when 500 men went on duty in an effort to clear streets and sidewalks before the early morning rush of Christmas shopping begins. The size of the loop crowds was reduced yesterday.

Cost to City, $60,000.

Outside of the loop, 10 trucks and 40 snow plows were at work, trucking the snow to the river, where it was dumped. Joseph J. Butler, deputy street superintendent, estimated the cost of the work to the city at $60,000.

Another 1,000 men were at work in the parks, with every available piece of park equipment pressed into service to open the park drives and boulevards. The outer drive on the south side was closed most of yesterday by snow and ice from breakers which froze as fast as they fell across the driveway.

The snowstorm cut school attendance to about 15 per cent of the 500,000 enrollment and at 9:30 President Caldwell of the board of education, acting on the advice of Supt. Bogan, ordered schools closed for the day. They will reopen today, however. Suburban schools were little affected. In Oak Park only 10 per cent of the pupils were tardy and most of these arrived later.

List of Storm Dead.

The dead in Chicago and the suburbs were:

L. L. Davenport, 52, of 2742 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn, found dead on the Chicago and Alton tracks at Harrison street.

The Chicago surface lines were slowly getting back to normal but were still experiencing difficulties on some outlying lines, where the traffic was not sufficient to keep the tracks clear of drifts. Ten thousand men, working in two shifts, labored day and night with 100 sweepers and 170 plows to keep the main lines open. Only 50 derailments were reported yesterday, although 300 cars left the tracks on Wednesday and Wednesday night. No street cars ran in Evanston yesterday. Suburban train service on all railroads was delayed throughout the day, and the Illinois Central electric service was blocked for more than 45 minutes late in the afternoon by a derailment of a train at 8th street. None of the passengers on the train was injured, but the accident blocked the entrance to the downtown stations, no trains moving in or out of the terminals. Drifts in the Kensington district tied up transportation on the far south side for two hours. Passengers on a Rock Island suburban train reported that it was several hours late in arriving at the downtown station.

More than twenty through trains on the Illinois Central, Big Four and Michigan Central were stalled on the south side and passengers came into the terminal on suburban trains. Inbound trains at the Dearborn street station were forced to stop more than a block from the terminal.

The 20th Century Limited was four hours and fifteen minutes late in reaching the terminal; the Broadway Limited, two hours and eighteen minutes.

Ship Breaks Loose.

The gale of early yesterday ripped four large freighters from their moorings at the Great Lakes Towing company docks at 94th street and the Calumet river and swept them out into the stream. They were brought back by tugs.

The storm, described by lake navigators as one of the worst in years, broke the freighter Kearsarge from the Illinois Central slip at the foot of Randolph street and it was tied up again only after a desperate struggle.

Only two fires of any consequence engaged the attention of firemen during the blizzard. The Presbyterian church of Wilmette, at 9th and Greenleaf avenues, was practically destroyed by flames which started from an overheated boiler and, fanned by the high wind, swept rapidly through the building. The damage was estimated at $50,000 to $75,000. The other fire caused damage of $10,000 to a building at 1365-69 Fullerton avenue.

Throughout Illinois and Indiana, hundreds of motorists were reported snowbound in farm buildings and school houses after their cars had been blocked by snow drifts. Three hundred persons were rescued in southern Illinois near Pana after five buses en route from St. Louis to Chicago and Detroit and 100 cars had been marooned by the storm.

ICY DESERT WINDS KILL 21 IN PEIPING; NANKING FIGHTS SNOW

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Many persons have been frozen to death in Peiping recently, twenty-one of the bodies being found in streets. Low temperatures prevail, with piercing winds from the Gobi desert.

Central and north China are being swept by sharp rain and snowstorms after many months of subnormal rainfall and unusually warm temperatures in recent weeks.

Shanghai has experienced one week of heavy rains. A heavy snowstorm in Nanking blocked the streets with snowdrifts. Houses collapsed, telephone, telegraph and lighting systems were impaired and much suffering caused.

Havana Bundles up.

HAVANA, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Havana today put on heavy wraps for the second time within a month as chill, pre-Christmas blasts swept down from the northeast and the sun sought refuge behind banks of rain clouds. Drops of 4 to 8 degrees in temperature were reported.

Vesuvius Becomes Snowcapped.

Presence of Sunken Liner Adds to Danger.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The wreck of the Furness Bermuda steamship Fort Victoria, resting in sixty feet of water a half mile west of the entrance to Ambrose channel, increased the danger today to marine traffic at this port, already helpless in the grip of the worst fog in years.

The steamship, which was rammed and sunk yesterday afternoon by the Clyde-Mallory liner Algonquin, with all of the passengers and crew rescued, probably will be a total loss. Experts declared today that salvage at the depth would be too expensive.

In the face of the fog and with the sinking of the Fort Victoria fresh in their minds, sea captains and shipping men capitulated to the necessity of waiting until the cloud should lift.

45 Vessels Stalled.

Seven passenger vessels due in New York today or the day before were anchored tonight off the Ambrose channel lightship; four, including the damaged Algonquin, lay off Sandy Hook, and four reached Quarantine. Meanwhile, eight outbound passenger vessels remained at their docks or in the harbor, while thirty or more freighters in and outbound were estimated as stopped in the vicinity of New York.

Fifteen hundred passengers were estimated to be on the steamers, all relatively small, that were unable to dock today. At least 1,000 passengers slated to leave New York were unable to do so.

The feeding of these passengers, the fuel consumed by the waiting boats, charter costs, wages and delayed shipments were today piling up huge bills for the steamship companies involved, while at the bottom of the channel lay the Fort Victoria, whose sinking may result in a loss as much as $2,000,000.

Some Big Liners Among Them.

The passengers and mail liners which were anchored off Quarantine included the Atlantic Transport liner Minnewaska, from London via Cherbourg; the Albertic of the White Star line, from Liverpool via Queenstown and Boston, with passengers and 6,000 sacks of mail; the Royal Mail steamer Araguaya, from Southampton; the Cunarder Lancastria, from Havre; the American Shipper, from London; the Fraficonia of the Cunard line, from the West Indies; the Bermuda of the Furness line, from Bermuda, and the Dominica of the Furness line, from the West Indies.

At 4 p. m. today the Algonquin's passengers had been twenty-four hours in the gray solitude of the lower bay.

It developed today that 250 sacks of mail and about 400 tons of freight went down with the Bermuda liner. Fourteen of the mail sacks floated to the surface today and were saved.

MAROONED JAZZ BAND CHEERS MOTORISTS HELD UP BY STORM

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A Negro jazz orchestra, marooned by snowdrifts on its way to a dance last night, helped cheer up a group of motorists that sought refuge for the night at a farm home near Peoria. Several hundred motorists were harbored in farm houses in this vicinity overnight.

Highway crews worked all night with 40 plows on the roads about Peoria, but morning found every country highway impassable. Drifts were ten to fifteen feet high in spots. The state highway department workers believe the roads will be open by tomorrow if the wind abates. The sun shone here today for the first time in 11 days.

5 FISHING BOATS WITH 18 ABOARD BATTLING STORM

Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Eighteen men, members of the crew of a fleet of five small fishing boats, were believed to be somewhere in the northern waters of Lake Michigan today, fighting a 40 mile gale. The fishing fleet has been unheard from since it set out from here for the Fox island fishing ground six days ago.

Fishermen said today that the boats were well stocked with provisions and that the only danger was that the men might exhaust their fuel supply and be unable to ride out the storm. Fears were allayed somewhat by the knowledge that the five vessels were together.

Coast guardsmen and other fishermen have been unable to venture out.

Thirty Cross Ice to Safety.

Sandusky, O., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Walking precariously through the dusk and snowfall for nearly a mile over cracking ice, thirty persons, including eight women and two babies, were saved here tonight after the passenger vessel The Tourist was caught in an ice jam just outside Sandusky bay.

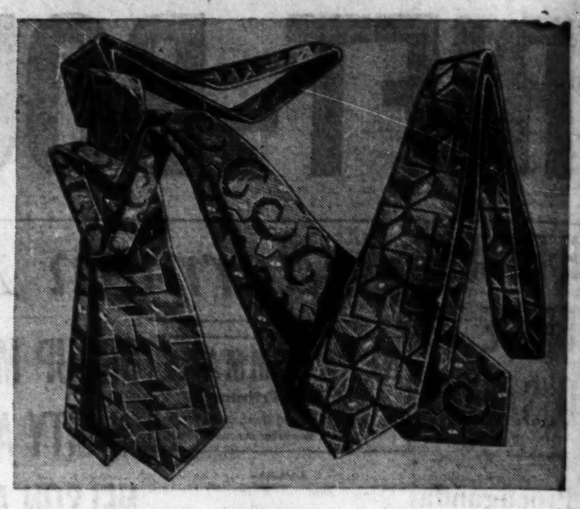

GOVERNOR BACK FROM HUNTING TRIP IN STORM

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson returned tonight from Bath, Ill., where he had gone to join a party of duck hunters. The sudden change in weather which converted an ideal shooting mist into a blizzard trapped the party at their camp, and it was not until this evening that they were able to return.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Leaving more than three-fourths of his estate of more than $1,000,000 to Cornell university, his alma mater, the will of Henry W. Sackett, lawyer and authority on libel law, was filed today. Col. Sackett directed that most of the legacy be devoted to the permanent conservation of the landscape beauty of Cornell's extensive campus.

LOESCH LASHES DENEEN; CALLS HIM FAITHLESS

Charges Senator with Deserting Voters.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, 77 years old, denounced United States Senator Deneen yesterday and charged that the senator "has deserted the decent people of Chicago."

With all his old vigor, shown when he launched the battle against the alliance between politics and crime and gave victory to the Deneen candidates in the 1928 elections, Mr. Loesch declared that Senator Deneen has been faithless to the voters' trust in him. The senator has struck an alliance with Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, and has been bargaining to further his individual political ambitions, Mr. Loesch said.

In an interview just before he left for the east on matters pertaining to his duties as a member of Persident Hoover's law enforcement commission, Mr. Loesch gave his views on the present political outlook for the city and state.

Cites Deneen-Crowe Luncheon.

"Where are the people to go for leadership," he asked, "when we find Senator Deneen entertains Robert Crowe at luncheon in the restaurant of the United States senate? Only a short time ago the people were awakened in the interest of Senator Deneen's candidates, and by the business organizations of Chicago, to oust Crowe from the state's attorneyship.

"How can Senator Deneen excuse himself to the public for fellowship with Crowe after Crowe had publicly said that Deneen had bombed his (Deneen's) home?

"The intelligent citizen cannot understand such political tactics, nor can he understand how Senator Deneen can claim the votes of the Republican element which has heretofore supported him on the theory that he was done and through with Crowe and the city hall faction. This had been thoroughly understood by his former attitude antagonistic to these corrupt factions.

Condemned by the Voters.

"The public understood Senator Deneen would have neither lot nor part with these factions after the scandalous record they made in the administration of public affairs. Each of these factions repeatedly has received public condemnation in overwhelming defeats at the polls, whether in primaries, elections, or bond issue referendums.

"My hope and opinion was, and in this I am sorely disappointed, that Senator Deneen, having through the aid of the mass of independent voters in the Republican party secured the indorsement and election of many of his candidates for office, should have stood four square with the public. I had hoped he would not deal with any factions. Corrupt factionalism has ruined public offices in the minds of the people who have wanted to see honest, intelligent, and patriotic service restored to them.

"Citizens Are Betrayed."

"Where are the people to look for clean political leadership if they are everlastingly to be betrayed by being led into wildernesses by factional party tradings for the offices, regardless of the public interest? The citizens are betrayed by their leaders, and bewildered by all this political trading.

"What the public has been longing for and looking for has been a separation from this alliance among corrupt politicians seeking to control the public offices for their personal and political advantage. This has led to the gross injury of the people as a whole, and to the criminal waste of public moneys exacted from the people through excessive taxation.

"Senator Deneen has had the opportunity beyond any other man in recent years, by reason of the public backing him and his candidates, to assume and maintain leadership in the public interest. He might have disregarded for the time being his own personal ambition.

Believes Citizens Disappointed.

"I speak only for myself, but I believe that what I have said represents the disappointed feeling of our citizens in Senator Deneen's political trading proclivities.

"The people know, by my actions this year and last year, that I have never sought any party or factional advantage. I was only putting into action what I believed to be the sentiments of the silent hundreds of thousands of intelligent voters who were looking for good, economical government.

"They wanted officials who, regardless of political factions, were, above all, interested in seeing smashed the partnership between crime and politics, for in that union lies the corruption of the public service, the criminal waste of public taxes and bond issues, and the very breakdown of the administration of the criminal law. It is this breakdown which is responsible for the repeated failures of law and courts and justice to hold the plunderers, the wastrels in public office, responsible criminally and civilly.

"Clean Politician Wins."

"There is no doubt in my mind, when I review the momentous campaigns of the last two years, that the clean politician, sincerely moved to give a real public service, gains the greater ends in the long run. With the public genuinely aroused, still at high pitch in a desire to vote for well recommended candidates, there is no need for any true statesman to besmirch himself in alliances with discredited politicians and factions.

"This old fashioned method of trying to gain political strength by scheming and trading with ward heelers and soliciting the scattered votes of corrupt political organizations ought to be put in the discard. The public has shown its contempt for these organizations, and it has shown its power to overthrow them, and I am disappointed that Senator Deneen has not seen fit to stand against these alliances [illegible] the citizenry."

Tennis Champion Gets Marriage License

To Wed Dec. 23

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP)—While the little St. Clement's chapel in Claremont, Berkeley, was being prepared today for the simple wedding ceremony that will unite Miss Helen Wills and Frederick S. Moody Jr. in wedlock next Monday, an inquisitive world had traced a relationship by marriage between the bridegroom-to-be and President Herbert Hoover.

Mrs. Frederick Moody Sr., questioned about the relationship today, said it was so remote that there really was "no relationship at all."

Frederick Moody Sr., prospective father-in-law of Miss Helen Wills, explained Mrs. Moody, is a brother of Mrs. Douglas S. Watson of San Francisco. Mrs. Watson's daughter, the niece of Mr. Moody Sr., and the cousin of Miss Wills' future husband, is the wife of Herbert Hoover Jr.

Mr. Moody and Miss Wills applied for a marriage license in Oakland shortly before the county clerk's office closed yesterday. The California tennis queen signed as Helen Newington Wills, 24 years old. The bridegroom signed as Frederick Shander Moody, 28 years old.

Only immediate members of both families will attend the ceremony at which the Rev. L. H. Miller will officiate.

DESERTED WIFE WINS $500,000 ESTATE OF MATE

Mrs. Cora Knoblaugh of Minneapolis yesterday won the $500,000 estate willed by her husband, Dominick Knoblaugh, to Mrs. Jeanette Galvin Webber, whom he married under the name he assumed to bury his identity. Circuit Judge Rush sustained a decision of Probate Judge Horner holding Mrs. Knoblaugh and her children, Edward D. and George L. Knoblaugh, the legal heirs.

In 1913 Knoblaugh was a prosperous brewer in Minneapolis. He deserted his family to live in Chicago with Mrs. Gavin, a widow, the wife charged. For fifteen years the wife and her children searched for him. The search ended shortly before his death on Sept. 12, 1928.

It was then that the wife learned her husband had assumed the name of Nicholas Webber, under which he married Mrs. Gavin at Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 27, 1917.

Mrs. Gavin protested that she did not know of the former marriage. She declared that Knoblaugh must have procured a divorce and cited her twelve years as his wife. For lack of legal proof of a divorce, Judge Rush ruled Knoblaugh's first marriage the basis of the distribution of his estate.

Rudy Vallee Sued for $200,000 by Show Girl

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Daily News tomorrow will say that Rudy Vallee, vaudeville and radio singer, has been sued for $200,000 breach of promise by Agnes O'Laughlin, Broadway show girl. Although Vallee admitted the papers were served on him, counsel for Miss O'Laughlin today denied any knowledge of the action. The suit has not yet been filed in court.

Woman Is Awarded $450,000 in Breach of Promise Suit

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The jury which has been trying the $750,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Bertha B. Cleavenger against John H. Castle, wealthy real estate operator, late this evening returned a verdict of $450,000 in her favor.

The case was given to the jury of eight women and four men early Wednesday evening and the verdict was returned about 19 hours later. The trial set a record for breach of promise actions here. Approximately 1,200,000 words went into the court record.

On motion of Ralph B. Clark, counsel for Castle, Judge Homer Ferguson ruled that judgment be not entered for 20 days. In the meantime a move for a new trial will be made.

10 Year Courtship Alleged.

Miss Cleavenger announced that she is well satisfied with the verdict. She asserted that Castle, now a husband and father, jilted her following a courtship of 10 years to marry Miss Phyllis Lindeman in 1925.

"I was certainly satisfied with the verdict," said Miss Cleavenger.

While shaking hands with jurywomen and friends in the small room adjoining the courtroom she added: "I don't have any plans other than to go right ahead as I have been living. I am very comfortably situated and expect to be thoroughly happy."

Asked if she had any intention of marrying, she said: "Well, I like men, and a good one may come along some time."

Mrs Elizabeth Culver, jurywoman, congratulated Miss Cleavenger and shook her hand vigorously, saying: "Castle certainly was all wrong and we all knew it."

The verdict is believed by local lawyers to be the largest in the legal history of the country. The largest previous award is said to have been in the O'Brien vs. Manning case in New York when Miss O'Brien was awarded $225,000. The judge, however, cut the verdict to $125,000.

A Boarding House Romance.

Miss Cleavenger, who is 40 years old, met Castle when he came to Detroit to go to work for Henry Ford for $5 a day, and lived at a boarding house which she ran. She testified at the trial that within six weeks of the time they met they were engaged. Castle was helping his brother through school and asked that the wedding be postponed on that account, she related.

When Castle began to engage in the real estate business "on the side" he made a down payment on a house in Highland Park, which Miss Cleavenger moved into. Both parties to the present suit admitted that she loaned him $1,000 which he later repaid. She contended that this and another $800 loan helped him win his fortune, which evidence at the trial indicated has at times included a bank balance of $2,400,000.

In 1922 to 1925 Castle provided the money for Miss Cleavenger to live at an expensive hotel and make trips to Florida and California. One day, she said, he failed to keep an appointment with her and she learned that he had married another.

STRAWN 'RESCUE' GROUP ASSAILED BY ALDERMAN

Meddles in City Affairs, Nelson Asserts.

Wants It Done Openly.

"I am hopeful that we can crystalize public sentiment so that relief can be obtained before Oct. 1 when our money will be gone," he continued. "Some of you are holding out for a budget within the revenues, a budget that means less police and fire protection than we now have, a budget that means darkened streets, unclean alleys and a crippling of activities in the interest of the public health.

"You hope by that to crystalize public sentiment to the same end that I desire. However, I want to do it openly and lay the conditions before the people and the governor. Our deficit is the fault of the assessing bodies and not a creature of our sculpturing."

Seek to Cut $10,000,000.

The finance committee is making its final examination of the proposed 1930 budget in which it is hoped to reduce the 1929 appropriations by $10,000,00. During the afternoon and evening sessions they had cut in a number of departments.

An attack on the smoke abatement department, which the records show has operated more efficiently as a separate department than when it was under the health or boiler inspection departments, was successfully warded off by the vigorous efforts of Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th], who was instrumental in obtaining the release of smoke work from political influences.

Last evening's work leaves only a few major departments to be reviewed by the committee. Among these are the police, fire, and health department which the aldermen tentatively have crippled. A vote on their appropriations is expected today.

BACK STRAWN GROUP

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Strawn Citizens' committee stepped farther into the financial difficulties of the local governments yesterday, and speculation began on what the committee will bring out.

First came a letter from President Cermak of the county board to Mr. Strawn. He extended "an earnest invitation and request to the Strawn group to make a comprehensive survey of the activities, operations and fiscal affairs of the county." President Cermak said this was the desire of the entire county board.

Next came a special meeting of the sanitary district trustees at which they unanimously invited Mr. Strawn to collect "first hand" information and pledged the coöperation of all departments of the district.

School Board Aids in Task.

The third decisive action was taken by President Caldwell of the board of education. He selected School Trustees L. E. Meyers, John English, and James A. Hemingway "to cooperate with the Strawn committee." Formal action on this subject is expected from the school board at its session today.

City Controller George K. Schmidt pledged his assistance on Wednesday, and said he would submit his city corporate budget next Monday.

This show of active coöperation with the Strawn committee is in conflict with the gossip of last week. Heretofore it had been said by politicians that the public officials would refuse to coöperate with the Strawn committee. It was then reported that the officials were afraid that the Strawn committee might dig up facts which would place considerable of the blame for the financial mess upon the officials.

See Move to Shift Blame.

The reason given most frequently yesterday for the coöperation is that the officials hope thereby to shift responsibility upon the Strawn committee.

A second reason for the coöperation is said to be the publication of an intimation from the Strawn committee that its approval or disapproval might influence the banks on loans.

Mr. Strawn conferred with several of his accounting assistants yesterday and has obtained space for them in the First National Bank building. A survey of the sanitary district probably will start today.

VETERANS' HOSPITAL BILL FORWARDED TO PRESIDENT BY HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—By accepting senate amendments to the Rogers bill authorizing $15,950,000 for construction of new veterans' hospitals, the house completed legislative action today and the measure awaits the signature of President Hoover to become law.

The action met the approval of O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, who said in a statement that it "shows a genuine spirit on the part of congress to do the right thing by our disabled comrades." He described it as a "fine Christmas gift."

The bill was amended yesterday in the senate to raise the figure from $14,000,000 to $15,950,000 to provide for additional hospital facilities.

TRIBUNE SOUNDS BATTLE CRY FOR FIGHTERS IN 1930

A Year for Stout Hearted, Advertising Men Told.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

"Fighters Will Win in 1930!" was the slogan flung out last night by THE TRIBUNE advertising department at its annual banquet at the Drake hotel.

It closed a four days' conference of the "fighting salesmen" in the advertising staff, assembled from all parts of the country including the large metropolitan areas. According to yearly custom, the situation in the various regions and the outlook were discussed in detail by men in constant touch with leaders in business, commerce, and industry. The keynote of the addresses at the dinner was that 1930 will be a year of exceptional opportunity for the strong hearted.

In illuminated letters at the end of the hall was the war cry: "Carry on with THE TRIBUNE!"

The Fighter Is Described.

Battlers in business and other spheres were classified by Col. R. R. McCormick, editor of THE TRIBUNE. He described the type of fighter who is successful because the breaks all came his way and affairs are favorable. He sketched another group of battlers who are courageous in adversity, but unfortunately lead with their chins.

"But the first class fighter," said Col. McCormick, "is this type of man: The more difficult it becomes, the more active he becomes. In a panic such a man stands out like a paladin.

"People often comment that the generals of industry and of war appear commonplace, that they do not sparkle with wit, that they don't resound with talk, and don't seem leaders in their own organizations. Men of the first water, they have not felt the urge to shine in favorable circumstances. But in a crisis they have arisen above difficulties, impressed their personalities, and routed adversity. They are known as fighters and leaders.

"The exceptional man, the real leader, is he who proves his worth in a time of stress. This stock market panic, this depression in business—it is a misfortune to the weak, but only an opportunity to the strong. It is the chance for you who can stand while others run."

The Tribune's Three "V's."

Mr. Donahue, as head of THE TRIBUNE's advertising department, dwelt upon leadership embodying THE TRIBUNE's three great "V's"—virility, vitality and versatility. Illuminated charts behind the table showed the upward curve of the last decade—daily circulation of THE TRIBUNE doubled, and advertising volume doubled in ten years. One chart showed the advertising gain this year over 1928, an increase of more than 1,300,000 lines. Another mapped the growth of TRIBUNE circulation to its present 855,350 daily and 1,206,989 Sunday.

KISSED ONCE IN 7 YEARS, WIFE WINS A DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary Kenyon, 3146 Wallace street, yesterday won a divorce before Superior Judge Sabath when she testified that her husband, Fred, kissed her but once in seven years. The Kenyons were married Aug. 27, 1912, and separated March 12, 1927. They have two children, Fred Jr., 17 years old, and Helen, 13 years old.

On the date of their separation Fred rose from their evening meal and kissed her for the first time in seven years, she told the court. While she was recovering from her surprise he put on two overcoats and walked out of the house. She never saw him again, her attorney Harry X. Cole, said.

HOPKINS RIDES STEAM ROLLER TO FEDERAL BENCH

Senate Confirms Dry Law Paid Lecturer.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Judge Richard J. Hopkins of the Kansas Supreme court, admitted to be a paid lecturer for the Anti-Saloon league and charged with numerous other judicial improprieties, was confirmed by a majority of the senate today as a federal judge. The vote was 49 to 22.

Overriding the determined opposition of a group who contended that Hopkins' record as a dry propagandist disqualified him from administering the prohibition and other laws fairly, the Republican steam roller did its work effectively on the roll call. Only two Republicans, Senators John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] and W. H. McMaster [Rep., S. D.], joined with the twenty Democrats who voted against the confirmation.

Helped by Farm Swaps.

Although other issues entered into the debate, the Anti-Saloon league was paramount and the victory was hailed by the drys as proof that the administration and senate are safely under its domination. It had been no secret that President Hoover appointed Judge Hopkins under heavy pressure from Kansas dry forces, led by Senators Arthur Capper and Henry J. Allen [Rep., Kas.].

The consistent support given by Capper and Allen to all Hoover legislation, while many other wheat belt senators have jumped into the radical column, also was cited as a strong factor in their favor—one that drew even the wet regulars to their side of the controversy. The strong Republican machine in the state of Carrie Nation and William Allen White, it was pointed out, could not be ignored, although it put an Anti-Saloon league lecturer on the federal bench.

Dry Pay Not Denied.

The Kansas senators made no attempt to deny that Judge Hopkins, after becoming state Supreme court judge, lectured for and attended conventions of the league, but the $1,200 he received, they maintained, was "traveling expenses." In Kansas, they said, Hopkins is a popular idol.

Debate on the confirmation lasted all day yesterday, winding up with an agreement to vote at noon today on Senator Blaine's motion to send it back to the judiciary committee. The Blaine motion was defeated, 14 to 45, and five minutes later confirmation was voted.

The roll call on confirmation was as follows:

FOR CONFIRMATION.

Republicans.

Allen,	Keyes,	Oddie,
Baird,	McCulloch,	Patterson,
Bingham,	McNary,	Phipps,
Borah,	Metcalf,	Pine,

Harrison,	Thomas [Okla.]

It was definitely brought out during the debate that the confirmation of the Hopkins appointment was rushed through the judiciary committee, headed by Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], with little consideration, and Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the subcommittee, which had the matter in hand, admitted that he had not heard of some of the charges before.

M'DONALD SAVED FROM DEFEAT BY A MERE 8 VOTES

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Labor government just escaped defeat tonight. Following scenes of wild excitement after many hours of heated debate, in which the government withstood terrific onslaughts from leaders of both opposition parties, the second reading of the government's coal mines bill passed with the extremely narrow majority of eight. Voting on the Conservative amendment for rejection of the bill resulted in 273 to 281 against the amendment.

Conservatives Shout "Resign."

The Liberals opposed the government measure, being influenced by a brilliant speech of vigorous denunciation by David Lloyd George. The Liberal leader, in his old characteristic fighting form, delivered a speech of 80 minutes, the finest he has made in the house of commons for years. Only five Liberals did not vote. Two voted for the bill. Had all the Liberals followed Mr. Lloyd George's lead, the Labor government would have met certain defeat.

Tremendous excitement prevailed during the division, the tellers having difficulty to reach the table. When the figures were announced wild cheering broke out. The Conservatives shouted "resign."

The opinion in the lobbies afterwards was that the government had suffered a moral defeat and that Mr. Lloyd George's uncompromising denunciation of the bill created a breach between the Liberals and Laborites which the ministers cannot seek to heal.

Lloyd George Bitter.

Mr. Lloyd George, in his speech, declared that certain provisions of the bill were extremely vicious and that the government had surrendered to the mine owners.

Winding up the debate Prime Minister MacDonald declared candidly that he put himself in the hands of the house. He offered no concessions, however, virtually defying both the Liberal and Conservative opposition. He made no reply to Mr. Lloyd George's denunciation.

LEGGE DENIES GRAIN DEALERS RUN FARM BOARD

Tells Them They Must Protect Selves.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Chairman Alexander Legge of the federal farm board today put completely to rout reports that the board has been influenced to change its program by the group of grain dealers and business men represented by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

In characteristically plain words Mr. Legge made it clear that the board does not propose to protect private grain traders by withdrawing cheap money from farmers' coöperatives, nor will it be dictated to by the traders on any of its other policies. If the board's program hits the middlemen, he said, they will have to "adjust themselves to new conditions," as the buggy manufacturers did when the automobile era arrived.

Want Things Kept Straight.

"I am not going to be drawn into a public quarrel with Mr. Barnes," the farm board head declared, "but some of his statements have apparently been misconstrued. I want the farmers to get things straight."

Mr. Barnes made his statements Tuesday when he was quizzed before the Caraway senate lobby investigating committee regarding a conference between Legge himself and several grain men. Previously a bulletin questioning the board's policies had been issued by William Butterworth, president of the National Chamber of Commerce.

Under a cross fire of questions Mr. Barnes testified that at the conference Mr. Legge had agreed with the grain men that it is unfair for the board to make available 3½ per cent money to local coöperative wheat buyers who compete with private buyers using commercial rate money. The conclusion also was drawn from his testimony that Mr. Legge had agreed to consult the grain interests before going further with anything which would hurt them. Various interpretations were placed on these statements, some of them causing much agitation in the grain belt.

Mr. Legge's statements today were in the form of an interview, a written announcement, and letters to Mr. Butterworth and Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], chairman of the lobby committee.

Because of its vital importance in the administration of the farm loan act, Mr. Legge discussed in detail the board's plan of giving the farmer advantage of loans from its five hundred million dollar revolving fund.

The law, he said, makes it mandatory upon the board to lend its money at the government rate of interest, about 3½ per cent. Instead of loaning directly to local coöperatives, however, the plan is to lend to the national coöperative corporations now being set up. These corporations will add to the interest charge their cost of handling the money, as will the local coöperatives, but in no case will the interest charge to the farmer be higher than the current commercial rate, now 6 per cent.

Determined by Coöperatives.

"Will the farmer, then, have to pay the commercial rate?" Mr. Legge was asked.

"Not necessarily," he replied. "Unquestionably in most cases it will be less. The rate to the farmer will be determined by the coöperatives themselves which control the corporations. If the handling charge is higher than necessary, then the coöperatives will pocket the difference; if it is lower they will benefit just the same."

Discussing this point in his letter to Senator Caraway, Mr. Legge said:

"The board from the beginning recognized that in order to cover their expenses and possible losses in handling loans it would be necessary for the coöperatives to add a small additional charge to the farm borrower. This addition may vary somewhat as to particular commodities, but any saving made becomes the property of the farmers through their coöperatives."

Makes Blanket Order.

If Mr. Barnes, as indicated by his testimony before the lobby committee, suggested that the board has made a blanket order that no cheaper money shall be available to local coöperatives than is available to private buyers, he was mistaken, according to Mr. Legge. The board chairman added that Mr. Barnes was not in the conference when this point was discussed and probably "became confused on it."

Commenting on the suggestion by Mr. Barnes that the board intended to consult the grain men before carrying out its policies, Mr. Legge declared that he had made no such agreement.

"We are conferring with somebody night and day," he added, "but that doesn't imply any limitation whatever on our freedom of action."

Disagrees with C. of C. Men.

In his letter to Mr. Butterworth Mr. Legge took direct issue with the advice in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin that the board should base its coöperative program upon the relative costs of grain handling by coöperatives and private concerns.

Declaring that the Butterworth bulletin "has rather missed what we believe to be the principal object of the agricultural marketing act," the letter continued:

"Perhaps on an average a comparison of the cost of these coöperatively managed local institutions with that of private concerns doing the same service would be in favor of the privately owned operations, but yet this could not have any bearing on the broader problem as to whether the marketing system as a whole is susceptible to change which would be advantageous to the producers.

Work Out Different System.

"Unless we can work out a different system of marketing which goes far beyond the question of saving a fraction of a cent per bushel on grain, a few cents per bale on cotton, or a few cents per head on live stock, as compared to the present system, there would be little hope of progress in the line of putting agriculture on an equality with other industries, for the simple reason that if all of these operating costs were added to the price the farmer gets for his profit it would make but little difference in the return to the grower.

"On the other hand, if gradual marketing of what the farmer has to sell through a longer period instead of within a few weeks, as is now the prevailing practice, can be brought about, it may be possible to make a material improvement in the returns to the producer.

"If, in carrying out such a program, certain reasonable adjustments on the part of existing agencies to adapt themselves to new conditions are found necessary, this should be regarded as incidental to a changing business condition rather than attacking anybody's business.

Must Meet New Conditions.

"A few years ago the introduction of the automobile affected rather seriously one of the lines which you were producing at the time. If my memory serves me correctly, you did not appeal for help, but rather proceeded to adjust your business to the new condition, in which effort you seem to have been quite successful. While the changes in the agricultural marketing program may necessitate some adjustments on the part of some of those now dealing in agricultural commodities, any improvement in the return to the farmer cannot prove other than helpful to the other industries of the nation."

'SUBSTANTIAL DRUNK' WOULD DO IOWA GOOD, CONGRESSMAN THINKS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The assertion that "nothing would do Iowa more good than a good, substantial drunk," was made in the house today by Representative Black [N. Y., Dem.].

He was engaged at the time in a discussion with Representative Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] of the agricultural appropriation bill.

Dickinson asked "the gentleman from New York if he knew the corn raised on one quarter of good Iowa land would make enough alcohol to keep all of New York drunk for six months," and Black countered with an opinion as to what would be good for the state where the tall corn grows.

Black demanded that the department of agriculture include in its report "something on the disastrous effects of prohibition on agriculture."

Because prohibition had removed the market for a large part of the farmer's grain crop, he asserted, "the farmer is now practically on a dole system, while the bootlegger rides in a limousine."

He referred to the coming meeting of the Anti-Saloon league to celebrate ten years of prohibition, to be held in Detroit, and said the "Detroit bootleggers out of the generosity of their hearts had invited the league" to the Michigan city.

"While the boys of the league make whoopee in Detroit, the farmers will be worrying about their notes, which the Anti-Saloon league wrote," he shouted.

SIX ESCAPE FROM NEW JAIL; BLAME LACK OF BARS

The new Cook county jail—without barred windows—proved to be an easy place to escape from yesterday when one of the guards violated a rule and walked into an ante-room carrying his keys without another guard being present to watch from the outside. As a result six prisoners, one of them at least known to be desperate and to have made threats against officials, are at large and the police are hoping that no one will be injured in an attempt to recapture the men.

The officials responsible for the operation of the jail immediately declared after the escape that it was the lack of barred windows which allowed the six men to batter down a 1-1/4 inch steel window sash, step out to the wall and jump to liberty.

Blame Acts of Guards.

Those responsible for the building of the jail without barred windows said that had the guards obeyed the rules it would have been impossible for the prisoners to reach the window. It was pointed out, however, that not one window above the first floor is protected by bars.

The windows off the warden's office and around the general offices on the first floor are all barred.

The prisoners who escaped are:

Earl McLean, under two charges of burglary. He is reported to have been the ringleader of the plot.

Louis McKenzie, under three robbery charges. He was convicted of one charge last week and at the time threatened to get even with Assistant State's Attorneys Abe Johnson and Owen West if he should ever be liberated. He was tried under the habitual criminal act, but the jury failed to sentence him for life. He was found guilty of robbery with an indeterminate sentence of 1 year to life.

John Russo, awaiting trial for murder.

John Lazarski, also waiting trial for robbery.

The escape occurred shortly before 10 o'clock, the hour for the opening of the Criminal courts.

The men were all quartered in the section known as cell block 2B, which is the second floor cell block on the south. Guard Fred Knepper, 2444 North Harding avenue, who is 57 years old, 5 feet, 4 inches tall and weighing 138 pounds, called out for the inmates of his block who required medical attention. Among those who responded were Stanek and Lazarski and two other inmates not in on the escape plot.

Started for the Basement.

The men were placed in the small ante-room, which leads to the chute going to the physician's room in the basement. They were told to go through the opened door to the basement. Instead they waited just inside the door until Knepper violated the rule—a thing he had done before, he later told Warden David Moneypenny—and went in to close the opened door. Under the rules, Knepper should have summoned another guard before he entered the small barred ante-room.

As Knepper walked into the room Stanek and Lazarski jumped from behind the door and overpowered him with ease. They took his keys and also charge of the cell block.

They locked up the guard in one of the cells they had just made vacant and then let the four others in the plot out of their cells. They then repaired to the window, battered it open with a wooden bench and climbed to the wall, less than a foot from the window ledge. They walked the wall—which shuts off the Bridewell from the jail, to the front of the jail building, jumped into the soft snow and ran away.

A guard in one of the Bridewell watch towers saw the men escaping and fired several shots at them. He missed. He called his superiors in the Bridewell and they in turn notified the jail that the prisoners were walking away.

Warden Moneypenny then started a search through his supposed escape proof jail and found the guard locked up. Sheriff John E. Traeger was summoned and he questioned Knepper, who was given his job on Jan. 17, replacing another guard. The appointment was said to be political.

Anton Cermak, president of the county board, said that an investigation would be made, and was one of those pointing out that if the rule was not violated bars were not needed. Sheriff Traeger spoke of the lack of guards and money, but admitted the violation of the rule made the escape possible.

SHATTUCK TALKS TO HOOVER'S AID ON SUGAR RATES

Denies He Took Matter Up with President.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Whatever the reason for his employment to work against a high sugar tariff, Edwin P. Shattuck of New York—a personal friend of President Hoover—testified today before the senate lobby committee that he had never discussed the sugar levies with the President.

Called because of testimony that he was retained by sugar interests partially because of his close relations with Hoover, the attorney said it was not fair for the name of the chief executive to be "bandied about" in the lobby hearings.

H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba company dealing in Cuban sugar production and opposing an increased tariff on that product, employed Shattuck. He had been examined closely by the lobby committee for several days, especially in relation to Shattuck's work. Shattuck testified today that, although he had not talked with the President about sugar, he had conferred several times concerning the matter with Walter Newton, a secretary to Hoover.

Question Denver Man Today.

"How did Mr. Francis come to make that statement?" Walsh inquired.

"I don't know," Shattuck replied.

The witness also was questioned at length concerning his employment by Lakin and he insisted it was mostly legal work and not "lobbying."

Most of the testimony today dealt with Shattuck's relations with President Hoover and he maintained throughout the hearing that he "made no claim other than I hope I have his friendship."

Questioned about a number of statements already placed in the record that he had been in conference with President Hoover on the sliding scale sugar tariff proposal, Shattuck replied:

"It is incorrect, sir. It is incorrect. But I don't want to have it misunderstood. I have discussed with Mr. Newton questions pertaining to the sliding scale and he has discussed them, I always understood, with the interested sugar people, not only the Cubans but the beet men and others, and I have been asked by Mr. Newton to discuss it with him, but not with Mr. Hoover."

Senator Robinson [Rep., Ind.] asked:

Newton Writes Shattuck.

"You didn't understand, did you, that Mr. Newton at any time, acting for the President, was giving you directions on what to do in connection with this lobbying activity?"

"I did not, sir," Shattuck replied.

Two brief letters from Newton to Shattuck were placed in the record. They thanked Shattuck for sending him memoranda pertaining to the sugar tariff.

"What was this data that you sent to Mr. Newton?" Walsh inquired.

Shattuck said it consisted of reports prepared by a statistician pertaining to production, prices and profits of Hawaiian sugar.

A plan to send senators to Cuba also was discussed today by the committee. It came to light in a letter Gladys Moon Jones of the United States Sugar association wrote to George B. Francis, law partner of Shattuck. The letter said:

"I suggest that you hold your plans for sending senators to Cuba until I submit today's developments on that situation."

Questioned about the letter, Shattuck explained that Mrs. Jones had suggested that if some of the senators "could be induced to go to Cuba and see the situation there, it would be advisable to do so."

Shattuck denied that he had attempted to solicit any contributions in Cuba.

Walsh read a newspaper account of a statement by Shattuck, which said:

"Present reports of Mr. Lakin's testimony before the lobby committee apparently created the impression that I was retained by the Cuban sugar interest because of possible influence I might have with the President."

"Now you know, do you not, Mr. Shattuck," Senator Walsh inquired, "that Mr. Lakin at least was counting very heavily upon your influence with the President?"

"I would not want to say so," Shattuck said. "I remember his letters and testimony. You appreciate I want to be fair to Mr. Lakin and everybody else. I do not think he was counting so much on my influence."

Work Out Economic Plan.

Shattuck was asked if he knew Lakin had sent out letters referring to his friendship with Hoover.

"I did not," he replied.

"That he was writing to the President of Cuba and others?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"About your influence with the President?"

"No, sir, I did not."

The statement also said that Shattuck informed Hoover of his connection with Lakin before Hoover became President. He added that it was "not to obtain his approval of an important legal engagement but to inform him of what my connection was so there would be no misunderstanding."

"I told him," Shattuck testified today, "that I was engaged by the Cuban sugar interests, the American sugar interests, and that I was going to try and work out some economic plan to see if I couldn't help through cooperative methods to try to solve this problem."

"Why did you see Mr. Hoover about it at all?" Senator Robinson asked.

"Why, I saw Mr. Hoover as I usually do. I usually call on Mr. Hoover when I am in the vicinity," Shattuck said.

CROWDER DENIES HE BARED ARMY'S PLANS IN REPORT ON SUGAR

Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder was aroused last night to a sharp denial that he had divulged plans of the general staff of the army in preparing a recent memorandum on limiting sugar imports from the Philippines. The retired army officer and former ambassador to Cuba, now practicing law in Chicago, reached at the University club, was told that Secretary of War Hurley had announced in Washington his intentions to investigate the general's alleged revelation of such plans.

"Let him do it," remarked Gen. Crowder. "I revealed no general staff plans no matter what the testimony was to that effect. I prepared the memorandum as an expression of my personal views on the limiting of sugar imports from the Philippines. The general staff did not request the memorandum and, so far as I know, it has never been submitted to the staff or put into their files.

Gen. Crowder's memorandum was quoted in a letter presented before the senate lobby committee.

SENATORS QUIT REAL WORK TILL AFTER HOLIDAYS

Reward Selves for Week of Unusual Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Apparently satisfied with its unusual burst of activity during the last week, the senate threw up its hands today and quit work until after the holidays.

Among matters left untouched was the administration joint resolution adopted yesterday by the house authorizing President Hoover to send a special commission to Haiti. Failure to take up the Haitian resolution, for which there appeared to be ample time, led to reports that the senate leaders were willing that it should be sidetracked, inasmuch as the situation in Haiti no longer seems acute.

Perfunctory sessions will be held by the senate tomorrow and Saturday when, under the joint resolution adopted several days ago by both houses, formal adjournment takes place until Jan. 6.

Senator Watson [Rep., Ind.], the majority leader, again gave notice to the senate that when congress reconvened after the holidays nothing would be allowed to interfere with consideration of the tariff bill, which has been before the senate intermittently since early in September.

SLAYER OF STORE OFFICIAL HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

CRIMINAL COURT.

Harry Bremer, forgery, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry Fisher.

Emil Burgbacher, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

James Grant, 57 years old, an ex-convict who killed one man and wounded two others when he was caught shoplifting in the Boston store on Wednesday, was held to the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday after an inquest in the Chicago avenue police station.

Grant told in a listless voice how he killed Douglas Richeson, 56 years old, maintenance superintenednt of the store; shot A. K. Freeman, store detective, and slugged John Concannon, superintendent of the cashiers' department, with his pistol.

"It looked so easy, so I lifted a pair of gloves on the first floor," Grant began. "A detective tapped me on the shoulder. I tried to break away, but he gripped me and took me to the sixth floor.

"I saw Richeson come out of his office. He was about six feet away when I whipped out the gun and fired. I saw him grab at his chest and stagger. I fired another shot at Freeman and hit Concannon on the head. That's all I remember."

Other witnesses, including store employés, and several of the 200 shoppers who were terrified by the shooting, corroborated Grant's story.

Gunman Disarmed, Slain with His Own Weapon

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 19.—Chicago's gunmen do not fare well here. Albert Saroko, 30, Chicago, dropping into town, decided to hold up a downtown grocery store tonight to obtain a little funds for his stay, but Mike Ciaccio, proprietor, refused to raise his hands on Saroko's command. When the latter shot, Ciaccio jumped on him, wrestled with him, turned his own gun on him, and killed him with a shot through the right lung into the heart.

Brice Armstrong Speaks and So Do Others.

Possible reasons for the hurried transfer two weeks ago of Prohibition Agent Brice Armstrong, for ten years Chicago's famous dry sleuth, slipped into the light last night. With Agent Paul Shoup, his man Friday, Armstrong was sent to the mosquito swamps of New Jersey "on special duty" and for the last fourteen days the prohibition office has been seething with gossip.

Last night it appeared that State's Attorney George Carbary of Kane county, who achieved notice during the investigation of the slaying of Mrs. Lillian De King by an Aurora dry raider, might have had a hand in the transfer.

Carbary Tells His Action.

"Fifteen days ago I heard that Armstrong had been saying things about the integrity of the officials in Kane county after he had made some investigations out here," Carbary said last night.

"I was included in these remarks, I was told, so I called Assistant Administrator George Huribut in Chicago and told him that Armstrong would have to indict and prosecute me to back those things up, or I'd lick him! Two days later I read in the papers that he had been sent east."

Prohibition Officials' View.

Prohibition officials admitted the truth of Carbary's statements, but were inclined to attribute the abrupt transfer, in a large measure, to another matter which involved the alleged disappearance of a lighting system seized in a still raid.

Back from Newark, their present headquarters, to testify in a liquor case at the federal building, the transferred pair ruefully surveyed their present situations yesterday afternoon.

"Here I am," said Armstrong, "years in the business here. I've never taken a dime and I've been offered one hundred thousand dollars all told, and now they ship me out here. I'm trying to buy a home here and I can't afford to move."

Shoup nodded in concert with him. "And me," he said, "last winter a gangster tried to give me $10,000 to lay off a still case I'd made, and I told him to go jump in the river, but out I go right along with Brice. For what?"

Armstrong and Carbary.

"I heard about this Carbary business today," Armstrong said. "And now I know what it's all about. I'd been making a lot of investigations for him out around Aurora during the summer and I had heard of a lot of things, but not about Mr. Carbary.

"We'd been after some big bootleggers out there, several of us agents from Chicago, and I'd heard a whole pack of things. I didn't repeat them though, to anybody.

"But two weeks ago last Wednesday, Antone Mauritsen, chief investigator for Mr. Carbary, come to the federal building here as a witness and Shoup and I talked with him. He told us some pretty astonishing things.

"'I can stop the beer in Kane county just like this,' he said, and he snapped his fingers, 'but isn't there some way we can keep the beer going until after the holidays?' I almost fell down I was so amazed. I don't know what I told him, but I guess I sputtered a lot."

Carbary Gives His Version.

Carbary said last night that Mauritsen called him at his office immediately after this alleged conversation took place.

"But what Mauritsen told me differs radically from the way Armstrong reports it," the state's attorney said. "Mauritsen told me that Brice had just said he was going to get him (Mauritsen) and me, too, and indict and prosecute us both for liquor violations."

Armstrong denied making such a statement as Mauritsen attributed to him.

"That isn't true," he said, "I made no remarks of that kind about either Mr. Carbary or Mauritsen. But whatever happened, the same night Mauritsen told me that, Shoup and I were told to pack our stuff and go to Newark. That very night."

Carbary was doubtful that his investigator had ever made the statement concerning the holiday beer. "That doesn't sound like Mauritsen," he said. "I can't believe he said it. I have the utmost confidence in him."

$100,000,000 LOAN BY GERMAN BANKS ENDS CABINET CRISIS

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The German government tonight ceased its negotiations with a New York banking house for an emergency loan of $100,000,000. Instead, through an agreement between coalition parties in the reichstag and the cabinet, the loan is to be raised through the German "D" banks, the Darmstaedter, the Dresdner, and the Deutsche-Diskonto. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, has agreed to sanction the domestic loan.

The reichstag agreement, which promised immediate introduction and passage by Saturday of a bill providing an amortization fund of $108,200,000, also served to avert a cabinet crisis.

The post of Finance Minister Hilferding was at stake because of his failure to obtain the loan from the American bankers except on terms that would have meant his resignation.

DENIES INQUIRY ON COAL GROUP IS ABANDONED

Swanson Aid Questioning Witnesses, He Says.

Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge yesterday denied rumors that his office was allowing the investigation into the activities of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association to lapse. The prosecutor said he is calling in witnesses from day to day, but that his task is a difficult one because some of the witnesses are reluctant to testify before a grand jury.

"It takes time to gather evidence in a case like this," Dodge said, when asked about rumors that the state's attorney's office at the request of well known lawyers had dropped the investigation. "I have been calling in witnesses as the opportunity presents. I am also examining documentary evidence in our possession.

"I will say one thing, however, that unless we have evidence to convict we will not indict. If sufficient evidence is developed no one will be able to stop indictments."

Awaits Report from U. S.

The prosecutor has been waiting for weeks for the federal government to send him a report of an investigation made in 1928 by the department of justice. He said he believes efforts are being made by attorneys representing the coal interests to prevent the state authorities from having the benefit of the report.

State's Attorney Swanson was not at his office yesterday and could not be interviewed about reports that the inquiry had been allowed to drop despite the recommendation of the October grand jury that the state's attorney should continue the investigation before other juries and, if necessary, turn the evidence over to the federal authorities.

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, who started the inquiry but suddenly turned it over to Dodge and gave his attention to other matters, refused to be interviewed.

Urges Inquiry Be Pushed.

"The coal investigation should be pushed and no one should be allowed to interfere," said Paul J. Alwart, president of Alwart Brothers Coal company, one of the independent dealers. "From my experiences during the last five years I am sure the grand jury would be interested to know all the facts on the coal situation."

Mr. Alwart and J. C. Hoskins, general manager of the Marine Coal company, were the principal witnesses before the October grand jury when the investigation was started after George Barker, ex-convict, was revealed as the business agent of the coal teamsters' union.

Barker exercised his power by ordering the Marine company to discontinue advertising coal at 50 cents a ton less than is charged by other companies in the association. He called a strike of teamsters by way of enforcing his demands.

Immediately the state's attorney's office started an investigation and summoned union officials and independent coal merchants for questioning. The charge was then made that the union did the bidding of the association. This was denied by Attorney Joseph Fleming of the association, but Alwart told the jury a story of the difficulties of an independent dealer willing to sell coal at a "reasonable" profit, without racketeer extras.

He said he was harassed by strikes and advised to rejoin the association, which he had helped organize.

Report Lawyers Take a Hand.

Union officials at the time told the grand jury that Barker took possession of the union by chasing James (Letty) Lynch out of the city by terrorist tactics. Lynch was business agent until Barker appeared, following his parole from the penitentiary.

The investigation apparently lagged through November and most of December and gave rise to the rumors that certain lawyers had convinced the state's attorney's office that it should abandon the inquiry.

Prosecutor Dodge, however, obtained the books of the association and found it had been paying its officers some $25,000 a year in salaries, it is reported. The association, which is now headed by Jacob Best, president of a coal company bearing his name, is organized "not for profit."

A. Frank Druly of the Druly-O'Brien Coal company, Norman R. Elmstrom of the Elmstrom Coal company, J. A. Peterson of the J. W. Peterson Coal company, and Charles H. Dreiske of the Dreiske Coal company are the other officers.

Propaganda War Opens in London.

are carried in American ships, it was pointed out, without reference that Great Britain has chosen to sacrifice torpedo tubes to guns. The British destroyers, weight for weight, carry heavier guns than do America's.

Great Britain's oldest destroyers were built in 1917, and America's newest in 1920. Eighty British destroyers are bigger than the largest American ship. Twenty-four American destroyers are slower than the slowest British ship. The British destroyer fleet has fifteen heavy flotilla leaders, and America possesses none.

The Submarine Comparison.

Point four is the greater number of American submarines. As in the case of destroyers, America possesses a large number of obsolete ships. Great Britain's oldest submarine was launched in 1919, while most American submarines precede that date.

Under point five, the Daily Telegraph counts a larger number of American naval planes, without mentioning that America only possesses three airplane carriers to Britain's six. The final point is the naval personnel in which the Telegraph gives United States' strength as 113,000 against 101,000 for Great Britain. But he has counted in the marines in the American figure in order to swell United States' total, while the dominion navy's personnel is subtracted from the British total.

These sort of figures are given out for the consumption of the British public before the disarmament conference. The American fleet looks strong enough on paper, but ship by ship comparison shows that in actual battle, the British would win.

King George will open the first plenary meeting of the five power naval conference on Jan. 21. The opening meeting will take place in the royal galleries of the house of lords. The second and subsequent meetings will be held at St. James's palace.

Japan's Naval Delegates Favor 6 Year Capital Ship Holiday

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, chief delegate of the Japanese empire to the London naval conference, will enter the parley prepared to support a proposal for a complete holiday in capital ships until 1936.

The delegate disclosed this tonight in an interview with the Associated Press after the Japanese delegation arrived from Washington, where Mr. Wakatsuki and his colleague, Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, minister of marine, conferred with Secretary Stimson and other American officials.

In discussing capital ships, Mr. Wakatsuki declined to reveal whether he had talked to the American secretary of state on the subject, but it is understood that the Japanese viewpoint has been made known officially to the United States. The question will be raised at the London conference in connection with a consideration of the replacement program for battleships provided in the limitation agreement signed at the Washington arms conference. A ten year holiday in this category was agreed upon at that time.

Mr. Wakatsuki further disclosed that the Tokio government is favorable to a program more closely limiting the construction of airplane carriers.

Oppose Naval Competition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The Japanese delegation to the London naval reduction conference concluded its preliminary discussions with American officials today and left for New York, where they will pause twenty-four hours before sailing for England.

Immediately following the final conference held this morning, Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chairman of the American naval delegation, and former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the visiting delegates, issued a joint statement, announcing that the United States and Japan were agreed that cessation of naval competition should be one of the principal objectives of the London parley.

Demand 70 Per Cent Ratio.

No agreement was reached by Japanese and American officials on the questions of submarine and cruiser reduction and the visiting delegates left Washington adhering to their contention that Japan should be allotted a 70 per cent ratio of the auxiliary naval strength of the United States and Great Britain.

Spokesmen for Chairman Wakatsuki and Admiral Takarabe, the two Japanese delegates, asserted that Japan still is seeking an agreement which will give her 70 per cent of American big cruiser strength and a percentage of submarines large enough to satisfy Japanese national defense requirements.

At the headquarters of the Japanese delegation it was said that Japan will ask for a fixed submarine tonnage and will continue to insist on that tonnage regardless of whether other powers reduce or increase their submarine requirements. The view expressed was that Japan needs a certain number of submarines—set loosely at 78,000 tons, the Japanese tonnage now built and building—and that national defense requirements make it essential this amount be not reduced.

Americans Still Optimistic.

American officials are hopeful that Japan will agree at the conference to cut her submarine demands and also reduce her big gun cruiser requirements. There are some indications that Japan may modify the 10-7 ratio asked for big cruisers to 10-6.5 or 10-6 after other nations have offered their proposals at London. The Japanese officials said today, however, that no recession had been made on this point during the present parleys.

The delegates were entertained by Secretary Stimson at a luncheon where the healths of President Hoover and the emperor of Japan were drunk in orange juice.

Stimson Answers Editorial.

The action of the Washington Post in printing an editorial today criticizing the administration for not including Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams among the American delegates attending the American-Japanese discussions brought a sharp outburst from Secretary Stimson.

"It is quite clear," he said, "that it is the deliberate intention of that editorial to attempt to make trouble between American delegates to the conference and the members of the President's cabinet, to discredit our government before the Japanese delegation, and thus to try to cause a breakdown of the long conference.

"The utter falsity of the statement is evident if I recount that the Japanese delegates, having indicated that they would be represented by three persons in the preliminary discussions, we, in usual courtesy, also determined to limit our numbers, and Mr. Adams, who was consulted by me, suggested that some other member undertake it, and our delegates were selected by Mr. Adams and myself."

FRANCE TO CARRY CHIP ON SHOULDER TO NAVAL PARLEY

'Don't Go as Underdogs!' Paul Boncour Warns.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 19.—Two broadsides were fired into the Anglo-American pre-conference parity agreement by Paul Boncour, Socialist orator and French delegate to the league of nations, today at the opening debate on the naval budget in the chamber of deputies.

"Tonnage figures, envisaged by Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover, are too high; they are dangerous; they are a parity, but a parity on the upgrade, and mean more big, fast cruisers on the high seas," cried the diminutive statesman, known as the "twentieth century's Robespierre."

Tardieu Sees Bad Omen.

So great was the enthusiasm aroused by his speech and that of Jacques-Louis Dumesnil, naval budget reporter, who sounded the alarm against naval reduction, that Premier Tardieu saw therein an omen of disaster, unless he goes to London with a chip on his shoulder.

"France goes to London alone, not as at Geneva, with a cortège of little nations, who were its friends and supporters," Boncour continued.

France Sees no Security.

"English labor made a big sacrifice in favor of peace by agreeing to let another fleet equal Great Britain's. This gives us no security. Only a limitation of armaments on both land and sea can give world-wide security. By the Anglo-American accord Great Britain does not diminish its fleet. It merely permits the United States to equal it.

"France must go to London with a full sense of its sovereignty. It must not appear as the accused, before an international tribunal."

M. Dumesnil presented figures intended to prove that the French fleet is a sort of stepchild compared to others, declaring it is a purely defensive one.

NAVY'S $10,077,500 SHORE CONSTRUCTION BILL IS APPROVED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A naval shore construction bill calling for an expenditure of $10,077,500 for improvements at naval stations along the continental coasts, in Hawaii and the Panama Canal zone was approved today by the house naval committee.

The committee also made public the naval general board's recommendations that Camp Kearney, Cal., be selected in preference to Sunnyvale, Cal., as the site for the west coast airship base, where the navy plans to house one of its giant dirigibles being built at Akron, O.

SUICIDE MAY SOLVE ROCKFORD TEACHER DEATH

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Strange notes left by Walter Mattis, who killed himself with a razor early today, offered authorities a possible clew in their investigation of the slaying of Cordelia Gummersheimer, high school teacher, who was clubbed to death in her apartment Dec. 7.

Mattis, 50 year old laborer, called a night "prowler" and very eccentric by neighbors, slashed his throat at his home where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Dora Mattis, 74, nearly blind and crippled.

The notes, scrawled on scraps of paper and found on a desk in the room where he ended his life, were as follows:

"I was in bed every night at 9 o'clock since Nov. 23, Walt Mattis and mother."

"I did this to make the guilty ones feel cheap."

"I did this to get away from the two-face people."

"I only said to the people what others said."

"Remember, I'm like all the people. You are all happy now. I only talked like all the people did. I know nothing."

EX-WIFE KEEPS JEWELS GIVEN OTHER WOMAN

Extortion Case Dismissed in Court Drama.

High melodrama was described in a court hearing yesterday before Municipal Judge Max Luster involving the charges of Mrs. Dorothy Glass Aeppli, 6606 Chicora avenue, against Mrs. Ada Shultz, wealthy business woman living at the Webster hotel. At the close of the hearing Judge Luster dismissed the charge of extortion brought against Mrs. Shultz.

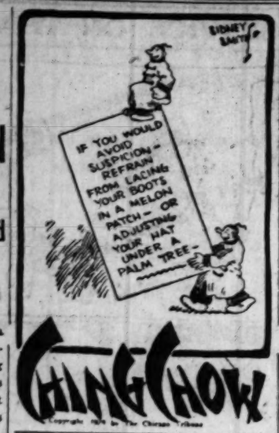

A. F. Champlin, a private, told of visiting the Passavant hospital last month in company with Attorney James H. Turner and two others for the purpose of obtaining from Mrs. Aeppli, who was ill there, certain gifts of jewelry and cash given her by A. A. Ziv, president of the Western Screw Manufacturing company. Mrs. Shultz, as Ziv's divorced wife who plans to remarry him, desired to get the gifts back.

"We went in," said Champlin. "And there was Howard Aeppli, the woman's husband."

"I says to Aeppli, 'What kind of a man are you to let your wife take jewels from another man?' He answered with a groan: 'No man at all. Take back the jewels.'"

The charge of extortion, brought by Mrs. Aeppli against Mrs. Shultz, had been based on the assertion that Mrs. Schultz hired the lawyer and detectives to frighten her rival into surrendering the gifts. The judge ruled that this accusation had not been proved.

Aeppli, through his attorney, Frank Cantwell, indicated after the hearing that further action, perhaps in the form of an allenation of affections suit against Ziv, would be taken. Ziv, at present, is said to be ill in Florida.

LETTER UPSETS OFFICIAL AIDING SCHIRESON CAUSE

The principal sensation as the defense opened yesterday in the trial of Dr. Henry J. Shireson for the revocation of his Illinois license to practice medicine centered in the testimony of Dr. Winfield Scott Nay, secretary of the Vermont state board of medical registration.

Dr. Nay, who is 79 years old, testified under the questioning of Attorney Burrill J. Cramer, counsel for the accused physician, that in 1909 Schireson had taken the state medical examination in Vermont, and had passed with high marks. Since that time, Dr. Nay testified, he has frequently corresponded with Dr. Schireson, and has visited him at times. He described Schireson as a man of the highest moral character.

Reads Letter from Dr. Nay.

Then First Assistant Attorney General Harry A. Ash, who is prosecuting the charges before the state medical committee, took up the cross examination of Dr. Nay, starting by showing him a photostatic copy of a letter. Dr. Nay identified the signature on the letter as his own, and it was read into the record.

The letter, on the official stationery of the Vermont medical board, and addressed to "Dr. J. Paul Fernel, Chicago," stated in part as follows:

"He [Dr. Schireson] attempted reciprocity with your state in 1911, but Dr. Egan would not accept his credentials, more especially because of short term attendance at the medical school, which, at the time he claims to have graduated, only gave a three year course. He has never practiced in Vermont.

Fooled Poor Foreigners.

"This fellow is not a fool by any means but seems to have the faculty of fooling many other people. I have known of his escapades in years past, and he has evidently feathered his nest at the expense of many poor foreigners to whom he catered. The fellow has attempted to bait me to do crooked work for him, but his money does not appeal to me under such circumstances."

At first Dr. Nay was at loss for an explanation.

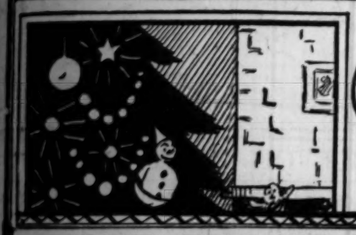

"I must have written it—it is over my signature," he said, at the suggestion of Mr. Cramer that the letter was a forgery. Finally he was excused. Meanwhile investigators had been sent for Dr. Fernel.

Fernel, a sleek little man with waxed mustache twirled into jaunty points at each end, refused to give an explanation of the letter to newspaper men, and finally, despite the expostulations of Schireson and his lawyer, Fernel entered an elevator and left the building.

Follmer Is Witness.

John W. Follmer, ousted former chief inspector of the state department of registration and education, was called as a character witness by the defense, but most of the time he sat on the stand was consumed in arguments over the admissibility of his testimony. Finally he was permitted to testify he had investigated previous complaints against Schireson and had found Schireson "O. K."

Five character witnesses testified in Schireson's behalf.

THE CITY COUNCIL CHALLENGED.

Mr. Jay Schiller has written a letter to the city council which has to be answered. Mr. Schiller was hired by the aldermen to go to Washington to argue for the refund to the city of $648,444 paid by four real estate experts as income taxes. The money in question was part of the loot obtained by the experts from the city treasury and, to get it back for Chicago, Mr. Schiller wrote a brief in which he recounted for the information of federal tax officials some of the more salient facts in the conspiracy. Those facts are familiar enough to Chicagoans. Mr. Schiller was revealing no secrets when he disclosed that Mayor Thompson and other city officials involved in the proceeding have been ordered by the court to return, with interest, the $1,500,000, approximately, which they abstracted from the city funds.

Mr. Schiller had no more than submitted his brief when Sam Ettelson, the corporation counsel who had served as Thompson's lawyer in the suit and had lost it, ordered Mr. Schiller to withdraw his brief and come back to Chicago to revise it. Mr. Schiller says that he was instructed to strike out all references to the mayor as a conspirator, though to do so would emasculate his case. Mr. Schiller says he cannot go on with the case if he must take orders from Ettelson, and he asks the city council for authorization to ignore Ettelson and his orders.

No more accurate test of the qualifications of an alderman for office could be desired than a vote on Mr. Schiller's request for authorization to proceed unhampered. The city is in a desperate position for lack of money. The financial crisis was created in large part by Thompson and his satellites and it was created by just such operations as the inordinate experts' fees. A vote to tie Mr. Schiller's hands at this time is a vote for municipal bankruptcy and for bigger and better looting of the city's treasury.

The council is in a position to force its will in this matter. If there is a spark of leadership among the aldermen, the council can force Ettelson either to send Schiller back with his original brief or to resign his office of counsel to the corporation. Ettelson is asking the aldermen for money to run his office next year. Legislative control of the purse strings has, in the past, served as a mighty weapon against executive tyranny and corruption, and it would work in this instance as well as it did when parliament was struggling against the crown. The quality of the present city council is plainly indicated by the fact that, in the face of Mr. Ettelson's plain betrayal of the public interest on behalf of his patron and former client, the council finance committee has voted to increase Mr. Ettelson's appropriation by $146,000 over the first estimate of his requirements. A surrender on the tax refund is therefore probable.

Chicago is supposed to be a council governed city. If the council allows Schiller to be silenced it will have abdicated in favor of the corporation counsel. No further proof will be required that the government of Chicago is the private perquisite of Sam Ettelson, to be employed as he may direct in the interest of his friends and former clients.

THE PRISON PROBLEM.

The comment of British critics on the prevalence of riots among prisoners in American penitentiaries has been reasonable. The mutiny in the Auburn, N. Y., prison, which was the fifth serious revolt of prisoners in the United States within five months, prompted British observers to compare conditions in their penitentiaries with ours. The comparison is helpful. There has been no organized prison outbreak in England in recent times.

One of the incomprehensible features of American prison administration to Englishmen is the extension of privileges to the convicts. Privilege is what a prisoner forfeits in England. Those concessions to prisoners, by the abuse of which on the part of the convicts, or by the incompetence, laxness, or connivance of guards, arms are smuggled into the penitentiaries are not granted to British felons. We believe that this difference explains to a considerable extent our predicament and British security. There has been a propaganda on the part of sentimentalists to weaken the force of prison discipline in the United States. Discipline has been confused with brutality and those with a tear for the prisoner have been loath to make him submit to inconveniences which must be imposed for the protection of society. Together with this interference by amateur criminologists has gone a slackness in prison administration, which, as the British charge, may be blamed largely to the deficiencies of political appointees.

Overcrowding is another prison evil in America which the British do not suffer. It is inconceivable to British administrators that there should be more than one prisoner in a cell. But here there are four state prisons and, we believe, no federal penitentiaries in which two, three, four, or five convicts do not share the same cell. That, as the British point out, is an invitation to conspiracy. There can be no doubt that some of our recent prison outbreaks were originated by a group of cellmates.

Furthermore, the crowding of cells is real brutality. This arrangement is unsanitary and squalid. It is not salutary punishment. It is likely to breed fierce resentment, sufficient to inspire a jail break plot. And it does not prepare the prisoner for a return to a decent existence after he has served his sentence.

DRY KANSAS AND RESPECT FOR LAW.

Senator Walsh of Montana in the debate over the appointment of Richard J. Hopkins of the Kansas Supreme court to the federal District court opposed confirmation on the ground that the Kansas state constitution forbids the judge to accept. A Kansas judge, under the constitution which he is sworn to obey, cannot accept another office during his tenure.

Hopkins is the Kansas judge who took money from the Anti-Saloon league for lecturing trips. The Kansas drys demand that he be put on the federal bench. Attorney General Mitchell, at the request of President Hoover, investigated his record and reported him to be not qualified for the federal judiciary. At that time the President considered the incident as closed and expected the Kansas senators, Capper and Allen, to give him the name of a man who would be qualified. They refused to do any such thing. The Kansas drys would have no other man and Capper and Allen made it plain that they would have their way or make trouble for the administration. Thereupon the administration conceded the point. Mr. Mitchell modified his opinion, finding that Judge Hopkins might be better than his record indicated. The nomination was submitted to the senate.

Opposition naturally arose to the giving of judicial representation to such a body as the Anti-Saloon league, but Senator Walsh's objection raised the point of respect for law. It is much spoken of in Washington, particularly by drys of the Capper-Allen type. These dry senators, confronted with the prohibition in their own state constitution, were naïve in their lack of concern. That inhibition? Why pay any attention to that? It oughtn't to interfere in such a case.

Walsh stood by his principles. If there were to be any respect for the law, it had to be inclusive. He mistakes the temper of the drys. They have no respect for any constitutional provisions or limitations other than the eighteenth amendment. That is the cardinal doctrine of prohibition.

MORE GOVERNMENT BY INJUNCTION.

THE TRIBUNE'S effective campaigns in the past against loan sharks will protect us, we think, from any rational suspicion of sympathy for these gentry, but we do not share the Russell Sage Foundation's evident gratification at a recent decision of the Kansas Supreme court sustaining a sweeping injunction against defendants charged with usury on the ground that loan sharks are public nuisances.

There is a civil statute in Kansas prohibiting usury and prescribing as a penalty the loss of all interest. There is no criminal statute against usury, and the civil penalty was found ineffective. The department of remedial loans of the Sage Foundation reports that in the last several months various loan shark chains have embarked on a program to break down the various small loan laws intending to regulate the lending of small sums. There being no criminal statute, the state brought proceedings in equity against several defendants and asked injunctions restraining them from making small loans in excess of the legal rates and for a receiver to wind up the defendants' business. This the lower court refused to do, but the state Supreme court reversed the decision on the ground stated.

We think this another example of the adage that hard cases make bad law. It is also another instance of the gradual extension of the use of the injunction as a short cut to meet evils which the criminal law does not but should reach. This is the impatience of shortsighted reform which in many directions is infringing directly or indirectly principles of constitutional right for the sake of striking immediately at some obvious wrong. By interpretation usury which is not defined as a crime or misdemeanor in Kansas is held a nuisance and the equity process is used to deprive a defendant of the right of trial by a jury of his peers.

The proper method of dealing with the evil complained of by the foundation was to make usury a felony or misdemeanor, not to stretch the injunction process simply because the present criminal law happens to be inapplicable. The injunction process is already a catch-all and needs sharper delimitation. It is no objection that evildoers prosecuted criminally can claim the right of trial by jury, for, as the founders of our constitutional system wisely believed, ineffective enforcement of criminal law is a lesser evil than the depriving of the citizen of his right to trial by jury. It is not the function of equity to supply the deficiencies of criminal law, much less to evade and nullify civil guarantees by judicial interpretations extending the power of the judiciary.

FARM RELIEF UNDER FIRE.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

In any test of strength, outside the courts, between the federal farm bureau and the grain commission dealers, it may be assumed the governmental agency will win. But far reaching complications are possible effects of the fight now in the making over the marketing of grains. It already seems to have ranged two of President Hoover's most valued coadjutors, who also are his personal friends, on opposite sides of the contest. The President has been asked by the commission men for relief from the destruction of their business which is threatened by the farmers' marketing and price stabilizing organization now being created with the help of the farm board. He has, it is understood, refused to interfere.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, cannot be expected to do otherwise than oppose vigorously any attempt to limit the success of the farm relief program. On the other side, apparently, is Julius H. Barnes, chief of the council organized by the President's suggestion to coordinate business and stabilize it in colperation with governmental agencies. He presided over a conference of the grain commission men which planned systematic opposition to the present administration of the farm board. The conflict, unless the differences can be adjusted, promises to be bitter and prolonged. The President's resourcefulness is likely to be put to a severe test in making the adjustments.

LONGEVITY IN AMERICA.

NOT long since this column carried a letter from E. D., who told of longevity in his family. The average age of his relatives at death was about 78, or about twenty years above the American average. Where E. D. made his mistake was in challenging anybody to produce so good a family record. So many reports came in following the publication of that challenge that printing them has become impracticable. Most of the families reporting surpassed E. D.'s family in their longevity records and some were far in advance.

One man, 83 years of age, wrote that his family average was slightly less than seventy-nine years. He writes: "I lived near Abraham Lincoln and remember him well as a country lawyer. I am hale and hearty, spend my summers with my eldest child, who is 64, on a farm in Kentucky, where I walk on an average of one to three miles a day, picking wild berries or just tramping the woods. I accompany my great-grandsons to the creek and swim races with them. Am fond of detective stories and spend much of my time in winter reading them."

The number of families in which the only deaths prior to seventy years of age were those due to mechanical accidents or disease accidents is suggestive that longevity is largely a matter of inheritance, and for this there is ample proof. The members of certain racial stocks tend to live longer than the average. There are certain prepotent individuals who mark their descendants for longevity even unto the third and fourth generation. In spite of out-crosses with shortlived families, the tendency to longevity persists as a family quality. And doubtless it is a good quality. It connotes hardness of constitution, bodily vigor and resistance to disease during infancy, childhood and the earlier years of maturity and senescence. As to whether old age of itself is of value depends much on such qualities as disposition, character, energy, and capacity. Speaking generally, the span of life is increasing faster than the provisions of society for using the capabilities of old people. Unless society speeds up in its adjustments, growth of longevity is due to cause hardships.

IT'S CONTAGIOUS.

Mrs. F. H. asks:

1. Is erysipelas contagious? A friend said she had it five times on the same day each year.
2. Does living in hot, dry air predispose to colds?
3. Should water be kept boiling in such a room?
4. My five small children get colds easily. Should they play outside?
5. When a child gets a cold should he be kept indoors?

REPLY.

1. Yes. I do not know why your friend has had it so frequently.
2. Yes.
3. Yes.
4. Yes. Playing in the sunshine and open air builds up resistance.
5. Keep him in bed during the fever stage. After that, let him out in the sunshine and open air.

CORNET HELPS THE HEALTH.

Mrs. M. C. L. writes:

1. Is playing the cornet beneficial to the lungs?
2. Would playing this instrument be harmful in any way to an 11 year old girl?

REPLY.

1. No. Like deep breathing it is a good exercise for the muscles of the chest and neck. Therefore, it may help to overcome round shoulders. Also, like deep breathing, it is good to warm the feet on a cold day. But it does the lungs no good.
2. I don't think so.

IT IS NOT BAD.

M. D. writes: Is buttermilk bad for one who has acidity?

REPLY.

No.

SPASTIC COLON DEFINED.

H. C. T. writes:

1. Will you kindly tell me what a spastic colon is?
2. Can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. A condition in which the colon is irritated and irritable. As a rule, it is associated with constipation.
2. Many cases are cured by dieting.

NO HEAD TAX—NO CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I was born in Canada and came here with my two children, also Canadian born, in October, 1923. My husband arrived five months earlier. We paid no head tax. Can we become citizens? L. M.

The statement that the alien and her husband and children paid no head tax when they entered the United States in October, 1923, indicates that they did not make legal entry under the immigration laws, and if this be the case none of them is entitled to naturalization until after they shall have made legal entry for permanent residence.
H. L. ROETHE,
Acting District Director of Naturalization.

IMPROVING NEIGHBOR'S FENCE.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it lawful to string barbed wire above my neighbor's fence between our lots in rear end of lot, not up to the alley, if I stay 6 inches inside of my lot line—within city limits? J. H.

Yes, if you do not run it along the street line. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OBSERVERS DISAGREE.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—For some months past the Pennsylvania Railroad company's subway at West Garfield boulevard and Stewart avenue has been in total darkness, and as the long, dark nights of the winter season are now at hand it would be a great improvement to light the subway during the night hours. A. J. J.

It is not true that this subway has been in total darkness. There were a number of lamps broken, but these have been replaced and the subway is now fully lighted. We thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

HIS BIRTHDAY.

What did Mary give? What did she say
To her little Son on Christmas day?
Did she whisper to him with a smile and tear
"I wish you a happy birthday, dear"?
Did she give him a cake or a home made toy
When Jesus was only a little boy?
Or didn't she have any money at all
For a birthday gift, however small?
Oh, a mother heart would be very sad
If it had no gift for a little lad!
But surely she found, as mothers do,
Somewhere, somehow, a gift or two.
I like to believe that she did. Don't you?
MARJORIE F. W.

UP TO THE MINUTE suggestions for a suitable Christmas present: Bottle of chilblain cure, snowshoes, alpenstock, buffalo hide, igloo, compass, ice breaker, snow plow, or polar bear pants.

AND SPEAKING OF CHRISTMAS presents, we would like dear old jovial Mr. Claus to leave us one of his sleighs and a team of reindeers so we could drive down to our office and back every day. We are so tired of telling the taxi driver when we go home, "Corner of State and Goethe streets" and having him turn around and say, "Corner of State an' wot?" And after much futile conversation we finally have to say, "State and Goeasy," and it does hurt us to, and he mumbles, "Oh, sure, Goeasy street; I didn't git yuh!" And think of us, us who have been in Johann Wolfgang von Goethe's home town of Weimar and laid a little bunch of flowers in front of his statue, and who love to read again and again his Wilhelm Meister being compelled to pronounce him "Goeasy." Ah, Santa, one of your sleighs and a pair of reindeers, if you please.

A YARN FROM WOOLLEN UNDERWEAR.

Sir: Packing my bags for a year-end on the Pacific coast with a daughter and two grandsons, as I wrapped the underwear in tissue paper my mind went back to a Kansas Christmas 44 years ago in which underwear played a tragic part.

I suppose underlying economic conditions were "fundamentally sound" at that time, but I owned only one suit of heavy underwear and being invited to spend Christmas in a small Kansas town, the invitation being extended by Mr. and Mrs. B. and the three Miss B.'s, whom I had known in England, I decided to go to their party clean. So I washed my suit of underwear early in the morning of Dec. 23. I was then, and still am, nonexpert on laundry technique, and to my horror I discovered about two hours before train departure that my alleged "woollies" contained more than a trace of precipitation.

Suddenly inspiration pointed the way. Taking a large dishpan, lining it with paper, I put the "woollies" therein and inserted the pan in the oven of the kitchen stove, which was the heat unit of the big basement room in which three other poverty stricken youngsters and I were batching it. No housewife ever watched and poked a roast more vigilantly than I did my underthings, but alas, I fell asleep at the switch. Suddenly my nostrils were assailed by an odor which I have learned to recognize as coming from smoldering rags and the detritus that enter into "woollen" underwear at 87c a suit. Hastily I opened the oven door, but I was too late. My only suit of underwear was overdone!

So your correspondent journeyed forth sans underwear, and what do you think Mr. B. had given his daughters for a Christmas present? Answer: A sleigh! J. K.

P. S.: After the first ride I tried to improvise underwear consisting of the Leavenworth Times, but the noise I made evoked too many embarrassing questions and, might I say, situations. J. K.

WE READ with languid interest yesterday reports from Dick Byrd and his expedition down at the South Pole. We wish we were a polar explorer so that we would be out of all this cold weather.

SOTTO VOCE.

We hoped we wouldn't have to remind you this year. We hoped you would remember. And some of you have. A. McC. asked us to send 750 Linebooks to the ex-service men still in hospitals from her and E. McC.; S. M. H. sent 50; Marge McD., M. E. H., China Lee, and one or two who prefer to be anonymous have also given generously of what they could afford so that men who sacrificed so much eleven years ago might know they are, at least, not forgotten. But as letters of appeal come in every day from hospitals all over the country where you have sent Linebooks in former years, and remind us that there are thirty thousand and more of these lads who will spend Christmas in wheel chairs and narrow white beds, we wonder if you wouldn't like to give something, however small, to brighten their day. Of course you would. Everybody would. Merry Christmas to you, buddies, and God bless you every one.

DEAR PREFERENCE.

Snow, snow over the graying city;
Snow, snow over the Western range . . .
Nevertheless you say that it is pretty.
Nevertheless I cry that it is strange,
Alien to one in whose heart August, stormy
But warm and passionate, is breathing still.
Winter can hold no benediction for me,
Only a whisper of death, only a chill
Threatening. Friendless I walk the streets of December.

Summer was beauty for me, who was August's lover.
Snow cannot quiet a heart that can still remember
All it endeavors to say we shall not recover.
Oh, I remember another too well to know
SHEILA STUART.

11 DAYS since we've seen the sun in this region. You remember the sun? Why, of course, you do! Big round white thing, gets up in the east every morning and goes over the south side and disappears at evening somewhere west of Oak Park. Of course you remember the sun! Think now, think hard! Try to remember.

AND PHIL DUPP says that if Santa brings him any neckties or sox he does hope he'll bring a can of shoe polish, too.

HEY, HANK! Here we are with the last line. Here, under this big snowdrift. Can you hear us? Well, dig in deep wherever you are; you may get to us after all. Keep shoveling! Can't you get a snow plow? Well, no use, Hank, we're too deep under the snow. You can't dig us out now. There'll be no last line today. R. H. L.

WE GOT SERVICE ON THAT ORDER

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 20, 1864.

NASHVILLE. — The rebel army under Gen. Hood has retreated beyond Franklin and Gen. Thomas is still in pursuit. Little fighting of consequence occurred today. We are still bringing in prisoners. It is reported that Gen. Cheatham with his whole command has been captured.

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Thomas, near Spring Hill, south of Nashville, reported: "The enemy has been vigorously pursued today, but has studiously avoided any attack by our forces." Gen. Thomas quotes an order from Gen. Breckinridge, found in the rebel camp in East Tennessee, in which he recites that it is of vital importance to husband lead, and continues: "All lead which can be gleaned from battlefields or otherwise obtained will be collected by the brigade ordnance officers and be sent to the nearest arsenal."

DUBUQUE, Ia.—Gen. Sully received a report from his adjutant, Capt. Pell, whom he left at Fort Sully, D. T., to treat with belligerent Indians, in which he says the Indians have come in to sue for peace, and have given up Mrs. Kelly, taken by them in Minnesota at the time of the massacre in 1862, whose fate has excited so much interest throughout the country.

CHICAGO.—Julius D. Roberts of Du Page, Will county, Ill., and Miss Cornelia Bishop of Northfield were married at the residence of the bride on Dec. 15 by the Rev. M. Henry Smith. G. H. Wheeler of Chicago and Miss Alice J. Lord, daughter of Gilderoy Lord of Watertown, N. Y., were married in the latter place on Dec. 15 by the Rev. Theodore Babcock.

DECEMBER 20, 1899.

MANILA.—A soldier's death was today the lot of Maj. Gen. Henry W. Lawton. The hero of the Indian wars was shot to death while on the firing line before San Mateo. A bullet from a Filipino rifle pierced his breast and he fell, uttering only the words, "I am shot." He died almost immediately after being hit. Gen. Lawton, always courageous to a degree bordering on recklessness, had exposed himself to the fire of the rebel sharpshooters. His staff officers had warned him of his peril and pointed to bullets as they clipped the grass at his feet. He merely laughed, and, still smiling, he was hit. He was 56 years old. His career as a soldier began when the governor of Indiana called for "three months" men in 1861. He was a first lieutenant at the age of 18, and was mustered out in 1865 as lieutenant colonel. Later he was appointed a lieutenant in the regular army, then was made captain in the Fourth cavalry. He took a leading part in the Indian wars and personally captured Geronimo, the noted Apache chief. When the war with Spain came he was given an infantry command and participated in several of the hardest battles in Cuba.

CHICAGO.—The engagement is announced of Miss Frances Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rollin A. Keyes, and Harry Putnam Pearsons.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 20, 1919.

DUBLIN.—A desperate attempt was made today to assassinate Viscount French, lord lieutenant of Ireland and former commander of the British forces in France. The plot failed. The attackers, from 10 to 30 men, fired bullets and hurled bombs at the armored car in which the lord lieutenant was riding. His chauffeur was wounded and in the fight one of the assassins was killed and three members of the military escort were wounded. The other attackers escaped.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Victor L. Berger, Socialist, was victorious today at the special congressional election called in the Fifth Wisconsin district to fill the vacancy caused by the refusal of the house to seat him. He defeated Henry H. Bodenstab, Republican, by a vote of 24,367 to 19,561.

CHICAGO.—Maestro Cleofonte Campanini, general director of the Chicago grand opera and a leader in developing appreciation of music in Chicago, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital.

ROUEN, France.—Capt. Sir John Alcock, who with Lieut. Arthur W. Brown made the first nonstop airplane flight across the Atlantic, died today of injuries received in a plane crash.

SUBMERGED IN WORLD COURT.

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 16.—The league of nations court of international justice is a branch of the league of nations, established by it and governed by it. Article fourteen of the Versailles league of nations pact established the court. The United States did not approve of the league, or the establishment of the court. Article four of the act of the league of nations creating the court is as follows:

"The members of the court shall be elected by the assembly and by the council [of the league of nations] from a list of persons nominated by the national groups in the court of arbitration."

If the United States joins the league of nations court it will have no voice in nominating or electing the judges of the court, not even in electing its own member of the court. The United States cannot afford to be a member of or support a court composed of individuals whose fitness for the place it has no means of knowing and in whose election it takes no part. The league of nations elects the judges of its own court. The United States cannot afford to trust its affairs to the league in which it has voted a lack of confidence. Under the plan of organizing the court, the United States would not be allowed to nominate even its own member of the court.

Article five of the act creating the world court is as follows:

"At least three months before the date of the election the secretary general of the league of nations shall address a written request to the members of the court of arbitration belonging to the states mentioned in the annex to the covenant, or to the states which join the league subsequently, and to the persons appointed within a given time by national groups, for the nomination of persons in a position to accept the duties of a member of the court."

If the United States joins the league of nations court it would have to abide by the nominations made by The Hague tribunal. The Hague court might nominate a judge from the United States and it might not do so. Article ten of the league of nations court provides that:

"Those candidates who obtain an absolute majority of votes in the assembly and council [of the league of nations] shall be considered as elected."

The United States is asked to permit The Hague arbitration court to nominate judges for the world court. If The Hague court sees fit to nominate an American, and if the council and assembly of the league of nations (to which we do not belong) see fit to elect an American, the United States might have one member of a court of fifteen. In case of any international friction in which the United States happened to be involved, the chance of an American candidate being elected would be very remote. If an American candidate for judge should successfully run the gantlet of being nominated by The Hague court and should succeed in being elected by the council and assembly of the league of nations, in which the United States takes no part, still he would not be sure of holding his seat for a single day.

Article eighteen of the world court provides that:

"A member of the court cannot be dismissed unless in the unanimous opinion of the other members he has ceased to fulfill the required conditions. Formal notification thereof shall be made to the secretary general of the league of nations by the registrar. This notification makes the place vacant."

By implication, article eighteen provides that any member of the court may be dismissed when the other members of the court think he has ceased to fulfill the "required conditions." Concerning what these "required conditions" are or may be, the act is silent. These conditions may be anything the other members of the court decide, no matter how trivial.

What would the voters of the United States say if asked to vote for a law giving the justices of the Supreme court of the United States power to dismiss any member of the court by a unanimous vote of all the other justices? Such a proposition, if submitted to a vote, would not get to first base. Yet that is exactly the thing we are asked to approve if we join the world court.

Then again, article twenty-four of the world court provides that:

"If for some special reason a member of the court considers that he [a judge] should not take part in the decision of a particular case, he shall so inform the president. If the president [of the court] considers that for some special reason one of the members of the court should not sit on a particular case he shall give him notice accordingly. If in any such case the member of the court and the president disagree the matter shall be settled by the decision of the court."

Suppose we have an American judge (a member of this court) and a question arises involving the Monroe Doctrine or our intervention in Nicaragua or the Haiti trouble, and the president of the court says: "Mr. American Judge, we cannot have you sit in this case, for the views of the United States do not coincide with the rest of the world. You are, therefore, disqualified to sit in this case." If the other members of the court approve of the president's ruling the American judge could be sent to the rear, regardless of how vital the question under consideration might be to the United States. The same is true of any other national complication in which the United States might have a vital interest.

The most serious objection to our participating in the activities of the world court is this: We sit in a court, participating in its deliberations and judgments, which the league of nations is required to enforce. Can we with any respect sit in this court advising and helping to direct the activities of the league of nations without shouldering any part of the trouble, expenses, or liability in enforcing the decrees of the court? Either we should join the league of nations or stay out of it entirely. There can be no half-hearted partnership in this enterprise.

A judgment of a court without means to enforce its decree is a mere shadow—an illusion. To render the decrees of this world court of any value they must be made effective by force, armed force if necessary. Articles nine and ten of the league of nations provide for the enforcement of the decrees of the world court by armed force.

Is the United States willing to again send its army and navy abroad to enforce the decrees of the world court? We have had one experience in sending Americans overseas to settle European quarrels. One such experience ought to be sufficient. H. R. SPENCER.

FLYING NEWS.

Troy, O., Dec. 16.—We have seen Mr. McCutcheon's air mail drawing from the front page of the Dec. 12 Tribune and want to thank you and him for it.

So much flying is being done, not only on the air lines but by individuals, that it is not news except in case of accident, and we want you to know that we appreciate this very constructive work you are doing. ROBERT E. LEE.

OUR RESPONSIBILITIES IN HAITI.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—In your editorial, "Our Responsibilities in Haiti," you severely berate "the ideologues who will oppose any policy that fails to fit into their formulas."

Why use the expression "their formulas"? Why not say "our" formulas meaning, of course, the formulas of the constitution of the United States?

The military forces of the United States are in Haiti and Nicaragua contrary to the constitution of the United States. You, of course, know that congress not the President, has power to declare war. Did congress declare war on Haiti or Nicaragua? If not, by what constitutional authority were the military forces sent into those countries and authorized to engage in acts of war?

Moreover, we should like to know by what logic you can approve what Hoover intends to do in Haiti when you condemned Wilson for sending the military forces into Haiti in the first place.
ERNEST BRADSHAW.

CONGESTION IN PRISONS.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—In view of the alarming frequency of revolt and killings in our prisons, would it not be well to first remove the main cause instead of building larger prisons?

Our prisons are crowded to an intolerable degree by violators of the Volstead law and life is of little value to the inmates, so they take a desperate chance and will continue to do so under present conditions. Repeal the Volstead law and, with a slight increase each year, our jails will be adequate. It is a stinging rebuke and disgrace to our present civilization that such excessive punishment as life for a pint is given to one guilty of a petty misdemeanor. DR. C. S. FAIR.

9 RELATIVES AID TO EFFICIENCY, KEGEL ASSERTS

Explains Why They Are on His Pay Roll.

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, city health commissioner, explained yesterday that he needed eight relatives of himself and his wife on his department's pay roll in order to keep in connection with his 1,400 other employes. The commissioner pointed out that a stranger in office must have friends around him if he hopes to function efficiently.

Certain health department employes, who expressed a desire that their names be not mentioned, recalled that Dr. Kegel was appointed by Mayor Thompson on Dec. 1, 1927, more than two years ago. They expressed a wonder as to what period of time must elapse before an official may lose his feeling of strangeness and find safe in discarding his liaison clerk.

Doctor Makes Comment.

"It sounds to me as if Dr. Kegel meant that he was using his relatives to observe the rest of us," remarked one doctor. "Surely, after two years in office, he is sufficiently familiar with all his employes to know which ones are efficient without using a liaison system."

But Dr. Kegel insisted that his mother-in-law, two sisters, his father-in-law's brother, his father-in-law, his wife's brother, his wife's sister's husband, and his wife's aunt's son by a former marriage formed a desirable cabinet to aid him in his administrative duties.

Reports Prove of Value.

"I came into the department a stranger," said Dr. Kegel. "I needed a number of people I had known long to keep me in touch with the employes. I couldn't very well get doctors to quit their practice and take clerical jobs to help me. So I put on relatives.

"Thanks to my relatives and to other changes in the office, I have increased the amount of work accomplished. The relatives work every day and their reports to me give me valuable information on office work as a whole."

PHOTOGRAPHER FOUND DEAD.

Carbondale, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—His pipe and a newspaper at his side, the body of J. V. Russell, 60, a photographer, was found in his studio here. A coroner's jury today said that Russell had died probably from heart disease.

EXPERTS DRAW $142,029 FROM CITY TREASURY

November Payment Shows Increase.

The city treasury disbursed $142,029 during November for the services of the city's experts—legal, real estate, and otherwise—according to the monthly voucher list transmitted to the city clerk yesterday by City Controller Schmidt. The November payments, the records show, rank high in comparison with the voucher lists of the first ten months of this year.

Administration followers, many of whom are employed by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and by Corporation Counsel Ettelson, are on the list for large amounts. They are paid on the pier diem basis at rates ranging from $20 to $100 a day. Some of the special employes figure their day, according to their bills, as five hours of work.

Those who received more than $1,000 and the services for which they were paid, are as follows:

LEGAL.

Ralph R. Bradley	$47,827
Haight, Adcock & Banning	21,145
Benjamin F. Goldstein	14,390
*Hiram T. Gilbert	9,750
Harry F. Beam	4,800
Joseph J. Sullivan	3,800
John G. Drennan	3,360
Samuel L. Golan	2,690
E. B. Woolf	2,600
Edward C. Higgins	2,512
Albert H. Veeder	2,200
Frederick A. Bangs	2,000
Eugene Bernstein	1,349
Harry Klatzco	1,050

REAL ESTATE VALUATORS.

Harry Goldstine	$ 2,700
Walter E. Maas	1,125
Lee J. Strauss	1,100

*One bill for $8,250 was marked "not paid."

David Wallace, engineer, was listed as receiving $2,700, and G. M. Posner, building valuator, $2,600. The bills of investigators and stenographers and items for personal services at less than $1,000 a month completed the voucher list.

A number of these experts, according to predictions, will be dropped from the city's pay rolls next year. With the depletion of bond funds, out of which many are paid, and with no new bond issues voted, the personal service employes will either be dismissed or given jobs on a yearly salary and on the regular city hall pay rolls, it was said.

Strong Quake in Honduras; Catastrophe Is Feared

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A strong earthquake was felt last night in the Santa Rosa, Copan, and northwestern districts. Some damage occurred in Santa Rosa, and there were fears here that a more serious catastrophe may have occurred somewhere.

LONNQUIST NOT SURE HE'LL RUN FOR COUNTY JOB

Old Line Reformers Fear New Virtue Cries.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With all the old line political organizations turning toward reform as the way out of their difficulties with the voters, there were indications yesterday that the bred-in-the-bone reformers have begun to fear their stuff will be stolen and, as a consequence, have started running around in circles.

That was the impression of some of the outside observers at a luncheon at the Hotel La Salle. It was arranged by Axel Lonnquist and his associates who call themselves the Business Men's Republican organization. The admitted purpose was to ask Mr. Lonnquist to run for the presidency of the county board. The same procedure has been followed in the last two weeks with three of the Lonnquist candidates for membership on the board. Each of the three accepted.

Will Consider Acceptance.

But when it came to Mr. Lonnquist, even some of those supporting the movement who thought they knew what was going to happen, were surprised when he failed to accept. What he said was that he would give the subject his serious consideration.

In the meantime the same observers were interested in noting that the financial machinery of the organization seemed to be in the hands of representatives of the Better Government association. They not only wore reception committee badges but they passed out the blank checks and pledge cards promising contributions and collected them. Most active in this group was E. J. Davis, former superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

See Unity in Two Groups.

And on top of this, at the close of the meeting, newspaper men learned that Mr. Lonnquist's organization and publicity activities are now centered in the same Hotel La Salle rooms occupied by the recently incorporated People's Republican organization, an effort to capitalize the momentum that gathered behind the "People's Ticket Against Coalition" in the November judicial election.

This information was supplemented by a statement that William F. Gailing, campaign director of this latter organization, is in charge of the organization work for the Lonnquist group.

See Changed Attitude.

While no amalgamation has been announced, the combination of operations from a joint headquarters led observers to believe that the promoters of each of the two reform groups have dropped their earlier ideas that they could defeat the political organizations single handed.

Chairman Snow and the other leaders of the Republican committee have expressed a willingness to have their proposed citizens' committee consider all proposed candidates including those indorsed by the Lonnquist group.

ARMED PLANES PROPOSED FOR U. S. DRY WORK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Construction of seven seaplanes, mounted with machine guns, to combat liquor and other smuggling and to aid in patrol and lifesaving work along the American coast awaits congressional approval of President Hoover's recommendation that $320,000 be appropriated in 1931 for this expense.

The coast guard already has an appropriation of $144,000 with which to construct seaplanes and has four such craft in use, but when the additional amount is appropriated the planes now in service will be discarded. The coast guard expects to start work on the new craft after next July 1.

RAIL WORKER WINS $55,000 IN INJURY SUIT

Walter Beplay, 43 years old, of Indianapolis, yesterday won a $55,000 settlement in his personal injury suit against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway before Circuit Judge H. Sterling Pomeroy. Beplay, who had suffered the loss of both legs and injury to his left arm in an accident in performance of his duty as a yard conductor, was suing for $100,000.

Before the case went to the jury, after three days of testimony, attorneys agreed on the settlement. It is said to be the largest ever made in Cook county for a personal injury.

Beplay was injured in Indianapolis on June 29, 1928. A coupling on a freight car failed to open while he was switching cars and he fell beneath the car's wheels. He was represented by Attorney H. H. Patterson.

THREE ALDERMEN TESTIFY TODAY IN JOB INQUIRY

The investigation into activities of the civil service commission is expected to reach a climax before the grand jury today, when three aldermen, an attorney; Thomas J. Houston, former president of the commission, and Edward J. Denemark, now a member of the commission, are called to testify.

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, in charge of the inquiry, said he would ask most of the witnesses called for this afternoon to sign immunity waivers. He refused to specify which witnesses will be requested to waive immunity, but it is known that Houston and Denemark are on the list.

Three Aldermen on List.

Ald. Robert R. Jackson [3d] and Louis B. Anderson [2d], both colored, and Ald. Berthold A. Cronson [4th], nephew of Corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson, are also on the witness list. Attorney Wilbur McGinness, 10 South La Salle street, who represented some reinstated policemen in getting back their jobs, completes the list of those subpoenaed for today.

Ald. Jackson and Anderson said last night that they would have no hesitancy in signing immunity waivers. They said they have nothing to fear and will gladly answer all questions asked by the grand jurors or prosecutors.

Carlos Ames, who succeeded Houston as president of the commission, was among the witnesses before the jury yesterday. He testified to the routine of the commission and the system of keeping records. His régime is not under investigation.

Secretary Signs Waiver.

James Osborne, secretary of the commission, who had previously refused to sign an immunity waiver, appeared yesterday and signed one. The substance of his testimony was concealed by Prosecutor Lavin, who said he was acting on orders of State's Attorney Swanson to suppress all evidence submitted to the grand jury. Anna Mae Kelly, private secretary to the commission president, and Elmer Doonan, a clerk, were the other witnesses before the jury yesterday.

The prosecutor said he expected the inquiry to go over into next week, but that he expected positive action before the December grand jury is disbanded.

POPE PRESCRIBES THE SILENT CURE TO FIGHT UNREST

Advises Laity; Confers Red Hat on 6 Cardinals.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Pope Pius in an encyclical made public today urged the laity of the Roman Catholic church to make frequent retreats for silence, contemplation, and prayer, and to participate more generally in church activities, as a means of combating modern unrest and preoccupations.

The pope, who recently emerged from a week's retreat in connection with the jubilee of his priesthood, said the spiritual exercises of retreat constituted "a remarkable school, in which the mind learns to reflect, the will strengthens itself, and the passions are dominated.

"Activity receives a direction, rule, and efficacious impulse," he said, "and the whole soul rises to its natal nobility and grandeur."

Urges Retreats Kept Private.

He declared that retreats might last for several days, or even entire months, but should not be too restricted. He preferred that they be carried out in private, because complete isolation permitted the soul to reflect upon itself and upon God.

The pontiff condemned "that continual and feverish pursuit of externals, that immoderate appetite for riches and pleasures, which, little by little, weaken the soul's noblest ideals.

"The greatest malady of the modern age, the principal source of evils we deplore, is the lack of reflection," he said.

Confers Red Hat on Six.

The pope today also imposed the red hat on six newly created cardinals, thus inducting them into the sacred college of princes of the church.

The pontiff was assisted in the ceremony, which was held principally in the Consistorial hall, by Cardinal Gaspari, papal secretary of state.

The new cardinals were the patriarch of Lisbon, Msgr. Emanuele Goncales Cerejeira; Archbishops Lavitrano of Palermo, Sicily; Minoretti of Genoa; McRory of Armagh, Ireland, and Verdier of Paris, and Msgr. Pacelli, papal nuncio at Berlin.

They bring the total number of cardinals to 63, of whom 33 are of non-Italian nationality, and 30 Italian.

CATHOLICS OF CHICAGO WILL HONOR POPE AT SPECIAL SERVICES

Chicago Catholics will celebrate the golden jubilee of the elevation to the priesthood of Pope Pius XI. today. Cardinal Mundelein has directed that the day be observed with special masses in honor of the anniversary in the churches of the archdiocese, and asks that all student and school children receive holy communion at 9 o'clock masses. Adult Catholics will observe the anniversary on Sunday, when Cardinal Mundelein will celebrate pontifical high mass at 11 at Holy Name cathedral.

POLICE TRACING NEW CLEWS IN HUNT FOR BURKE

Weather conditions yesterday hampered the search for Fred R. Burke, who killed Policeman Charles Skelly in St. Joseph, Mich., last Saturday and whose identity then was revealed as that of the leader in the Chicago massacre of last Valentine day. Reports from all over Michigan were that state police and local officers were still investigating vacant summer cottages and stopping cars on the road on the possibility that Burke might try to use the storm as cover for his traveling.

Chief of Police Thure Linde of Benton Harbor sent men to Kalamazoo upon hearing of the arrest there of a man named Lawrence Burke, whom he believed to be a brother of Fred Burke. The prisoner had been released.

At Mansfield, O., deputy sheriffs started on the trail of a man whom three citizens said resembled Burke. The reports came from different persons who encountered the suspect.

U. S. SAVING HAITI AS BRAZIL COFFEE RING BRINGS RUIN

Yank Has Cash Reserve; Plans Diversified Crops.

BY WILLIAM LAWSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Dec. 19.—President Hoover's investigating committee will find the reorganization and supervision of the Haitian financial system, aside from the military pacification of the country, probably one of the most important, and by the same token one of the least appreciated phases, of the American protectorate over this black republic. Under American occupation Haiti, which was bankrupt 15 years ago as a result of grafting and thieving officials, has not only made substantial progress toward the discharge of its public debt, but has built up the greatest cash reserve in its history.

Its bonds weathered the recent revolutionary crisis and the solution of its chief economic problems is in sight. Coffee, Haiti's principal product, is also its chief problem, and crop diversity is the solution, according to S. De la Rue, financial advisor of the republic and general receiver under the American occupation.

Brazil Rules Coffee Prices.

Coffee, which grows wild on the island, provides more than 75 per cent of the nation's purchasing power, but the price of Haitian coffee is entirely controlled by the quotations on Brazilian coffee. This fact is undoubtedly one of the factors which caused the unrest among the ignorant peasants. They were inflamed by designing politicians into blaming the sharp slump in coffee prices, during the last two months, on the American occupation, and into joining in the recent uprising which resulted in the present martial control.

When the United States took over the supervision of the Haitian government in 1915, it found an empty treasury, a staggering burden of debt, and a total national revenue from all sources of barely $3,000,000 a year. By eliminating graft and waste, reforming the tax system, applying a protective tariff on Haitian products, and the introduction of sound and efficient collection and accounting methods, the revenues have increased steadily until they have reached the unprecedented total of nearly $9,000,000 in the last year. In addition the national debt has been reduced from $30,000,000 in 1915 to $18,000,000.

More than half of the revenue which, prior to the occupation, would have gone into the pockets of the politicians then in control, has gone into national improvements of one kind or another.

New Markets Needed.

But the program which is generally believed to hold the solution of Haiti's economic problem, tangled as it is with the political situation, is the attempt undertaken by Mr. De la Rue to encourage crop diversity by finding foreign markets for other products.

For fourteen years before he came to Haiti Mr. De la Rue served as financial adviser to the Liberian republic, to Turkey, and San Domingo.

Brazilian coffee operators, operating under a so-called valorization scheme and with a full two years' supply of coffee in their warehouses, have seen the price of Santos grade coffee, by which the Haitian production is standardized, drop from $24.50 a hundred pounds on Oct. 9 to $17 on Dec. 15. Loans aggregating more than $130,000,000 on coffee must be met next April or the holdings will be taken over by the banks and sold in the open market at any price as long as it is near the 5 cents a pound advanced on it.

As the Brazilian coffee prices slumped the price of Haitian coffee, its market limited almost exclusively to France, slumped likewise. Haitian peasants who formerly got 20 cents a pound for their coffee are now getting 5 cents. Agitators, fearful that president Louis Borno will seek reelection in 1930, have ranged through the countryside telling the illiterate coffee harvesters that President Borno and the American occupation are responsible for the decline.

$4,000,000 Reserve Criticized.

"We have been sorely criticized here and in the United States," said Mr. De la Rue today, "for accumulating a cash reserve of $4,000,000. But it was fortunate that we did, because if the Brazilian coffee is dumped on the market it will force Haitian coffee prices down to the same level, and the reserves on hand will be sufficient to tide us over."

Mr. De la Rue revealed that in order to tide over the coming storm steps have been taken to open the American market to Haitian coffee. Negotiations with one of the largest grocery organizations in the United States, contemplating shipments of more than 1,000,000 pounds a year, are virtually concluded, he said.

In addition, Mr. De la Rue disclosed that corn products firms are investigating the possibility of importing their corn from Haiti instead of from Argentina which, if it is found practicable, will further encourage the peasants to turn from coffee harvesting to the actual production of other crops. A national commercial agency is to be opened in New York, equipped to represent the government as a marketing bureau.

U. S. OCCUPATION OF HAITI CALLED "WAR" BY LATIN AMERICANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 19.—A delegation from ten South and Central American republics called at the United States embassy here this afternoon and delivered a protest against the American intervention in Haiti. The delegates represented Cuba, Salvador, Mexico, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Bolivia, Argentina, Colombia, Peru, and Santo Domingo.

In the absence of Ambassador Edge the delegation was received by Harold L. Williamson, second secretary, who pointed out the diplomatic impossibility of the embassy forwarding the communication to Washington as requested.

The protest says in part:

"The territorial, economical and political expansion of the United States in the West Indies, Central and South America has reached such proportions that European and Latin American opinion calls it imperialism on the part of the American people, whose destinies are in the hands of a powerful oligarchy of bankers.

"From the Philippines to Porto Rico, Santo Domingo, Panama, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Haiti the United States policy is the dollar first, then the flag; first an ambassador, then a viceroy; first a civilizing mission, then the navy and marines with machine guns in so-called protection of lives and property.

"Strategically located in the Caribbean sea, which imperialistic Americans wish to make an American lake, Haiti, a rich island with fertile lands, is magnificently situated on the bay for a naval base."

GULF WATERWAY ISSUE CLARIFIED, RAINEY ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Nothing in the report of Charles E. Hughes, special master in the Chicago lake diversion case before the Supreme court of the United States, interferes with the lakes to the gulf waterway, Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] asserted today in analyzing its recommendations.

"It can be safely assumed that the Supreme court will enter a decree in the lake diversion case substantially as suggested by Special Master Hughes in his report, which has just been submitted to the Supreme court," said Mr. Rainey. "There is absolutely nothing in the report or in the suggested decree of the special master which interferes in any way with the lakes to the gulf deep waterway proposition."

Fishing May Be Revived.

"The special report of the master clarifies the entire situation. Under it the city of Chicago is required to establish within the next nine years sufficient purification plants to take care of her sewage and when the plants are finished pollution of the river from the Chicago sewage will be negligible and the great fish industry can return to the river.

"Chicago stands ready to construct such controlling works as may be necessary at lake outlets to preserve lake levels. The master's report merely finds that the present diversion is illegal. Congress may in the future authorize a sufficient diversion to operate the waterway, provided, of course, lake levels are preserved."

Good Feeling Forecast.

Representative Rainey professed to see the possibility of improved relations between the lake states and Mississippi river states as a result of the Hughes report.

"An era of good feeling between lake states and the Mississippi river states may result from this opinion," said Mr. Rainey. "This is indicated by the statement of Attorney General Bettman of Ohio in which he says, in effect, that Chicago and the lake states may as well understand that the Chicago water diversion matter has nothing to do with the proposed waterway between the lakes and the Mississippi river—this is an entirely distinct project and should stand upon its own bottom.

JAIL BREAKER IS CAPTURED.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Large increases in income tax collections for the first five and a half months of the present fiscal year had on Dec. 17 sent the government income to $198,086,767 more than was collected in the same period last year.

While the $171,353,800 increase in income tax receipts was $11,000,000 more than the decrease called for next year by the tax reduction bill already signed by President Hoover, government expenditures for the fiscal year to date have been $156,078,292 more than its income. The expenditures aggregated $1,541,732,840, but they were $67,469,690 less than spent in the similar period of last year.

The treasury announced that receipts and expenditures for the 1930 fiscal year showed that on Dec. 17 income tax collections had aggregated $358,428,169 as compared with $687,074,369 for the same period last year, while the government's total income since last July was $1,685,654,547.

GEORGE HUCKINS IS ARRESTED IN MISSOURI TOWN

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—George E. Huckins, son of Elmer S. Huckins, and associated with his father in a mysterious business that purported to pay investors from 26 to 52 per cent, was arrested here today on a warrant from Cedar Rapids, Ia.

Acting on information that a man registered at the Elms hotel was under hallucination that he was being persecuted by a baseball league, William A. Payne, chief of police of Excelsior Springs, investigated and discovered Huckins, who has been sought for several days for an alleged $3,000,000 swindle.

Huckins, according to Chief Payne, registered at the Elms hotel last Sunday as George Hodd of Chicago.

Since his arrival in Excelsior Springs, Huckins has been under a physician's care and has been attended by a nurse, who is reported to have accompanied him to the health resort.

The suspect's condition was so critical when he was arrested, according to Chief Payne, that he barely understood what was transpiring. Acting on the advice of Dr. J. E. Baird, who has been treating the man since his arrival in Excelsior Springs, the chief did not attempt to take him to police headquarters, but left him in the hospital.

JURY FINDS THAT FRANKLIN LIVES; FREES 4 ACCUSED

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A verdict of acquittal today freed the four men charged with first degree murder for the alleged slaying of Connie Franklin, eccentric farmhand in the St. James community of Stone county last March. The jury returned its verdict late this afternoon and thus settled the legal phase of the case which had been rife with stories of nightriders, whippings, murder, and brutal torture, but had failed to produce evidence of an actual killing.

The defense placed the burden of proof on the state by producing a man who was presented as Connie Franklin. He told a story on the stand yesterday of a drunken party involving him and the defendants, with maybe two or three others, and of his falling off a mule afterwards in a drunken stupor.

Awaking, ashamed because he had disappointed his sweetheart and realizing that she had refused to marry him, Franklin said, he then wandered away from St. James without knowing that a "murder story" would be told about him. This is the only explanation of facts concerning the disappearance.

But even after all this there are some that will always believe that Franklin was murdered. Many residents of Stone county still are concerned over the story told by Tiller Ruminer, 17 year old mountain girl and sweetheart of Franklin, of Ruben Harrell, respected deafmute in this section, and of Coleman Foster, a relative of Herman Greenway, one recently accused, and are inclined to think "there must be something wrong."

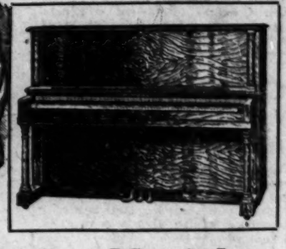

QUIZ SCHAFFNER ON CHARGES OF LAUNDRY RACKET

Abe Schaffner, alleged racketeer, was questioned at the state's attorney's office yesterday about his reported attempts to break in as an official of the Chicago Hand Laundry Owners' association. He was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller and then turned over to the Fillmore street police.

The police have a warrant for Schaffner, but refused to name the complainant. Schaffner, who is reported to be part owner of the Victory Wet Wash laundry, 3105 Harrison street, is accused by several laundry owners of intimidation.

LAREDO LOSES HOLIDAY TRADE OF MEXICANS

Stimson Is Attempting to Settle Quarrel.

Laredo, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP)—While business men of Laredo bemoaned a suddenly curtailed holiday trade, prospects for reopening the Mexican consulate at Laredo and again making Laredo a gateway to the south appeared anything but bright tonight.

Some encouragement was gleaned from the announcement that Gov. Moody had communicated with Secretary of State Stimson and that the secretary had promised to do what he could toward adjusting the difficulties. This encouragement was tempered, however, by the statement in Stimson's message to the effect that the Mexican government considered Laredo traffic could be diverted to another border point with no great difficulty.

Valls' Resignation Sought.

Advices were received from San Antonio that Consul General Santibanez there has said the ban on Laredo and Webb county will not be lifted until District Attorney John A. Valls, whose threat to arrest Plutarco Elias Calles precipitated the closing of the consulate, resigns, or until the pending indictments against Calles and other officials are dropped.

From Monterrey, Mexico, however, came the information that Calles on his stop there, said he did not approve of his government's action, and that Valls' activities should be disregarded.

Laredo trade, meanwhile, without the customs of Nuevo Laredo, Monterrey and other Mexican towns, has fallen off sharply, some merchants estimating the drop as great as 50 to 80 per cent.

"Retaliation" Is Denied.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson today notified Gov. Dan Moody that his department was "taking steps to see what, if anything, can be done" toward adjusting differences between the Mexican government and the city of Laredo.

He added, however, that the closing of the Laredo consulate seemed to be "in no sense a retaliation" for the latest attempt of District Attorney John A. Valls to arrest former President Calles, but rather "they feel that from several incidents extending over a period of time Laredo is not a safe point for their public servants to pass through in traveling."

The Mexican government apparently also feels, Stimson said, that traffic can be diverted to some other border point without great difficulty.

"The Mexican government finds it hard to understand," the message said, "why you [Moody] have not found it possible either by your authority or advice to ameliorate the conduct of the public officers of Webb county."

HYPOCRITE! CRIES CHINA AS RUSSIA DENIES ATTACKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—The nationalist government today applied the term "unctuous hypocricy" to Russia's denial of responsibility for the so-called Mongolian autonomy in the Barga district of North Manchuria. The statement of China's national government declared:

"It has been definitely learned that, despite the opening of the preliminary negotiations for the settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway controversy, the soviets are continuing hostile activities against China, inciting red Mongolians to attack and occupy Chinese territory, while at the same time they are declaiming with unctuous hypocricy that Russia is not connected with the Mongolian situation."

Three members aboard the international consular train returned to Harbin this morning. They were the French consular officer, Brun; the Italian consul, Grandi, and the Japanese official, Horie.

A telegram from Harbin tonight stated that United States Vice Consul T. Lilliestrom and Vice Consul Neville of Great Britain have remained at Pokudu, hoping to make another attempt to reach Hailar to investigate the extent of the destruction of American and British property from soviet air bombing as well as looting by Chinese troops.

The returning consular officers reported that, while Hailar is held by a small force of Mongols, the Chinese Eastern railway between Hailar and the Chinese-Russian boundary to Manchouli, is patrolled by red armored trains.

Why will Kruschen Salts make this great change for the better in me—it is natural for you to ask.

Because Kruschen is a blend of the 6 vitalizing salts Nature says your body must have to keep every organ, gland and nerve in the body buoyantly healthy.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one 85c bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 30 days. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Chicago's high flying Blackhawks had their wings clipped at Olympia tonight by the Detroit Cougars. The score was 4 to 3.

Chicago's goal in the first period came after little more than a minute of play. Ripley gave Ingram a pass and the third string forward skated in close to beat Beveridge with ease. Late in the session the rubber was driven past Gardiner, but not until after the whistle had blown. The play was called back.

Hay Scores for Cougars.

The Cougars lost little time getting down to work in the second session. Less than three minutes had expired when Cooper was chased into the corner, but slipped the rubber far back. Hay, skating in fast on the left wing, picked up the pass, went in close and lifted a knee high shot into the corner that Gardiner never had a chance to save.

Less than two minutes later Aurie played a lone hand in giving the Cougars the lead. He carried the rubber down the right wing and, seeing none of his teammates uncovered, circled the net and slipped the rubber into the corner before Gardiner could move across the goal mouth.

Chicago's second goal was one that Cook tossed out in front of the net after taking a pass from Miller. Lewis and two of his mates swung their sticks at the rolling rubber and one of them connected. Before Beveridge knew what it was all about the puck was driven into the net.

Cougars Show Superiority.

Although outscored in the first period when Ingram grabbed the only tally of the session, the Cougars had an edge over the Hawks in general play, but they found Gardiner an obstacle they could not beat down.

It was a different story in the second session, when the Cougars, after finally beating Gardiner, ran in two additional goals. Cook's score gave the Hawks hope, but Hays' second tally of the game again turned the tide to the Cougars.

JOLIAT'S 4 GOALS FEATURE WIN OF LES CANADIENS

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Back in the lineup after an absence enforced by an injured shoulder, Aurel Joliat scored four goals and led Les Canadiens of Montreal to a 7 to 2 victory over the New York Rangers here tonight. The victory was ample revenge for an 8 to 3 pasting the Canadiens absorbed at the hands of the Rangers in New York last week.

Joliat scored twice in the first period, once in the second, and once in the third.

Hunk Anderson to Assist Phelan, Says Coast Paper

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Post Intelligencer tomorrow will say that Heartley (Hunk) Anderson, head football coach at St. Louis university and former Notre Dame star, has accepted an offer to be assistant to Jimmy Phelan, who recently severed his Purdue university contract to become head football coach here at the University of Washington. Anderson, it is said, will resign his duties at St. Louis at once to accompany Phelan to Seattle after the first of the year.

THE GUMPS—WELCOME

N. Y. NOTRE DAME ALUMNI SPLIT ON ARMY TICKETS

Old Grads Seek More Select Clientele.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Out of the Notre Dame-Army football series another type of unrest has developed within the membership of the Notre Dame club, the New York alumni body. This unrest and the sense of social and political affront now pervading the Military academy may or may not be considered sufficient cause for the removal of the Notre Dame-Army game from New York to some other place, preferably but not necessarily on the eastern seaboard. A middle ground between South Bend, Ind., and West Point, with a seating capacity of approximately 80,000 and a population sufficiently enthusiastic and liberal to take up the tickets at $4 each, might be considered, I suppose.

The Army's reluctant conclusion that not only the city officials but the populace of New York were out of sympathy with the cadet corps and the evidences cited for this conclusion at the academy have been discussed recently in these dispatches. The disharmony among the Notre Dame alumni is another matter bearing, however, on the same idea that a change of scene, if it could be effected at no great sacrifice of gate receipts, would be good for all concerned.

Tickets Cause of Trouble.

This unhappiness among the Notre Dame old grads is a matter of the utmost delicacy, but I suppose that if I am to tell the story at all I must simply blurt the situation because choosey phrases could give no impression of the rousing degree of the disquiet.

Meaning no affront to the dignity of the distinguished alumni who now find themselves at outs within the brotherly bond of the club, I should say that the two factions have laid in supplies of throwing bricks, which they are tossing at one another with fine old Corkonian cries of "Who is"? and "I am, am I?"

The trouble began when the university decided many months ago to discontinue the old custom of distributing from 16,000 to 20,000 Notre Dame-Army tickets through the agency of the Notre Dame club of New York. Under this old practice there was an average minimum allotment of more than 100 tickets per member and the alumni undoubtedly were enabled to promote their social, professional and commercial relations by their distribution of these tickets among their connections.

The Notre Dame club added a tax of 50 cents on each ticked so han-

Greenleaf Regains Pocket Billiard Title; Wins, 125-69

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf of New York regained the world's pocket billiard championship tonight by defeating Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, 125 to 69, in 18 innings.

RALPH GREENLEAF.

The game was a playoff of a tie which resulted last night when Rudolph lost to Greenleaf in the last game of the 28 game tournament. Greenleaf was the only player who defeated Rudolph, and the new champion was defeated only by Marcel Camp of Detroit. Greenleaf won seven games and lost one. Rudolph won six and lost two.

The match was tensely contested throughout. Both contestants played on the defensive most of the time, making it a battle of safeties. Greenleaf miscued twice and fouled once, while Rudolph made four costly misses. The new champion's high run tonight was 44 and Rudolph's 23.

The victory was worth about $8,000 to Greenleaf. The first prize was $1,200 plus a percentage in the gate which would bring it to about $2,000. The world's champion also gets a $6,000 year contract from the National Billiard association.

Rudolph won $1,000, also a percentage in the gate and a $3,000 a year contract.

Greenleaf held the championship from 1919 until May, 1926, when it passed to Frank Taberski. He regained it the following fall, but lost it to Rudolph in a challenge match in New York in January, 1927. He won it back in 1928 in Chicago, but lost it to Taberski again in December of that year.

The score by innings:

RUDOLPH—0, 0, 0, 14, 12, 0, 0, 0, 3, 0, 23, 7, 0, 0, 0, 14, 2—75 [6 scratches, 17 innings]. Score, 69.

Ring Buffoonery Over; Boxers Return to Work

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bud Taylor, who never played first base in his life, will arrive in Chicago this morning for the windup of his training for a bout with Earl Mastro, next Friday night at the Chicago Stadium. Mastro, incidentally, in all his active athletic career, never lost a baseball in the sun.

With both fighters in town, gentlemen who constantly are struggling to bring out the finest things in pugilism will seek to stage a demonstration which, for ethics, as well as fighting, will shame all interlopers who have been accused of sullying the fair name of fights for cash prizes.

While these aesthetic partisans were greatly alarmed during the late lamented hulabaloo over invasions from other sports, they now look back on the formerly distressing episodes as a fine proof that fighting is a business all by itself, demanding physical excellence which other athletics do not approach.

So Bud and Earl, who are among the most rapid and constant battlers in the profession, fortunately are coming along just at the right time to impress upon the public the high physical rating of organized and professional fighting with the fists.

Here's Resolution of Ethics.

The committee on ethics, on the arrival of Mr. Taylor this morning, will submit the following ethical resolutions for the consideration of the two great little fighters:

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the committee on pugilistic ethics that certain clownish persons have attracted wide attention in the great sport of boxing, and

"Whereas, repartee, rather than fisticuffs, proved to be the chief talents of these interloping palookas, and

"Whereas, the aforementioned palookas from other sports, showed conclusively they were lacking in fistic stamina, ethical poise, and all the other noble attributes of pugilism.

"Be it resolved, that two real fighters now in our fair city stress the following points to show up these infringing bums:

"1. They shall talk modestly of their skill at all times.

"2. They shall not parade around night clubs, speakeasies, or other joints.

"3. They shall not use aliases. It is even suggested that Bud Taylor identify himself as Mr. Charles Taylor and that Earl also use his right name, which is Mr. Derly Maestro.

All Epithets Are Out.

"4. Neither fighter shall refer to the other as a frowsy bum, a four flusher, a palooka, an upstart, or a has been.

"5. They shall make no vulgar converse about large sums of money.

Mandell vs. McLarnin

MATCHMAKER NATE LEWIS of Chicago Stadium last night signed Jimmy McLarnin and Sammy Mandell for a return bout on Feb. 4. They will meet at 143 pounds, the weight at which McLarnin whipped the lightweight champion in their last battle. Mandell's title will not be involved.

Shires Reveals His Purpose in Life—$250,000 in Bank

C. Arthur Shires, White Sox first baseman, conqueror of the mysterious Dan Daly, and the victim of George Trafton, made his first appearance last night as an after dinner orator. C. Arthur addressed a gathering of newspaper men at the Drake hotel.

"I don't want to blow my own horn," said Arthur, "but I just want to say that when I came to Chicago I didn't have a dime. And when I got through playing first base for the White Sox I didn't have a nickel. You can call me crazy, but I want to say right here and now that before I leave Chicago I'm going to have a quarter of a million.

"I'm not the best baseball player in the world. I'm not a good basketball player. And I'm a bum fighter. But I know what the people want. They want something different, and I'm going to give it to them.

"When I stepped back into the ring after flooring Dan Daly in order to let a photog take my picture, folks said, 'That Art Shires is publicity crazy.' I want to tell you here and now I don't give a darn for publicity. But that photog had a wife and two kiddies to support and if he hadn't got that picture his managing editor would have fired him. That's Art—thinking of the other fellow.

"But you can't say that Art Shires hasn't got nerve. He stayed in there and did his best. I always will. And don't forget that the fellow who keeps trying keeps getting the dough. A lot of fellows work a year for $1,800. I worked five rounds and got it. I may be dumb, but I think the fellows who paid $5 for a seat to see me are dumber."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bruins were in top form last night. As a result they defeated the Rochester Centrals, 36 to 20, and evened the two game series with the eastern professional basketball squad.

How the Bruins acquired the habit of playing mediocre ball in one of every two game series is something Manager George Halas would give much to know. But they've done it consistently. Cleveland, leading the American league, Brooklyn, and Fort Wayne have beaten Chicago only to have the Bruins come back in overwhelming style.

There was no comparison between the Bruins of last night and the team which lost, 21 to 17, to Rochester Wednesday. Passing, shooting, every phase was immeasureably improved.

One answer might be that liberal use of resin and oil had rendered the footing more certain. The players could start and stop without skidding or tumbling. Consequently Chicago had the advantage in breaking away from the defense. Rochester did not equal the Bruins in speed. Hickey, Russell, Kennedy and Ely had the edge in the man to man play. And they made the most of it.

Sharpshooters in Form.

Then, too, the Bruins' strategy sent Hirsh's opponent to the free throw line as pivot for block plays. Hirsh, the smallest of the Centrals, could not prevent Kennedy from receiving passes and in the first half the Bruin captain was the hub of the team work.

In the second period Hirsh shifted to guard Hickey. So Nat took the block line and the attack continued successfully.

The Bruin goal shooters showed their best form in weeks. Eight times the Bruin sharpshooters scored from far out in the court. Two of Hickey's four goals were of this variety. All of Kennedy's scoring was manufactured from a distance. Kellett turned the trick twice and Honey Russell once.

Add to this Russell's spectacular one hand running shots and the list of reasons for the one sided victory is complete. Honey's other three field goals were as difficult and he made them with ease.

Maypole Buys Interest.

Hearn's field goal gave Rochester a 2 to 1 lead in the first minute of play but after that Chicago took command. The count mounted steadily to a 10 to 4 advantage, then 15 to 5. Both quintets scored twice in the final three minutes of the first half and Chicago left for the intermission leading, 19 to 9.

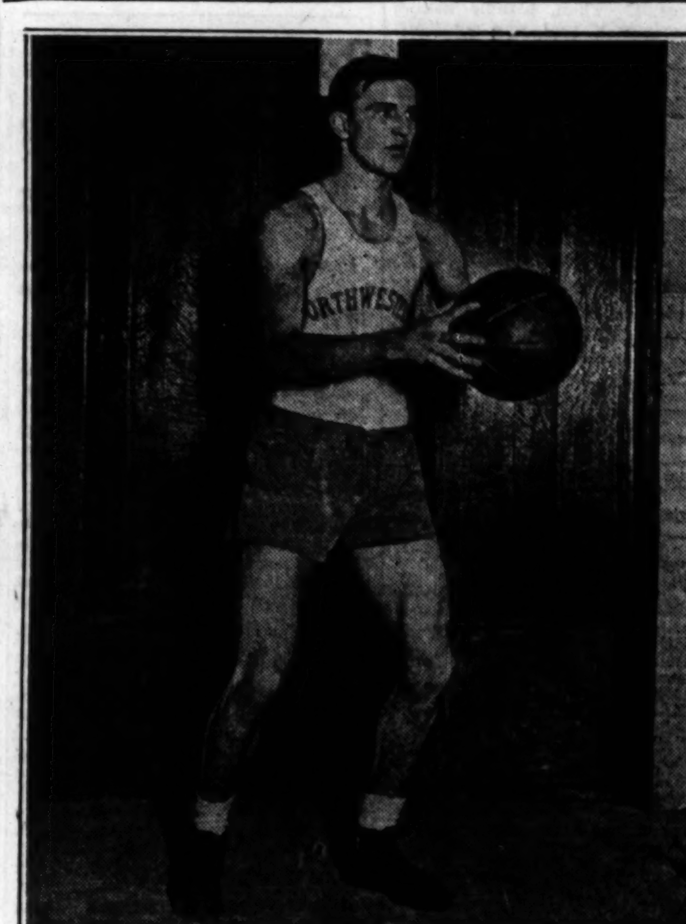

Scoring the first goal of the second period, the Bruins worked up to 27 to 11. Three rapid fire shots by Rochester cut this to ten points, but the Bruins piled up nine more points in the remaining time.

Ald. George Maypole has purchased an interest in the Bruins, it was announced yesterday by George Halas and Laurie Walquist, who, however, continue to hold control.

LEADS PURPLE TO VICTORY

Rus Bergherm, Northwestern football star who gave Notre Dame plenty of trouble on the gridiron, did it again last night on the basketball floor. His 13 points were a big factor in the Purple's 30 to 28 victory over the Irish.

Cadets Skip Workout in Snowstorm

California's winter weather is one thing. Getting to it is another. The Army football squad members discovered the truth of the latter yesterday when their de luxe special, which is carrying them to their intersectional affair with Stanford at Palo Alto Dec. 28, puffed and snorted into Chicago three hours behind schedule.

Laden with snow after more than 20 hours of blizzard busting, but with its crew of passengers warm and happy, the train was shunted from the New York Central tracks to the Santa Fé and immediately started on the remainder of the transcontinental haul.

Will Work Out in Kansas.

The original plan of "Biff" Jones, Cadet coach, was to tarry at Galesburg yesterday afternoon long enough to permit a few evolutions on the Knox college gridiron, but darkness had descended before the special pulled out of Chicago, so the workout order was canceled.

Today the Cadets will be rolling through Kansas, and as soon as Coach Jones spies a piece of flat ground not snow laden he will flag down the engineer and send the future generals through a signal drill. If the schedule is adhered to, this loosening up will be possible at Syracuse, Kas. Another drill will be held en route tomorrow.

The players were so engrossed in conversations about the weather and so comfortable in their movable quarters that none displayed any desire to get out and frolic in the drifts during the brief stop here. This fitted into the scheme of Coach Jones, who advised his charges that if any of them felt the need of exercise they could find all modern appliances in the gym car, which is part of the thirteen car train.

Irish Wish Them Bon Voyage.

Before reaching Chicago the Army men were guests at a brief but enthusiastic reception at South Bend. Their traditional grid enemies, Notre Dame, came down to the station to wish them bon voyage and good luck. The greeting delegation was headed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame university, and Assistant Coaches Tom Lieb and Jack Chevigny. Coach Rockne, because of illness, was unable to appear, out dispatched a messenger to Coach Jones with a note expressing hope the Army would knock the tan out of Stanford.

McEwan Denies Sending Stanford Movies to Army

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Taking cognizance of reports that he had furnished motion pictures of Stanford's football team in action to the Army, Capt. John J. McEwan, head football coach of the University of Oregon, today issued an emphatic statement of denial. His statement follows:

"I wish to deny emphatically the report that motion pictures of the Oregon-Stanford football game were sent by me to West Point. These pictures were taken for the specific purpose of showing my own players the mistakes they made against Stanford so that they could correct them. No West Point coach or player has seen those pictures. The report that I had sent them is untoward and untrue.

"My plans for the ensuing year are to continue my duties at the University of Oregon. I shall return to Eugene, Ore., about Jan. 6. I expect to fulfill my contract, which has one year more to run, and I trust the university will do the same."

OREGON OUSTS HIM.

Eugene, Ore., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The executive council of the University of Oregon tonight adopted recommendations of the athletic committee that the contract of Capt. John J. McEwan, head football coach, be terminated immediately.

The council also decided to open negotiations with McEwan for a salary settlement. McEwan's contract does not expire until the close of the 1930 football season.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Notre Dame dropped its first basketball game of the season here tonight to Northwestern, 30 to 28, in an overtime period.

Notre Dame, trailing Northwestern, 24 to 15, with seven minutes to play, came back strong and was enjoying a 27 to 25 lead with a minute left. Riel, Purple forward, dropped in a neat field goal from beyond the foul line at this point to put the Wildcats into a deadlock and to bring about the extra period that swung victory to the Wildcats.

Russell Bergherm, Purple forward, led the scoring by a large margin. He dropped in six baskets and a free toss. Capt. Rut Walter of Northwestern scored nine points.

The score at half time was 9 to 9.

Walter Starts Rally.

Capt. Walter started a scoring spree in the second half that put his men out in front, 24 to 13, with seven minutes left. This was countered by Newbold's comeback and Riel tied things up a minute before the game ended. A free throw and a basket by Lockhart, who had done nothing previous to this in a scoring way, gave the Wildcats their 30 and a free toss by Crowe put Notre Dame at 28.

When the official playing time was up, each team had eleven field goals and five free tosses to its credit. The defense of both quintets was air tight and most of the scoring was done from a point well past the free throw lines. Lineup:

BADGERS WHIP CARLETON

Madison, Wis., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—This was a big night for Harold Foster, Wisconsin center. He was declared eligible for the season, was elected captain of the team, and his passing and defensive work played a big part in the Badgers' 27 to 18 victory over the rangy Carleton college five from Northfield, Minn.

The Badgers ran up a lead of 18 to 7 at the end of the first period, but Carleton rallied to begin the last half of the battle. Baskets by Leach and Slim Crawford, six foot five inch center, with free throws by Leach and two by Nicholson speedily brought the count to 18 to 14.

Army Tickets Bring Rift in N.D. Alumni

dled, devoting this revenue to the maintenance of the club, which has required very little other income. Why the university decided to decimate the allotment to the club this year I have been unable to learn but whatever the reason, the Notre Dame club received only 1,500 tickets for the recent game and great was the perturbation of one and all.

The 1,500 tickets were consigned to one distinguished alumnus in his official capacity as an officer of the club and, as all clubs are more or less distinctly divided into factions, one group of members immediately began to organize and maneuver to beguile the tickets out of the custody of the man who had them. This gentleman says that faction tried to raid the supply, but he is a very bright gentleman, with a legal mind, and in fifteen minutes' time he had pointed out at least fifteen constitutional reasons why the request of the opposing faction or committee, as it called itself, should be disallowed. So the tickets were apportioned according to his faction's conception of priority and justice.

Of course, as he himself puts it, any attempt to allot 1,500 tickets among 150 Irishmen who had been accustomed to ten times that many was bound to occasion discontent.

Those They Would Bar.

Now to this point the trouble would appear to be nothing more than a routine family row among gentlemen of temperish heritage and tradition. But the rest of those Notre Dame tickets were distributed by direct sale from the university to customers in the east and an element of the Notre Dame club who frankly regard themselves as being among the more creditable alumni of the school believe that promiscuous sale attracts an undesirable element to the game.

It is this clientèle which it is desired to exclude by a pick and choose method of sale or to elude by the transfer of the game to some place which it would be inconvenient for them to reach.

There has been booing against the Army at several of these games and the Notre Dame alumni of both factions are agreed, as I understand it, that this is an embarrassing thing, coming from the Notre Dame side and thus seeming to voice the feeling of the university.

The sentiment of the two schools, of the opposing coaches and of the Army and Notre Dame alumni is one of respectful sportsmanship and I hear these untoward remarks referred to as a noise of a rabble motivated by undisciplined and unsolicitated sympathy for Notre Dame.

My informant says he thinks the best solution would be to take the game out of New York or, failing that, to place the tickets in the hands of men who would select a body of spectators with a delicate regard for their knowledge of crowd etiquette in intercollegiate football.

The sentiments seem to be, "Save Notre Dame from her friends, or failing that, let's run away from them."

Roving House Cat Menace to Bird Life

BY BOB BECKER.

Should state conservation department put a bounty on predatory house cats? Are these animals destroying so much bird life that this measure is necessary? This roving house cat is getting an increased amount of attention from game breeders, conservation organizations and ornithologists and already some eastern states have put a bounty on the scalp of these animals. This movement is mostly in the east where the most scientific efforts in quail propogation focus attention on vermin.

Massachusetts pays ten dollars for every hunting house cat which is killed and turned in to authorities. How Massachusetts rates this animal as a game destroyer is well illustrated in the following discussion by William C. Adams, director of the division of fisheries and game in Massachusetts:

"There is a growing appreciation of the reduction of our desirable wild life by the wild, hunting house cat. The sentiment in favor of reducing the numbers of these predatory cats is slowly but surely increasing. It may be years before our people will come to the point of taking hold of this problem firmly, and devising ways and means of eliminating these homeless, hunting cats from our countryside. But it seems in this case [as in many others] that the ravages must assume alarming proportions before the public will be sufficiently interested to act.

We believe these cats are one of the greatest destructive factors operating today. During the last year the county treasurers paid out $1,130 in bounties on 113 wild house cats."

Forced to shift for itself the house cat, which in many cases has been abandoned by its former owner, becomes a bird hunter in order to live, and thus roams the countryside preying on rodents, game, and song birds.

TALKING TOO MUCH.

SOMETIMES we wonder how many of these stories of subsidies to athletes are started by themselves or their friends in a spirit of boasting of what is being done for the boy by the college he attends. Of course, we are not simple-minded enough to think there is no recruiting or no proselyting. One of the former cases, however, came to our attention several years ago.

We were presented with creditable evidence where a boy said he was being paid for restaurant work and did no work. Now The Wake never has been a "policeman" and never intends to be, but we were challenged to print the boy's remarks and the facts. As the eating place was easily accessible, we went there incog for dinner one night. The athlete was waiting on table. We went again. Same result. Then, blandly asking the proprietor if that was not "Mr. Smith, the footballer," we were informed it was, and that he put in 23 to 25 hours a week.

Yet this boy had boasted before witnesses that he was receiving money for work he did not do. He was not seeking to deceive in a harmful sense. It was just his egotism. He later had enough trouble about the yarn, so he was not so loquacious again.

A dear, dim Christmas white with snow,
A tinseled tree, the yule log's blaze,
Quaint snatches of old Christmas lays,

And sought the parlor on tiptoe;
Rare gifts met your enraptured gaze—

Purdue Five's Chances Good; Nemesis Gone

This is the third of a series on the basketball prospects of Big Nine teams.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Since Purdue's football team has won a western conference championship after 30 years of trying it behooves the Boilermaker basketeers to recall they've shared in championships only twice in the last four years and to eye the coming season. With a nucleus of Murphy, Harmeson, and Boots of last year's team, a schedule of ten games without their nemesis of last year, Wisconsin, it appears the Old Gold and Black at worst shouldn't be far from the top when the season ends in March.

No yarn of Purdue basketball could start with a better subject than Charles Murphy, the famed "Stretch," with his hair six feet six inches from the soles of his feet. While that height is an advantage, it isn't all he's got, for Murphy would be a great basketball player if he were half a foot shorter. Living up to the reputation of Purdue for high scorers, the lanky lad who was the one unanimous choice for all-conference last year set up a new record for individual scoring in the Big Nine. Murphy accumulated 143 points in 12 games, sinking 50 baskets.

Harmeson Master Stylist.

Murphy was also sure of the tipoff and was just as useful in controlling the ball and working it under the basket, while on short shots he was poisonous. Never excitable, he took some terrific beatings as a marked man in many games last year, but calmly kept on hitting the basket.

Glen Harmeson, who also rated many all-conference teams, is the stylist of the conference as a ball handler, and his grin and his grace have made him a pet of fans. After a football season in which he led the Purdue back field in yardage gained, he's back on the basketball floor on the same flat feet and the same dazzling speed, one of the best floor men and defensive forwards in the loop.

The third of last year's trio of regulars is Herman Boots, once a floor guard but made over into a back guard last year with remarkable success. In the last games he seemed to have developed into a fine back guard, while retaining some of the scoring possibilities of a floor guard.

Wooden Fills Guard Berth.

The floor guard's job apparently will be well filled by a sophomore named John Wooden by his parents and the "India Rubber Man" by the prep school fans who watched him star for Martinsville, Ind. The name came from his ability to bounce bodily off the floor after a bad fall and come up smiling with the ball. He's no lightweight, scaling about 170 pounds, but he's fast. Another floor guard is Milton Mills, a speedy midget, whose only handicap is lack of height. He may be shifted to a forward.

Finding a running mate for Harmeson at the other forward is Coach Ward Lambert's biggest job in making a team worthy of the Purdue tradition. Loss of Capt. Cummins, who led the Big Ten in scoring in 1927, left a big hole in the offense. Victor Gibbens, a reserve of last year, and James Tilford, a sophomore, seemed to have an edge until the first practice game when Mills stepped in as a forward and put himself decidedly in the running. Both Gibbens and Tilford are fast, good floor workers and shots, but lack experience.

That about makes up the ball club except for the reserves. Robert Daniels is understudying Murphy at center and has played at forward. Reserves for the back guard's job are strong, with Glen Overman and Cox, both candidates last year, and perhaps Red Sleight, Purdue's all-American tackle, who may forego shot putting for basketball.

Purdue Easy Victor.

In its first game against Washington of St. Louis, Purdue coasted to an easy victory, 38 to 19. Wooden lived up to advance predictions by tossing in five field goals while Murphy dropped in four. While one game isn't much of an indication, it would seem the Purdue team of 1930 will live up to last year's squad in scoring at least. Though Purdue lost three of its twelve games last year, it led the league with 441 points, nearly 100 more than any other team, and outscored its opponents by 133 points, 54 more than any other team.

Monmouth Rally Defeats Parsons Cagers, 32 to 24

Monmouth, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Coming from behind in the last half, Monmouth college cagers defeated Parsons here tonight, 32 to 24. Templeton, Monmouth forward, was high scorer with thirteen points and Marocco, the other Monmouth forward, was next with eleven.

Bass Favorite to Take Title from Morgan

TOD MORGAN.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—For the sixteenth time in four years, Tod Morgan, efficient ruler of the junior lightweight realm, will defend his title tomorrow night at 130 pounds, this time in Madison Square Garden against Benny Bass, Philadelphia belter. The match is over the title route, fifteen rounds.

Despite the "trick" aspect of the class, invented by the late Tex Rickard for Johnny Dundee seven years ago, Morgan has made the division popular and himself wealthy by whipping contenders as fast as they appeared. The blonde youngster from Seattle has risked the crown he won from Mike Ballerino at least a half dozen times here.

In Bass, a rugged puncher, Morgan is tackling the roughest of his contenders. Benny fought Tony Canzoneri for the featherweight championship in his last major appearance here and waged a spectacular struggle despite a broken bone in his shoulder. The bout will be the first title test in the Garden within a year and finds Bass a 7 to 5 favorite.

Morgan, like Dundee, for whom the class was originated, is a bit too heavy for the featherweights, but just shy enough in poundage to be unable to meet lightweights. His tireless campaigning has brought him purses of $150,000 in the last four years.

In the first ten round semi-final, Al Ridgeway, Jersey City featherweight who is being groomed for a "shot" at Kid Chocolate, will meet Nel Tarleton of England. Another busy fighter from the British Isles, Dom Volante, will battle Harry Carleton of Jersey City, in an eight round go.

To Kansas City

Ed Holley, righthanded hurler, who in the last couple of years has enjoyed several appearances in Cub togs, will follow his trade at Kansas City next season. His release to the Blues was announced yesterday by President William Veeck of the Cubs, following receipt of waivers. Holley completes the purchase from Kansas City of Pitcher Nelson, for whom the price was many thousand dollars and two players. Infielder McMillan was the other player. Holley spent last season on the Cubs' farm at Reading, Pa.

SHURTLEFF FIVE HANDS ELMHURST 1ST DEFEAT, 34-27

Elmhurst college lost its first home conference game last night to the fast Shurtleff Pioneers, 34 to 27. The Pirates trailed, 22 to 7, shortly before the end of the half, but ran the count up to 22 to 17 at half time. The score was 22 to 21 before the Pioneers made another basket in the last period. Capt. Duana Nelson, Shurtleff forward, was the high scorer with seven field goals and three free throws. Cookson, Elmhurst forward, was next with five field goals and a pair of free throws.

TROJANS RESUME DRILL TODAY FOR GAME WITH PITT

Jones Stresses Forward Pass Defense.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 19.—University of Southern California's football team will resume practice tomorrow for its intersectional clash with Pittsburgh, eastern champion, in the Rose bowl here on New Year's day.

Coach Howard Jones returned today from the annual meeting of the Pacific coast conference at San Francisco. He called his assistants together and told them to stress a defense for forward passes, an angle of the game in which the Trojans were woefully weak against Carnegie Tech last Saturday.

Pittsburgh has a big, powerful line that has outplayed the front walls of every team it has met this season. If it repeats out here Uansa and Parkinson will gain consistently and the moment the Trojan secondary comes up to help the line the forward pass attack will be called into execution.

Jones Names Starters.

It may be a free scoring game and again it may be one of those close struggles with a touchdown or even a point after touchdown deciding the issue. Jones and Sutherland believe a strong offense is the best defense. In other words, they figure to outscore their opponents. If the lines, however, play an even game and the defensive backs are alert for forward passes there should not be much scoring.

Jones has been told that Pittsburgh uses the same style of play as Stanford. The Panthers coach, Jock Sutherland, learned his football at Pitt when Warner was coach. The basic principles may be the same but Sutherland probably will spring a few formations which Pop Warner never has seen.

Army Will Arrive Sunday.

With the arrival of the Army eleven in Palo Alto on Sunday interest in the struggle between Stanford and the Army in the former's stadium on Dec. 28 will be kindled. Fans in this section are anxious to see a West Point eleven in action and they will travel many miles to satisfy their desires.

HARVARD SPORTS PROFIT IS $217,171; FOOTBALL DID IT

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sports at Harvard, that million dollar business conducted by the university's athletic association, closed the year ending June 30, 1929, with a surplus of $217,171, the report of Henry L. Shattuck, treasurer of Harvard college, today revealed.

The athletic association during the twelve months ending last June 30 took in $1,070,617, of which $613,892 was contributed by varsity football. Receipts increased approximately $56,000 over those for the preceding year and expenses were reduced approximately $52,000.

PROVISO TAKES DOUBLE CAGE BILL FROM DEERFIELD

Proviso Township High heavies and lights took both ends of a double header basketball program from Deerfield at Highland Park yesterday, the former taking a 21 to 20 overtime decision, while the latter won, 23 to 21. Zapful of Proviso dropped one in from under the basket to tie the heavyweight score in the last few minutes and Rehr's free throw in the overtime clinched it. Deerfield also led in the light weight game until Young and Pechukas scored for Proviso.

BROKERS' LOANS SHOW DECLINE OF $39,000,000

Total Now Down to Early 1927 Level.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The downward drift of the stock market in the last week was accompanied by a further shrinkage in the amount of credit devoted to speculation. The weekly report on brokers' loans by the federal reserve board disclosed a decline of $39,000,000, bringing the total down to $3,386,000,000.

The current decline in brokers' loans more than cancels the increase of $22,000,000 in the preceding week, which marked the first upturn in ten weeks. Including the present decline, such loans have dropped $3,418,000,000 from the peak figure of $6,804,000,000 as established on Oct. 2, or just before the collapse of stock prices.

The reported total of brokers' loans now stands not only $1,725,000,000 below a year ago but also is at the lowest level since the middle of 1927. However, the total today probably is even lower, as the federal reserve figures are as of Wednesday and do not reflect the decline in stock prices in the last two days.

Withdrawal of Funds.

The current decline resulted entirely from withdrawals of funds from the call money market by nonbanking lenders, which include corporations and foreign concerns. These lenders have drawn $105,000,000 and it is probable a considerable portion of this amount represented foreign withdrawals.

In this connection the weekly report on the gold movement disclosed that $31,419,000 was sent abroad and gold earmarked for foreign account increased $2,001,000, while gold imports were only $998,000.

This withdrawal of stock market credit was partly offset by an increase of $65,000,000 in bank lendings. The New York banks increased their own loans by $26,000,000 and the interior banks furnished an additional $40,000,000. But New York banks are lending $130,000,000 less than a year ago, while other banks and other lenders are furnishing $37,000,000 less.

The Kansas City federal reserve bank yesterday reduced its rediscount rate from 5 to 4½ per cent, thus following the recent action of the New York, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco, and Atlanta institutions. The other 8 federal reserve banks still maintain a 5 per cent rate.

Quiet conditions in business and industry, such as usually marks the close of the year, are reflected in a dwindling demand for credit for commercial purposes. The weekly report of the federal reserve system, issued last night, shows a further decline of $11,000,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing this item down to $925,000,000. The reserve banks also reduced $12,429,000 of bankers' acceptances but increased their holdings of government securities by $146,331,000 largely as the result of the financing operations of the treasury.

Note Circulation Drops.

Federal reserve note circulation declined $7,709,000 in spite of the approach of the holiday season, which usually brings an increased demand for currency. Deposits expanded $13,489,000. Total reserves dropped $12,714,000 and the ratio of reserves to liabilities sagged to 69.3 per cent, compared with 71.6 per cent last week.

The report of the New York reserve bank shows an increase of $20,896,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing this item up to $176,173,000. The New York City banks increased their borrowings by $22,000,000. The reserve bank decreased its holdings of bankers' acceptances by $27,155,000. Liabilities receded $3,568,000. Reserves dipped $33,990,000 and the reserve ratio sagged to 65.5 per cent, compared with 68.2 per cent a week ago.

The report of the Chicago reserve bank shows member bank borrowings almost stationary, with a total of $33,727,000. Bankers' acceptances increased $3,779,000 and deposits expanded $3,211,000. Reserves declined $12,134,000 and the reserve ratio fell to 73.3 per cent, compared with 73.8 per cent a week ago.

Brazil Pessimistic Over Coffee, Milreis Values

RIO JANEIRO, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Both coffee and the Brazilian milreis lost value in today's trading and the banking community is pessimistic of the outlook for the near future. A week ago coffee was selling at 23.200 milreis an arroba. Today it was quoted at 21 milreis less and the milreis itself had dropped to 9.36 to the dollar.

Big Business Is Ethical— It Must Be, 'Scrutator' Says

BY SCRUTATOR.

Business morality in the United States has, in one form or another, been a subject for a vast amount of discussion over many years. Seemingly there has been of late a general agreement that the moral state of business as a whole is higher now than it was some decades ago.

In the sense that the individual consumer is more likely to get what he pays for in commodities and services, this is true. The biggest businesses are responsible for this. They publicize themselves with advertising promises that they must make good, and they are so much in the public eye that governmental agencies, the federal trade commission and others can rather easily check up on them.

Small Concerns Are Cited.

It is noteworthy that most of the orders to desist from unfair practices, as issued by the trade commission, are directed at relatively small concerns. As instances, the commission in its annual report gave three examples of what it had accomplished for the public during the year. One was to drive from the market a company marketing a worthless toilet preparation that sold annually to the extent of $400,000. The second was to halt the sales of a spurious automobile accessory in which the take was less than $100,000, and the third was the prevention of short measures by a paint company, whose methods took a toll of $41,000 a year from consumers.

None of the firms involved could be considered among the leaders of their industries. The Pittsburgh plus cases were perhaps the latest in which the extremely large units of an industry were giving a large class of their customers treatment that was openly unfair. The trade commission, which takes credit for the accomplishment, estimates that the abolition of the Pittsburgh plus basis saves the farmers of this country 30 millions a year and all steel purchasers a total of 150 millions.

Big Business Needs Good Will.

There is no disposition here to argue that the biggest concerns are honest in their public dealings for any reason but the one that they must be. They must survive or perish on good will. As for their relations with competitors, it may be that the picture is not so bright. Practically all the trade practice conferences that have been held adopt resolutions condemning commercial bribery, price rebates and sales below cost made with the object of driving out a competitor. Such things must be going on if there is so much antagonism to them.

The old trusts were freely accused of using all these methods. Favoritism and bribery by the railroads some decades ago became a well aired scandal. It is not remarkable that such things still survive in some places. But it can hardly be questioned that the evil is lessened in amount and in the number of its followers.

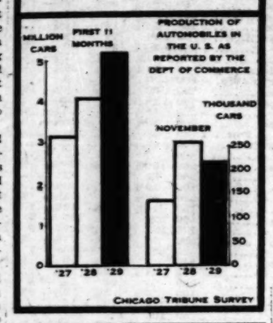

Misrepresentation of their own and competitors' goods is still carried on by some concerns. The federal trade commission finds that goods not imported are sometimes represented as imported, that one of the most prevalent practices is to refer to a company as "mills" or "factories" when it has no manufacturing facilities, and that occasionally a firm will advertise its products as cures for ills when they are worthless. One company dealing in a household chemical product was charged with declaring its competitors made their chemicals out of ground up cooking utensils.

Some Are Still Shortsighted.

Some businesses are possibly, kept small by shortsighted policies. A correspondent writes indignantly that many building and loan company officials consent to act as appraisers and collect fees in Chicago for so doing when they have no intention of making loans on the property involved.

Investors in securities, nowadays, need a better moral break in the matter of information on companies that offer stock. Here, too, the very large companies are more frank than many small ones. United States Steel and General Motors give their stockholders and the world fairly complete reports. Others, if unwilling to do it voluntarily, should be compelled to. This improvement is perhaps more necessary than any other before Pollyanna view can be taken without reservations on our business morality.

A. T. & T. APPLIES TO LIST 2,591,127 SHARES OF $100 PAR VALUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company has applied to the New York stock exchange for the listing of 2,591,127 additional shares of common capital stock of $100 par value, of which $40,000,000 represents stock to be issued to employés of the Bell system from time to time and $219,112,700 represents the total amount of stock issuable in conversion of the 4½ per cent 10 year convertible bonds issued last year.

It was learned today that the company has already begun to receive applications from bondholders desirous of effecting a conversion of their bonds into common stock as soon as the bonds become convertible, which will be Jan. 2, 1930, the first business day of the new year.

The bondholders are being advised that it is to their advantage to deposit $80 in cash and $100 face value in bonds for every share of common stock desired under the conversion plan, and nearly all the early applicants have determined on this plan on their own initiative, it is said.

In banking circles it is reported that large blocks of bonds will be presented for conversion into stock on the basis described on Jan. 2 next, based on the heavy arbitraging that has gone on in A. T. & T. stock and bonds over the last few months and on large known institutional holdings of the convertible issue.

Holding Company Failure Is Aftermath of Crash

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The International Combustion Engineering corporation, one of the largest holding companies of the United States in the field of heating and power appliances, was thrown into receivership today on the petition of the Bethlehem Steel company.

Judge Alfred C. Coxe in the federal court appointed Nathaniel A. Elsberg and Wilfred R. Wood as temporary receivers in equity. The claims of Bethlehem Steel against the firm and two of its subsidiaries are $135,000.

Besides the holding corporation the receivers will take over the Combustion Engineering Corporation of New York and the International Combustion Tar and Chemical Corporation of Illinois, both affiliated with the parent firm. Bond of $50,000 was fixed in each case—a total of $150,000.

Has Large Assets.

In Judge Coxe's view, as he explained it at the appointment of the receivers, the company has large assets, but is unable to meet matured and immediately maturing obligations from its liquid properties. There appeared, he said, to be no other remedy available than an equity receivership.

The company, which, according to the petition, has a book value of 43 million dollars and an outstanding position, with plants both here and abroad, has been in difficulties recently.

George E. Learned, former Boston bookkeeper who rose to be the president, resigned Dec. 6 and Mr. Wood, now one of the receivers, succeeded him. Four days later, however, the company passed its December dividend. Mr. Wood, in a statement issued immediately after his appointment, declared that unsuccessful efforts to obtain additional finances from banks forced the receivership.

Banking Support Disappears.

"Early in October," he said, "it became apparent that the corporation would require additional working capital to carry on its business.

"Since that time earnest and unsuccessful efforts have been made to secure such financing from banks and banking houses in New York City and elsewhere. Directors believed that financing had been arranged with one banking institution, but were advised on Dec. 16 that such banking institution had withdrawn.

"In the opinion of the board this situation made it necessary for the protection of the interests of its creditors and stockholders that the corporation and its subsidiaries be placed in the hands of receivers through the medium of a friendly suit in equity. It is believed that a prompt reorganization can be effected, thus preserving the values and the demonstrated good will and earning power of the business."

K. C. Southern Ry. Shows November Net of $428,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Usually the first of the more important railways to publish its monthly operating statistics, the Kansas City Southern's November results came to hand today. The road showed gross for the month of $1,707,000, as against $1,842,000 in November last year, while net operating income of $428,000 compared with $577,000 reported in the same month of 1928. For the first eleven months gross totaled $20,349,000, or slightly larger than the $19,616,000 reported for the same period of 1928.

Gold Exports in Six Days Are Largest in 1 1-2 Years

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Gold exports from New York between Dec. 12 and 18 were the largest for any similar period in about a year and a half. The total was $33,499,000, of which $21,024,000 went to England, $11,000,000 to France, $1,344,000 to Germany, and smaller amounts to India and Mexico. Imports amounted to $998,000, mostly from Colombia. Gold earmarked for foreign account increased $3,001,000. Reports today said that an additional $5,000,000 in the metal would go to Paris on the Olympic tomorrow.

New York, Dec. 19.—News of a receivership for one big industrial concern and rumors of financial difficulties by one or two others gave bear traders an opportunity to rake in quite a bit of Christmas change from their dealings on the stock exchange today. They sold stocks and talked and sold some more, first in a scattering of specialties descriptions, then gradually extending their operations to the entire list.

Toward the last the movement took on the aspects of a drive with the result that closing prices reflected losses of from 2 to more than 10 points. U. S. REPORTS RECORD IN VOLUME OF BANKERS' BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—"While a new high record for outstanding volume of American banks' and bankers' acceptances was registered on Nov. 30, 1929, the current increase gives abundant evidence that the peak of the acceptance creating season for the year is still some weeks away," according to a report issued today by Robert H. Bean, executive secretary of the American Acceptance council.

The outstanding volume of acceptances was on Nov. 30 $1,657,899,924, an increase of $117,161,801 compared with Oct. 31 and $457,544,200 higher than Nov. 30, 1928, Mr. Bean announced.

Import credits advanced $12,000,000 in the month and exports $43,000,000, domestic shipments declined $3,000,000, domestic warehouse credits gained $40,000,000, dollar exchange $3,000,000, and credits based on foreign shipped or stored goods made a further advance of $22,000,000.

Forbids 'Over the Counter' Deals in Closed Hours

New York, Dec. 19.—Members of the New York stock exchange are forbidden by a ruling of the committee of arrangements to deal "over the counter" in listed securities during the hours when the exchange is closed, except under special permission of the secretary of the exchange. The new ruling was made, it was said, solely to prevent new contracts impeding the work of settling transactions made on the exchange.

CHICAGO STOCKS SUFFERING FROM BUYERS' ENNUI

Nearly All of Them Show a Loss for the Day.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks reacted sharply to a scarcity of buying orders yesterday and at the close the whole list was sorely depressed. The depression was not a hit and miss affair, as is shown by a glance at the closing quotations.

Nearly every stock in the list showed a loss from the previous day. The exceptions which failed to disrupt the day's trend were Quaker Oats and Illinois Brick, which advanced on light sales. Quaker on an odd lot sale of 25 shares spurted 9 points to finish at 262. The brick company issue was 1⅝ points higher on a turnover of 200 shares.

The most notable reverses suffered by general issues were losses by Balaban and Katz, down 3½; United States Gypsum, off 3⅝; and Ryan Car, which skidded 6⅝ points on light trade.

Butler Brothers Steadies.

Butler Brothers, which was the butt of the professional bears on the previous day, steadied considerably, following the denial that the firm would discontinue dividends. It was off a fraction at the close.

Among the Insull issues, Insull Utility Investments was the biggest loser, finishing at 61½ with a net recession of 4⅝ points. Middle West was one of the leaders in activity and was less than a point off from the previous day's closing price. Central and South West was down more than 2. National Electric Power class A finished at 30, after starting the day 1½ above that figure. It is understood that application will be made for listing on the Chicago board of a new issue of the company's stock, which will be offered today.

Is $4,000,000 Issue.

The offering consists of an issue of $4,000,000 7 per cent cumulative preferred and is being marketed by a syndicate headed by A. C. Allyn & Co. The stock, which has a par value of $100, will be priced at $97.25 with accrued dividends from Jan. 1, 1930, to yield about 7.20 per cent. A non-detachable purchase warrant entitling the holder to buy one share of class B common stock at $50 to Dec. 31, 1931, for each share held, in included. National Electric is a division of Middle West Utilities, largest of the Insull holding companies.

Grigsby Grunow, the pace setter in the radio group, was down more than 2 on active trade. Other radios closed as follows: Ceco, off 4; Ken-Rad, down 2; Wextark, down 2¼, and Steinite, down 1⅝.

Two Active Investments Rise.

Chicago corporation and Utility and Industrial common were the only active investment issues which finished higher. Both stocks were fractionally better. Burnham Trading, Continental Chicago were down 2 and 1⅛ respectively.

Auburn led the retreat in the automotive division, finishing 10 points behind its previous close. Noblitt Sparks, Bendix, Borg Warner, and Allied were off 1 to 3 points.

Foote Brothers was unchanged at 20. President W. C. Davis yesterday said that earnings of the company should be equal to more than $2.40 a share on the common stock which the company earned last year.

WESTINGHOUSE FORMS A NEW SUBSIDIARY CO.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company announced today that it had formed the Westinghouse Electric company as an operating subsidiary for nineteen wholesale supply companies formerly owned by the Westinghouse Commercial Investment company, another subsidiary.

The several companies have heretofore operated under their own name, but under the reorganization they will become branches of the Westinghouse Electric company. However, each unit will carry on its business as it has in the past and with the same management.

Edison Co. of Boston Votes to Withdraw Petition

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The Edison Electric Illuminating company of Boston today terminated its protracted battle to split its stock despite the unyielding opposition of the Massachusetts department of public utilities when directors of the company voted to withdraw a petition for the right to issue 76,411 additional shares. The commission's pointed remarks in rejecting the company's proposal for a four for one split in October were held partly responsible in some quarters for the severe collapse that followed shortly after the adverse ruling. The frank statement that the commission considered the company's stock too highly valued in the market tended to undermine confidence in prices of other utility stocks, it was asserted.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Earnings Prospects.

Prospects for Continental Can in 1930 appear bright, it is said, for a continuance of the steady improvement in earnings shown during the current year. Following retirement of the preferred stock, called for redemption Jan. 15, 1930, the company will have no capital obligation or funded debt ahead of the common. Net earnings to Sept. 30 were officially reported as 38 per cent in excess of those of the corresponding period of 1928. The balance for the common this year is estimated at around $5.50 per share, compared with $4.35 in 1928.

Enjoys Popularity.

The popularity of International Harvester among speculators and investors is ascribed to the fact that the company's working capital position is of the best, being exceeded only by that of the Standard Oil of New Jersey, United States Steel, and General Motors. Current assets at the end of 1928 aggregated $240,037,000, cash and investments alone being greater than current liabilities of $38,963,000. Every year since 1921 Harvester has reported an increase in income. Earnings this year are estimated between $7 and $8 per share.

May Lift Pressure.

Some of the pressure that has affected the price movements of Pennsylvania recently in the face of an upward trend in the rail group generally should be lifted, some interests believe, when the stock becomes "ex rights" tomorrow. Bulls on the issue point out that in any eventual consolidation of the eastern trunk lines this road would be an important unit. Per share earnings this year are estimated at $9.50, contrasted with $7.35 in 1928, $6.83 in 1927, and $6.77 in 1926.

Opinion on Copper.

With demand for copper metal down to an average of only 300 tons daily, the consensus of opinion in trade circles is that metal prices probably will be reduced somewhat. This would tend to lower earnings of the copper companies generally and subsequently affect dividend returns unfavorably, provided the lower level for the metal persisted over an appreciably long period. Arrayed against this forecast, however, is the outlook for continued heavy expenditures for expansions by utilities and railroads in 1930.

LIST LIABILITIES OF W. B. FOSHAY CO. SUBSIDIARY

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Liabilities of the Foshay Building corporation, a subsidiary of the W. B. Foshay company, now in receivership total $3,177,236, according to a report filed in federal District court today by Joseph Chapman, receiver.

Principal assets of the company, the report says, consist of the real estate embraced in the location of the Foshay tower and adjoining unfinished building projects. Leased portions of the tower at present, the report says, will produce a gross rental of $194,765 a year, leaving a deficit of $100,137.

Mr. Chapman said that if 90 per cent of the tower could be rented it would be possible to pay all fixed charges and to meet mortgage payments of $45,250 due in 1930. With 90 per cent occupancy, he said, the building could be operated to show an annual surplus of more than $19,000.

RAILROAD NEWS

The Illinois commerce commission has approved the issuance by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company of $700,000 series G equipment trust certificates to partially cover the cost of 25 additional all steel motor cars, delivery of which is to start to the North Shore line on Feb. 1. It also approved the issuance of $522,000 first and refunding mortgage 5½ per cent bonds to reimburse the company treasury for expenditures made in the latter part of 1929 for improvements.

The Illinois commerce commission has approved the issuance of $3,400,000 of 6 per cent ten year notes of the Chicago, Aurora, and Elgin railroad to reimburse the company treasury for capital expenditures for recent extensive improvements made by the railroad.

New financing of $10,000,000 for the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, an important member of the North American system, is being carried out with the offering of an issue of 5 per cent refunding and first mortgage bonds, series B, by a group comprising Dillon, Read & Co., Harris, Forbes & Co., and Spencer, Trask & Co. The bonds, which are dated June 1, 1921, and are due June 1, 1961, are priced at 99¼ and interest.

Interstate commerce commission has authorized the Wisconsin Central railway to issue $10,000,000 of first mortgage bonds to be sold to the Soo Line to pay the principal and interest on $7,500,000 of three year notes maturing Jan. 1, 1930, the balance to be retained in the treasury.

The Soo Line has been authorized to issue $12,106,000 of first mortgage bonds in partial reimbursement of capital expenditures and for the cost of buying the $10,000,000 Wisconsin Central issue.

The Chicago Great Western railroad handled 13,454 cars of revenue freight in the first two weeks of December this year, compared with 12,998 in the corresponding period of 1928.

BEAR RAIDERS SEIZE CHANCE TO PREY ON STOCKS

Losses Are Widespread Through List.

usual 4½ per cent rate, low demand from brokers being offset by the tightening effects of the retirement by the treasury of its tax date borrowing at the federal reserve banks, and the growth in currency circulation which undoubtedly is taking place as always at the Christmas season.

One feature of the day's trading was the acute weakness of the merchandise shares in face of the heavy holiday business reported by department and mail order stores. The shares were under steady pressure throughout and losses of from 2 to more than 7 points were registered in May, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and others of the group.

Steel weathered the early selling waves in fine order but was forced to give way with the rest toward the last. The closing sale was recorded at 167¼, a net loss of 3⅛ points on the day.

Breaks 6 Points.

International Combustion Engineering broke some 6 points immediately following the announcement of the receivership, but some support was forthcoming later in the day, and about a point of the loss was recovered. The news of the corporation's difficulties was, of course, the chief bear factor of the day. As a matter of fact the possibility of just such a development had been hanging over the market for some time and no doubt had something to do with the inability of the bull contingent to extend their recent rally. Combustion stock has been slipping steadily for months and more rapidly with the recent passing of the preferred dividend.

Fox Film A was again under heavy pressure, breaking nearly 10 points below last night's close. While considerable gossip was generated by the further decline there was nothing in the way of actual news to account for the fresh selling.

New Low Prices.

Liquidation of various shares in the radio and aviation groups resulted in new low prices for the year for such stocks as Zenith, Kolster, and Aviation corporation. Radio corporation lost nearly 3 points on the day's sales.

Motor shares again fared better than most groups, due in part to a rather firm belief widely held that business for the companies is going to pick up as usual during the holidays.

Chicago Curb Market Stocks

Pressure was felt throughout the day on the Chicago curb stocks yesterday and practically the entire list moved to lower levels. Market leaders and less active issues alike eased, with the majority of the declines ranging from fractions to 2 points.

STOCK PURCHASE WARRANT: Each share of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock included in this offering will carry a warrant, non-detachable except by the Company in the case of exercise, entitling the holder thereof to purchase one share of the Class B Common Stock of the Company at the following prices: To and including December 31, 1931 at $50 per share, thereafter to and including December 31, 1933 at $60 per share, and thereafter to and including December 31, 1934 at $75 per share, this privilege expiring on the last mentioned date.

BUSINESS: National Electric Power Company, incorporated under the laws of Maine, controls through common stock ownership companies furnishing electric light and power, gas, steam, ice and/or water service to 1907 communities in 15 states. Through these companies it serves a total of 617,674 customers of which 525,041 are served with electricity, 88,548 with gas, 3,258 with water and 823 with steam heat. The system also furnishes electric railway and/or bus service to 154 communities. In addition to the companies comprising the National Electric Power Company system, the Company also owns a substantial interest in the common stock of The Commonwealth Light and Power Company.

CONSOLIDATED EARNINGS: For the twelve months ended October 31, 1929, the consolidated earnings of National Electric Power Company and its subsidiaries were as follows:

Gross Earnings (including Other Income)	$62,513,283*
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes, other than Federal Taxes	33,868,970
Net Earnings	$28,644,313
Balance of Net Earnings, applicable to securities of subsidiary companies owned by National Electric Power Company, after deduction of interest charges and dividends paid or accrued during the period on funded and unfunded debt and preferred stocks of subsidiary companies, rentals of leased property, depreciation, amortization, Federal Taxes and net earnings applicable to common stocks of subsidiary companies held by the public	5,052,786
Annual interest and amortization charges on Secured Gold Debentures	526,822

XMAS DIVIDENDS GROW WITH ONLY FEW DAYS LEFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—With only a few days left for corporations to distribute their Christmas good will dividends, the volume increased noticeably today. However, the general cheerfulness which such action engenders was offset somewhat by unfavorable action for stockholders by a few companies.

Among the more generous extras were a $5 declaration by Consolidated Mining and Smelting company of Canada and special $2 payment to common stockholders of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Other extra dividends declared: Mac Andrews and Forbes, 25 cents; Morris Plan company, 60 cents; Brooklyn Trust company, 3 per cent; Landers, Frary & Clark, $1.

The Mac Andrews and Forbes extra was voted pending the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 65 cents on common and $1.50 on preferred.

F. G. Shattuck declared a special payment of 25 cents, the first in the company's history.

On $8 Annual Basis.

County Trust company placed its stock on a $8 annual basis by the declaration of an initial quarterly of $2, while directors of the Southeastern Power and Light company voted an initial of 40 cents a share on the common stock.

Unfavorable dividends action included the passing of the regular quarterly payment of $1.75 on the preferred stock of Buzza, Clark, Inc., and the omission of the common dividend by the directors of the Aetna Rubber company, Cleveland.

Manhattan Financial company voted a quarterly of 10 cents on class B stock and 37½ cents payment on the class A issue, due at this time.

Pepperell Manufacturing company declared a quarterly of $2, but announced a change in dividend dates for future payments, the payments being made quarterly, beginning Jan. 1, instead of semi-annually, as heretofore.

Additional bank and financial company dividends announced today included an increase from $3 to $4 quarterly in the dividend of the United States Guaranty company. The New York Airbrake company raised its annual rate of dividend from $3 a share to $3.60 a share by the declaration of a quarterly of 90 cents a share. Previously the company had been paying 75 cents a share quarterly.

Directors of the Tidewater Associated Oil company announced the resumption of dividends on the common stock at the rate of 60 cents per share a year. The dividend voted today, payable semi-annually, 30 cents on Feb. 15 to stock of record Jan. 31, and 30 cents on Aug. 15, 1930, to stock of record July 31, is the first since August, 1927, when the company paid 15 cents quarterly.

Packard Payment.

The Packard Motor Car company declared a cash dividend of 25 cents a share for the first quarter of its fiscal year beginning Jan. 1. Prior to the five for one stock split the company paid 25 cents a share monthly, with extras.

The Continental Insurance company today declared a semi-annual dividend of $1.20, placing the stock on a $2.40 annual basis against $2 annually previously. Murray corporation directors voted a stock dividend of 2 per cent, but omitted payment of the quarterly 75 cents a share cash to conserve cash resources of the company in anticipation of large business in 1930. Previously the company had paid 75 cents quarterly cash and ¾ of 1 per cent stock for two consecutive quarters.

The board of directors of the Borden company yesterday declared a stock dividend of 3 per cent on the total par value of the capital stock outstanding.

Top yesterday, $13.50; average, $12.70.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,000 cattle, 22,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep.

Storms curtailed receipts of live stock and sent all classes to higher price levels. The first $10.00 hogs in nearly two months appeared on the bulge of the market yesterday, showing a 60c gain since last Saturday.

Lambs recovered 15@25c of the recent loss, with best light at $13.50. Quality of cattle was lacking, but the kind available shared in the strength.

Advances of 25c were general in the hog market, although unevenness ranged from 15c to 60c higher, comparing extremes of the two days. Numerous loads brought $10.00, while the general average gained 25c at $9.80.

Many Trains Delayed.

Available offerings were below requirements of the trade on opening rounds, while late arrivals were hard to sell. Many trains were delayed until late in the afternoon, and the holdover promised to exceed the estimate of 9,000 when load after load came on the afternoon market after buyers had their orders filled. All points reported a decrease in supplies, the eleven markets during the first four days of the week showing a total of 529,000, against 619,000 a week ago, and 623,000 a year ago.

The "storm" run of cattle was too meager to establish a fair list of quotations for Thursday. With quality poorer than usual for the time of week, anything showing good finish was quick to sell at stronger prices. Two loads of 1,180@1,186 lb steers topped the market at $14.90, while prime 1,360 lb steers reached $14.75. Cows and heifers showed little change. Calves ruled strong. The few stockers and feeders available were unsold.

Lambs in Demand.

Activity featured the lamb market which advanced 15@25c yesterday, hardly enough being on sale to establish quotations during the first half of the day. Most good lights sold at $13.00@13.25, with a scattering of the best selections upwards to $13.35@13.50.

Total arrivals were estimated at 7,000, and compare with 11,790 a week ago, and with 13,617 a year ago. The four day total at 55,500 is 11,800 smaller than a week ago, but compares with 54,380 a year ago, and with 55,119 two years ago. Aged sheep and yearlings showed little change. Not enough feeders arrived to make a market.

COTTON TRADE LIMITED

Interest in the cotton market yesterday was small, especially in Chicago, and the highest prices were made early and the lowest around the close, yet net losses were 4 to 9 points in outside markets, while Chicago futures were unchanged to 12 points lower. Cables from Liverpool were easier and the market there closed 1 point net lower with 4,000 bales. Weather conditions over the greater part of the belt were unfavorable for completion of farm work and continued activity in the yarn and cloths markets, with 200,000 pieces of print cloth sold in New York on Wednesday had but a temporary influence on the trade.

Curtailment next week by English mills was considered bearish, and induced selling, while buying support was poor.

It is intimated that the next ginning report may be moderately bullish. One estimate to Dec. 13 shows 13,480,000 bales. The census bureau figures are due this morning, and may not be very far from the private estimates.

ARGENTINE GOV'T ISSUES RECOVER IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—A sharp recovery in the majority of active issues of Argentine bonds was the feature of an otherwise dull day in the bond market. Only two Argentine government issues closed with losses today, the 5½s of 1962 off 2 points and the 5s of 1945 off 4 points. Both issues touched new lows for the year at 87½ and 85, respectively. The balance of the list was up 3¼ to 4¼ points following the drop on the previous day as a result of the closing of the gold exchange in Buenos Aires.

Other South American loans, however, trended lower. City of Cordoba 7s of 1957 dropped 3¾ points to a new low for the year at 81¼ and Montevideo 6s sold off 1¾ to a new low for the year at 92¼. Medellin 6½s touched a new low at 64¾ but recovered and finished unchanged. Minas Ceraes 6½s of 1959 closed at 75, off 2 points, but touched a new low earlier in the day at 73.

C. & O. RY. PLANS A BOND ISSUE OF $35,088,000

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Chesapeake and Ohio railway sought permission to issue $35,088,000 of refunding and improvement mortgage gold bonds in an application today to the interstate commerce commission.

Of the proceeds from the bonds $31,390,000 would be used to retire a like amount of the road's 4½ per cent 20 year convertible gold bonds, maturing Feb. 1, 1930. The remaining $3,698,000 would be used to reimburse the treasury of the road for capital expenditures and to retire a like amount of improvement mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, which matured Jan. 1, 1929.

The application said that no contract for sale of the securities had yet been entered into, but it was believed they could be sold as of Jan. 1, 1930.

The following information has been summarized by Mr. S. B. Way, President of The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company, from his letter dated December 19, 1929, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

BUSINESS

The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company does the entire commercial electric light and power and steam heating business in the City of Milwaukee and suburbs, as well as substantially the entire street railway business in this territory. It also furnishes most of the interurban transportation service throughout an extensive surrounding district, which includes the cities of Racine, Kenosha, Burlington, Waukesha, Watertown and Sheboygan, and owns and operates the local street railway system in Racine. Electric power is supplied to nearly all of the public utilities in the southeastern section of the State of Wisconsin.

More than 58% of operating revenues, and more than 71% of net earnings as shown above, for the twelve months ended September 30, 1929 were derived from electric light and power business.

The company's properties have been well maintained. The above net earnings are after adequate charges for maintenance, $23,403,613 having been expended for that purpose alone in the ten-year period ended December 31, 1928 and $2,992,396 in the twelve months ended September 30, 1929. Appropriations from earnings for depreciation reserves (in addition to actual expenditures for maintenance) in the ten-year period amounted to $20,717,220, and in the twelve months ended September 30, 1929 amounted to $2,831,422.

Additional bonds may be issued under the Refunding and First Mortgage, subject to restrictions provided therein.

Prices Are Around 3c Lower at Close.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in the wheat market yesterday from start to finish and at no time were values as high as the finish of the previous day. Houses with eastern connections and local professionals were sellers and found support lacking. At the inside figure prices showed 3@3½c under Wednesday's close, while the finish was at net losses of 2⅞@3⅝c. Winnipeg was weak and 3⅝c lower, while Buenos Aires dropped ⅞@1⅛c, and Rosario, 1@1⅞c. Liverpool broke 1¼@1⅝d, with some selling attributed to American account.

Trading was materially curtailed as the result of the widespread storm, and the aggregate business in wheat was the smallest in some time. Many local longs were credited with having either reduced their lines or having sold out entirely. There was also evening up for the government report due today at 2 p. m. Chicago time.

Await Government Report.

A small increase in the winter wheat acreage for the crop of 1930 is generally expected by the grain trade with a relatively high condition. After allowing for average abandonment of acreage the report is expected to suggest a crop well above domestic requirements. With expectations that the carryover from the 1929 crop will again be unusually large, sentiment became increasingly bearish, and there was a noticeable lack of aggressive buying on the way down, although purchases by shorts and holders of bids around $1.30 for May held the market for a time.

Reports indicate that part of the winter wheat belt received a good snow covering before the severe drop in temperatures, and no damage is expected to result. There was a lack of export demand at the seaboard and the usual holiday dullness is regarded as having settled over the market.

December Corn Firm.

Possibility that the movement of cash corn in the west might be materially delayed for some days as the result of the blizzard led to short covering in December, but the market eased toward the last in sympathy with wheat and the close was ½c lower, while the deferred months were 1@1¼c lower. Cash houses bought December and sold May. The spot basis was steady to 2c higher, as compared with December, with receipts only 15 cars, many trains failing to arrive until late in the day, and in some instances switching to inspection tracks was impossible. Buenos Aires closed ⅜@1⅛c lower.

Houses with northwestern connections sold oats, and there was also liquidation by scattered longs. December, however, acted tight and at the last was only 3¼c under the May. Net losses for the day were ⅛@1⅛c. Buying by shorts and holders of bids furnished the bulk of the support.

December rye showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure and was off only ⅞c for the day, while the deferred futures lost 2⅝@2½c in sympathy with wheat.

BIG UPTURN IN EGGS

Egg futures recorded sensational advances on the Chicago mercantile exchange following reports of continued snow and stormy weather throughout the country. The advance was steady with the finish showing gains of $105 a car or ¾c in December and January and a net advance of 1⅜c or $210 a car in January fresh firsts with the settlement raised at the close. Sales were 301 cars with receipts of 1,276 cases. Weather reports were the basis for sharply higher butter prices with a gain of ⅜c or $168 a car in December, ⅛c or $48 a car in January and ⅝c or $72 a car in February. Sales were 28 cars and receipts 4,645 tubs. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Holiday dullness prevailed in export circles, and while a little business was said to have been worked on the break, sales of wheat in all positions were estimated at only 200,000 bu. Local handlers sold 25,000 bu corn and 12,000 bu oats to the domestic trade. Deliveries on December contracts were 44,000 bu wheat; 65,000 bu oats, and 75,000 bu rye.

LARD SLOW AND EASIER

An easier tone prevailed in the lard market, yesterday, with trading light and the close was at net losses of 6@7½c. This weakness in products was in the face of light receipts of hogs, due to storms all over the west and to an advance of 15@25c in prices, light hogs selling up to $10.00, the highest in a long time. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to 3d higher, the weakness being in the cash article. Exports were 2,299,469 lbs.

Light offerings with a fair demand boosted prices 5@7½c. Cash trade was fair. Shipments of meats were smaller than last year, and of lard showed a good increase. Exports of bacon were 191,500 lbs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A government report on acreage of winter wheat and rye for the 1930 harvest is due in Chicago today at 2 o'clock. Acreage of winter wheat harvested this year was 40,217,000, against 41,734,000 in 1928. Rye acreage was 3,225,000, against 3,480,000 harvested last year. A fairly high condition of both wheat and rye is expected. Condition Dec. 1, last year, was 84.4 and the 10 year average is 84.6. Rye condition last year was 84.4 and the 10 year average 88.2.

Wheat traders were mostly bearish last night, despite the decline in prices to almost the government basis, $1.18 Chicago, while in Minneapolis December was $1.21⅜, against $1.25 as the government loaning basis. For the last four days wheat has been on the market on every bulge, while the buying support has been inadequate to sustain values, despite bullish Argentine news and reduction in the Australian crop estimates. Above all, there is limited foreign buying and disappointing export clearances.

An impression is gaining ground in the wheat trade that fundamentals are not bullish. The main argument is that prices are at a level where tired longs are showing more uneasiness, and at the same time, uncertainty as to what the farm board and the coöperatives are to do, which keeps traders from pressing the bear side too much, while the selling is said to be long wheat taken on while bullish news from Argentine was the main factor.

The jury's selection of the official poster to publicize the "Chicago—World City Week" from Feb. 3 to 8 will be made today from entries of over a hundred artists. The winning artist will receive a prize of $700. B. J. Mullaney heads the jury of award, which also includes Charles D. Frey, Robert B. Harshe, John A. Holabird, and A. W. Sherer.

Expects Milwaukee Road to Earn $6 on Preferred

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway, said yesterday that the road's business was off somewhat due to a general slackening of industry. December loadings so far have been substantially under those of a year ago, while gross revenues and net operating income are expected to show a larger decline from last year than they did in November. "I expect our earnings this year to equal about $6 a share on the preferred stock," he said.

Preliminary estimate indicates gross of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad for November was around $12,800,000, a decrease of about $550,000 or 4.5 per cent from the gross of $13,361,280 in the same month last year. November operating expenses were practically unchanged, indicating net operating income a little less than $2,000,000, as compared with $2,407,613 in November, 1928.

Week's Structural Steel Orders Reach 51,000 Tons

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Structural steel orders for last week amounted to about 51,000 tons, compared with 35,000 in the previous week, it is reported. Inquiries totaled 42,000, as against 34,000 in the week before.

Spot butter and egg markets were firm, but trade was light due to inability of retailers to get around. Live poultry and potato markets were unchanged with no sales of potatoes in carlots reported. Receipts were 57 cars with 185 cars on team track.

A. H. Berg, Veteran Leader, Is Made Grain Co-op Head

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A. H. Berg, Baltic, S. D., a veteran leader in the farm coöperative movement, today was elected president of the Northwest Grain coöperative, organized her to serve as the northwest regional agency for the federal farm board's Farmers National Grain corporation of Chicago.

Berg, together with other officers, was named at a formal meeting of directors of the new corporation, which filed its articles in Delaware this week providing for capitalization of $2,000,000 and provision for a reserve fund of up to $1,000,000. It represents efforts on the part of a large number of coöperatives operating in the spring wheat belt to form a central organization in line with the suggestions of the farm board.

SAY CAMPBELL NOW FAVORS STEEL MERGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—Belief that the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company will be brought into the merger of midwest steel independents which has been arranged by Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, was strengthened today by dispatches from Youngstown which quoted James A. Campbell, chairman of the Youngstown company, as warmly approving the consolidation of the Republic Iron and Steel company, the Central Alloy Steel corporation, Donner Steel, Inc., and the Bourne-Fuller Co.

In Wall street it is generally understood that conversations already have taken place looking to the inclusion of Youngstown Sheet and Tube in the Republic-Central Alloy merger. Mr. Campbell, when he was president of Sheet and Tube, called off negotiations looking to a consolidation of that company and Republic. He is said now to be willing to negotiate again. The Eaton interests are understood to be large holders of Sheet and Tube stock.

The merger of several midwestern steel companies may result in new public financing aggregating $100,000,000, it was reported in Wall street today. A large new bond issue is expected to be floated by the new Republic Steel corporation.

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She owns but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she tells him to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Merriam who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other.

INSTALLMENT XI.

JOHN ANDREW ADVERTISES.

His last day on the train, swinging down the steep grades of the Sierras, he had attempted fiercely to find some solution—some attacking point—of the task before him; into it, an integral part, the figure of Anne was now woven. For all his desperate consideration he was no nearer any plan than before.

John Andrew did not trouble to examine his room at the hotel; had his meals sent up, and then, attempting a brisk pace at variance to his mood, as if he, too, were busy with a dozen important affairs, walked back through the lobby, and to the street outside. Where now? He had no idea, and merely intended walking the stiffness out of his legs, postponing the resumption of his problem as long as possible.

All of the giant enterprises—the department stores with their window after window of different goods and wares, the jewelry stores with flashing diamonds and emeralds exposed on black velvet pads, the shops of a hundred varieties—had started on less than five thousand dollars, but, John Andrew thought soberly, had not increased to their present magnitude over night, nor in less than thirty days. Whatever he did, it must be some sort of a gamble; the job was to determine one which would have certainty attached to it. That, however, was how every stock market tipster described his own suggestion. John Andrew knew how many suckers fell for it.

He passed, walking more slowly now, buildings bearing only the name of the owner-occupants, dealers or manufacturers of machinery, of clothes, tools and electrical equipment,—all took more than thirty days; none of them was for him, unless he might stumble over some small manufacturer in need of money to develop some machine which, in turn, could be sold to a large corporation to be marketed.

Why not an advertisement in one of the newspapers: Willing to invest time in enterprise guaranteed to become $10,000 within thirty days.

What a horde of leeches that would bring!

Yet possibly out of the hundreds of attempts to grab sucker money, John Andrew wondered if he might not find one man who really had something; some fellow who did not know how to get some one else to promote his undertaking. He even went further with the idea. If the machine, or apparatus, whatever it was, looked good, he'd play perfectly safe and wire his New York bank for the name of some local bank to do the investigating for him, and make sure that the invention—or whatever it was—did not turn out to be a fraud. With this new caution, he remembered that there were such things as patents; how long would it take to find out if an article were not an infringement on some present machine? Unless, of course, the fellow already had his patent papers. It did not seem such a bad notion to John Andrew. What better one had he?

He reworded, as he walked, the original advertisement, until it became, "Investor"—which sounded very conservative—"will consider"—investing? Or, he'd used the sense of that once. "Investor will consider proposition to finance promising invention assuring rapid returns. Not interested in gold mines nor oil stocks." That had a good sound tone.

Whistling, John Andrew at last wrote out his advertisement, paid for it, and arranged to have the answers sent to a box at the newspaper office, from which they were to be mailed to his hotel.

"You'll get a million answers, won't you?" the girl at the newspaper office said, as she checked the number of words and told him the amount.

"It'll run high," Kellogg agreed airily. "Must be a good many good ideas running around which only need some promotion to make them blossom into fame."

"Yes, sir," the girl said. "One of the stenographer's uncles had a machine—"

"Tell him to write me," John Andrew told her kindly. "May be the very thing eh?"

"Yes, sir," she said. "His name's——"

"Wouldn't be sporting to the other fellows if I knew that, would it? First come, first served, and all that sort of thing."

You take an invention, now, John Andrew thought as he walked away: you take it, just like real estate and cigars and lamb chops—hmm. Anne ought to be in Hollywood now. How in thunder was he to go there, with this invention already on his hands? She'd say to herself, "Just a big fourflusher; he never intended coming south." And she'd make a mean remark about lip machines—well, the invention would probably be a little machine—something to put the trademark on eggs, perhaps, or to make genuine pigskin out of sawdust and a secret ingredient—but it would be the means of getting him the very thing Anne didn't think he'd come south in.

Slowly John Andrew, out of sheer inexperience, built up a tremendous plan, blooming over night, and selling the Kellogg . . . whatever it was going to be. An undercurrent of doubt he kept fiercely in the background, but whenever it assailed him he daydreamed more completely. How'd all those big fellows really make their money? A process of making steel; an invention cutting the cost of railroading; a new way to manufacture silk. That was what he was going to do, for certainly some one had a machine which, given the money to develop, would do some miraculous work.

What he might do would be to interest some sound personality—a banker of his choice—in the enterprise, and sell him a tenth interest for . . . five thousand dollars. Just one stroke like that, and the terms of the will were satisfied, and he could then insist that the business be conducted in his own name. Kellogg & Co., Inc. He'd drop a note to Anne on that stationery; a modest card gray with engraved letters, with "office of the president" in the upper left hand corner, telling her just when he'd be in Los Angeles.

"This's a loading zone," the other said. "Jump in, John Andrew. It's good to see you again. What you doin' out here?"

John Andrew climbed into the sedan, and said, "By gosh, I'm tired. I'm a business man now, Pete. Nice car."

"You bet. Beauty and performance, boy. On a visit?"

"Well," John Andrew said thoughtfully, "I may do a little investing here. How're things going, Pete?"

"You fellows out here think you've got to make a million to be happy," John Andrew chided. "I could be talked into buying a drink, Pete, if you know a place where there's a chance of getting less than fifty per cent wood alcohol."

A few minutes later John Andrew sighed. "A real bar," he said. "And a bartender who twirls the ice in one glass while he mixes the cocktails with another. And—yes, I believe that's going to be a pickled onion. Pete, I'm glad I found you, or, to be more exact, you found me."

It was at the third cocktail that Peter Merriam became confidential: "You mustn't judge by the car, Andy. I know that the Mercury's a magnificent job. You can't compare it with anything sellin' for less than double the price. It's got dignity and beauty, and it'll hit eighty faster than any other car on the market. You can get service anywhere; you can't get that with foreign cars, Andy. You can run a Mercury fifty-five all day long——"

"And spend the night in jail."

"Let me tell you about the records the Mercury holds."

"You don't know what it is to be hard up, Andy," he said. "You never had to face any real problem in your life."

Kellogg looked at him, but said nothing.

"Here you are, looking for a chance to make a couple of hundred thousand at least, and here am I——"

"Just about to get outside another Martini," John Andrew said hurriedly. It dawned that fifty dollars wouldn't make any difference one way or the other; old Pete had been one of the gang, and nothing like Jennings. Nevertheless, the last cocktail did not increase the little mellow glow the others had started.

"Here I am," Merriam said sadly, "trying to hang on to a job and knowing darn well I'm going to be let out Saturday.

"Here I am," Merriam said sadly, "trying to hang on to a job, and knowing darn well that I'm going to be let out on Saturday. How long you going to be in San Francisco, Andy?"

"Want to tell."

GASOLINE ALLEY—MY, HOW TIME DRAGS!

Firemen Join Good Fellows' Happy Crusade

Others Add Their Efforts Toward Merry Christmas.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Four days left and Good Fellow units of Chicago firemen, high school students, technical engineers, electricians, and numerous other groups of Christmas joy crusaders are now marking time to fall in line of the big parade of Good Fellows next Tuesday.

These battling units are fully prepared to banish gloom and poverty from homes of the needy poor children on Christmas morning. Their work is not emblazoned from the public highways and the satisfaction they get is that they've saved some out of luck youngster from the sorrow of an empty stocking on Christmas morning.

The principal activity of the Chicago fire fighters' south side Good Fellow unit will center Monday at engine company No. 59's house, located at the Exchange avenue entrance of the stockyards. Assistant Fire Marshal Patrick Egan, head of the fire prevention bureau, will inspect this fighting outfit.

One branch of Good Fellow endeavor yesterday extended a helping hand to old Mrs. Nels Knutson, 74, whose husband died Dec. 13, and left her penniless. Her grief was she hadn't funds to bury her husband. His body was in the county morgue.

This afternoon Nels Knutson, the 73-year old hodcarrier, will be buried in Wunder cemetery on North Clark street. Funds of CHICAGO TRIBUNE Good Fellows will defray the funeral expenses. The aged hodcarrier's funeral will be held at 2 o'clock from the Old Swedish mission at 213 West Oak street. Salvation Army girls will sing some hymns and the Rev. Harold Erickson will preach the sermon. Knutson often attended that mission and his pallbearers were selected from the men who drop in there each evening in winter for a cup of hot coffee and doughnuts.

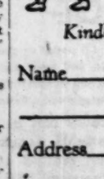

Supt. Axel Sanquist of the Swedish mission said Knutson had ignored other insurance, because he relied on the $500 policy he held in the Chicago German Hodcarriers' union, which is reputed to be the wealthiest in the country. He has been a member of the German local for 34 years. This story was told:

"Lately the union dues were raised from $4 to $6. Knutson had the $4 to pay, but died before he could raise the additional $2 more.

"Secretary August Wahl at first denied Knutson's membership and then ordered his 74 year old widow out of his office."

George F. Getz will do some effective work for poor children this year. Irwin [Bosco] Knott of Electrical Workers' union, No. 2 registered for the names of twenty-five families. He did so in behalf of his union members.

British Women Protest Russian Reds' Stand Against Religions

LONDON, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Nearly 5,000 religionists, most of them women, gathered in Albert hall tonight to protest against "the persecution of religion in Russia." The meeting was arranged by the Christian Protest committee, which has the Earl of Glasgow and Viscount Brentford as joint chairmen.

There were heated speeches denouncing what was described as Russian interference with religious liberty. The meeting then adopted a resolution which said:

"The persistent and cruel persecution of our fellow worshipers in Russia calls upon all believers in God and lovers of liberty throughout the world to pray and work unceasingly for the religious freedom of the people in that country.

"The British government is urged to make the strongest possible representations to the soviet government to bring this persecution to an end.

Tyrone Power Resigns from Civic Shakespeare Cast

Yearly Toy Bill Over 100 Million, U. S. Estimates

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—In 1927, the last year for which United States production figures are available, the national toy bill was estimated at a hundred million dollars and exports at $4,000,000. In the two subsequent years, the department of commerce said today, those who have watched the manufactures in this industry and the use by children of American toys, anticipate a far larger consumption total for 1929.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. Leo H. Scriba, Mendota, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

William Hannan, 6812 Osceola avenue, salesman—A toy train, and wasn't that the sport! That was many years ago, before mechanical toys were highly developed or very popular. Electric power for them was not thought of. This train was wound up with a key. I kept that pet toy for many years.

Mrs. Dorothy Davis, 4258 Botanical avenue, St. Louis, Mo., housewife — A white doll buggy of the perambulator type, with closing top and everything. It was a beauty. I was as proud of it as could be, and I almost envied the dolls who could ride in it. I kept it and took good care of it until two years ago, when I gave it to a friend's child.

W. S. Payne, 766 Federal building, postoffice clerk—When I was a child I wanted to be a captain of a steamboat, so you can imagine my happiness when on one Christmas morning I found myself the possessor of a classy little steamboat. I could spend hours sailing the high seas of our bath tub, calling at the various ports.

Mrs. Barbara Hickman, 4829 Addison street, housewife—A gingham doll that mother made for me out of a discarded dress. On that Christmas night I remember mother calling out asking if we children were asleep. We said "Yes." We didn't let her know we suspected she was fixing the Christmas presents.

Jay Shull, 2112 Sedgwick street, purchasing agent—A pair of rubber boots. Though they were the smallest ones in the store they were a size too large, but I hung on to them tight; I knew that if I didn't I wouldn't have any rubber boots.

Stormy Outside? Shedd Aquarium Frogs Are Calm

Their Private Pond Wins Placid Approval.

Almost no one came to see the turtles and bullfrogs who awaited formal introduction to the public in their synthetic swamp in the Shedd aquarium yesterday. That is, no one came except workmen, building officials, a photographer or two armed with snowshovels and earmuffs, and one aged man whose sole purpose in coming was to have a good time watching turtles.

The turtles, of the common garden variety, and the frogs, the sort whose stentorian singing may be heard on spring evenings in the country, cared not a whit whether visitors came or not. Paddling about in the water, they ignored both the splendor within and the blizzard without.

The formal opening of Octagon hall, in the center of which is a swamp and pool, and the main foyer precedes the opening of the aquarium proper by about five months. The full opening is planned tentatively for May 1.

Stanley Field, head of the building committee of the Shedd Aquarium society, was the only member of the society who braved the snow to attend the partial opening yesterday.

"There is something peculiarly fascinating about fish," Mr. Field said, "and every aquarium attracts a large attendance. The Shedd aquarium should draw at least 2,000,000 a year, I should think.

"I don't know why people are so drawn to fish, but perhaps it is their motion and their beautiful coloring. Seeing them move through the water has an irresistible interest for people."

Everywhere the visitor looks in the aquarium he will see some representation of marine life. Even the marble of the wainscoting is green, the color of the sea, and wavy. Over the archways in the foyer are little imported French tile perch blowing bubbles. Medallions of tile, showing salt water fish, are over archways in Octagon hall, and a band of tilefish will chase each other around the wall when it is completed.

Every effort is being made in order that the fish will feel at home.

A. ZUKOR FORESEES HOLLYWOOD, STAGE CENTER FOR WORLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 19.—Adolph Zukor, movie magnate, predicted here today: "The talkies will not kill our foreign markets for films. In Hollywood we expect to be able to produce pictures in French, German, Spanish, Italian and perhaps other languages. How this will be done is another matter.

"I myself favor a method which would keep one good company of foreign actors in the languages mentioned busy all the time. One company alone could not afford to keep a company of French actors for instance, because there would not be enough plays produced in English to be translated into French.

"If all the companies, however, were to work together on this, they could keep one company going all the time like a stock company. For instance, the actors could do a play for A studio one week in French and for B studio the next week, and so on. They would be kept steadily employed.

"And we gradually will draw the best actors in all languages to Hollywood, because there will be more for them there. Thus the best talent in all languages will be centered in Hollywood. When a play is produced in English it will be re-written for other actors in other languages and done over again. We make Chevalier talkies in French as well as in English right now; he goes as well in Frisco in French as in English.

"We shall be able to produce in Hollywood all the pictures they need. There is no doubt, of course, that Hollywood, because of climatic and other conditions, always will be the best place to make pictures.

"Take a man like Emil Jannings, who cannot speak English well enough for pictures in English. He will produce exclusively in German.

"The history of the talkie will repeat the history of the gramophone. The first gramophone was a squeaky, scratchy affair, compared to the almost perfect present day product."

Prof. Michelson Observes 77th Birthday at Home

Prof. Albert A. Michelson, renowned physicist of the University of Chicago, quietly observed his 77th birthday yesterday with his family. Dr. Michelson recently returned to his home at 1022 East 58th street after undergoing a series of operations and weathering a siege of pneumonia at the Presbyterian hospital. He and Mrs. Michelson plan to leave for Florida after the holidays. Later, his health permitting, Prof. Michelson will resume work on his experiment to check his determination of the speed of light.

BRITONS WILL SING THIS OLD CAROL AS REJOICING OVER KING

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Thousands of British families during Christmas will be singing a carol composed by Sir Edward Elgar, noted British composer and orchestral conductor, to celebrate the king's recovery from illness.

Entitled "Good Morrow," with the subtitle, "A simple carol for his majesty's happy recovery," some verses written by the poet, George Gascoigne [1540-78] have been set to four-part harmony by Sir Edward with stirring crescendos and rich harmonic effects. The last verse of the carol reads:

Bedecked with sundry hues,
Is like the seat of God on high,
And seems to tell these news.
That as thereby he promised
To drown the world no more.
So by the blood which Christ hath shed,
He will our health restore.

Hallie Stiles Wins as Elsa in "Lohengrin"

Syracuse Girl Makes Her Chicago Debut.

"LOHENGRIN."

THE CAST.

King Henry	Alexander Kipnis
Lohengrin	René Maison
Elsa of Brabant	Hallie Stiles [début]
Telramund	Robert Ringling
Ortrud	Maria Olszewska
The King's Herald	Desire Defrere

Conductor, Egon Pollak.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Lohengrin" was a little more interesting than usual last night because the cast contained the name of an American girl, Hallie Stiles, who was making her American debut. What was more, it was the first time that she had sung the rôle of Elsa on any stage. There was more interest yet to discover before the performance had advanced far that she was making good in a quite decisive manner and on both counts.

Miss Stiles, a native of Syracuse, New York, has been for three years a member of the company of the Opéra-Comique, Paris, where they like her greatly. Judging by her debut, it will not be long before Chicago likes her quite as much, and this though her first performance was in a German rôle instead from the French répertoire with which she is presumably more familiar.

There is no question that she made a success out of her Elsa, and in saying so one is not obliged to make use of the discounting semi-apology of a first performance, or facing a new audience. It was good under any consideration.

In the first place she is easy on the eyes, with the sort of good looks that is entirely applicable to Elsa, the gentle, wide-eyed lack of sophistication of which the rôle, dramatically considered, is such a striking example. In the second place she has a voice that matches her looks, a slender, gentle voice which never fails to be entirely accurate or never lacks the right shade of expression and at all times manages to be charming in quality. In the third, the lack of experience in worldly affairs to which I have just referred applies entirely to Elsa and not to Miss Stiles, for Miss Stiles would seem to know her way around the stage with a good deal of certainty.

So with these qualifications her part of the first act went across with considerable manner and the second was even better. The flight of time made it impossible to hear the third, and this is said with regret, for the performance was going in good form. There is one good thing about "Lohengrin," however. When Wagner wrote it he was not yet in the state of mind wherein he found it necessary to tell the story of one of its predecessors in lengthy and maddening monologue.

With all Miss Stiles' success, it was no single-star performance for her. "Lohengrin" was a first rate performance in all details last season, and it was also one last night, perhaps a little better because it gave the impression of being more firmly knit.

There was the Ortrud of Maria Olszewska, who has not been equaled in the part since Schumann-Heink was a young woman. There was the Lohengrin of Rene Maison, who is not only a singer of high rank but a fine, masculine romantic. There was the King Henry of Alexander Kipnis, who always manages somehow to be the center of proceedings as soon as he opens his mouth. There was the Telramund of Robert Ringling, another excellent singer, who had a big moment in the second act in his declaration that it is inadvisable to become the husband of a dealer in magic and spells. There was Desiré Defrere in the least grateful rôle of the piece, that of the herald, whose announcements he delivered firmly and with dignity.

Finally there was Egon Pollak at the baton, a masterful conductor who knows his Wagner to the last note and the last shade of expression. It may be added that the unseen ministrations of Charles Moor, stage director, provided a succession of impressive, well massed, and finely colored stage pictures.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD.

Plum Puddings May Boast a Thousand Rules

English Love Them Aflame on a Platter.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

It needs a rhapsodist, all stirred up and properly equipped with facts about Christmas puddings, to write triumphantly of a delicacy which is dotted over a large part of the surface of the globe at this season.

The term Christmas plum pudding is almost a royal label, while the thing itself is supposed to be one of the unapproachable delights. It has been said that the Christmas plum pudding in England stands next to St. George as an object of worship, especially when it appears wrapped in alcoholic blaze, or, as the French would say, "flambé le cognac." By the way, the French have some naïve notions about the English Christmas.

The English love their blazing puddings as well as plums afire in the Christmas snapdragon. In fact, we might consider the plum as much an English property as the plum pudding is, which Dickens has said enters into the very heart and life of the English nation, as well as into English red lanes, where it has been known to halt traffic painfully.

A glorious black Christmas plum pudding has indeed furnished the most bombilating background for burning brandy and holly. (Bombilating is an easy word derived from bomb, and if we are looking for other warlike analogies we will find in Dickens' "Christmas Carol" that there was a pudding which looked like a speckled cannon ball.)

* * *

A Thousand Recipes.

All this does not suggest what is highly true, that there are plum puddings and plum puddings. Indeed, this pudding is a genus, and not a species. There is a whole fleet of different recipes bearing the label. It would not take long to resurrect a thousand of such recipes, many with the most interesting associations. One might easily get into an argument as to which was the most authentic. Even with one recipe, one can get more than one effect, and this fact was recognized in an ancient custom to the effect that if you wish to assure yourself of twelve happy months for the year you must taste twelve different puddings before "Twelfth Night." To insure this happy eventuation English housewives have distributed small portions of their own productions among their friends, wishing them, indeed, not only a happy New Year but a happy whole year in this way.

Another of the pleasant jollities connected with this pudding has been that the true test of a pudding was "chewing the string," which also gave you complete immunity from indigestion.

* * *

Cooking a Pudding.

And if one wished to get into an argument about pudding recipes, they should begin to discuss how to cook the pudding, whether tied in a rag (well floured) and boiled in a bag, or cooked in an earthen bowl—I have seen thousands being prepared this latter way in the city of London. The old rhyme might settle it:

"Rounded while plastic in a tightened rag,
Whose mold and matrix was a pudding bag."

After it was boiled in the bag, the pudding was hung to drain and dry, or cure. To some of us puddings boiling in bags seem to give off a laundry odor. Those puddings boiled in the bowl had the cloth removed and they were dried before they were sent out to the uttermost parts of the earth, ultimately to be heated and finally brought to far distant flaming.

Stirring the Batter.

It is a marvel to see a Stygian lake of plum pudding batter. News pictures of last year showed up such batters being stirred with wooden shovels in bowls holding as much as a hogshead. One of the pictured stirrers was a borough mayor of suburban London, helping to mix the first Christmas pudding in a bakery which turned out 500,000 during the season. Ancient custom in that borough prescribes the stirring rite for the suburb's chief magistrate.

The kind of a Christmas pudding the king of England shall have each year receives Associated Press attention. Last year it was a giant weighing a ton, and it was "unveiled" at a cookery exposition. The news included the recipe for it. Among the ingredients was considerable strong spirit. Year before last, King George's empire contributed to a pudding of heroic size and sweetness: Australian and South African and Canadian fruits, New Zealand beef suet, West Indies sugar, Irish eggs, Ceylon, Zanzibar, and Straits Settlements, and East Indian spices, with one gill of Cyprus brandy, two gills of Jamaica rum, and two quarts of old English beer.

Cooking a Pudding.

No English cook book has such a charming discussion of Christmas plum pudding as Tabitha Ticklетooth's (1880). She begins the section on this subject thus: "This peculiarly national dish, which Lord Byron, during his sojourn in Florence, after devoting a whole morning to giving directions to a cook for its proper preparation, for an English treat to his friends on his birthday, had it served up as a soup in a tureen."

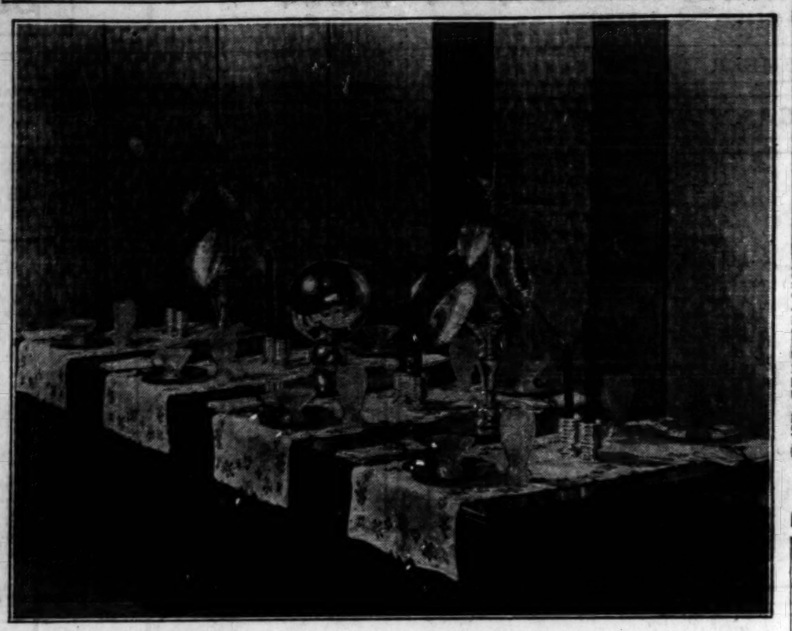

Too bad we cannot quote T. T.'s comments on the continental situation as regards plum puddings. She gives four recipes, one her own [to make assurance doubly sure], but she says that in using this the inexperienced housewife can perfect her own pudding. Tabitha, after her pudding is cooked, sticks four ounces of blanched Jordan almonds into it or all over it and makes a hole in the center with a spoon for two glasses of brandy and then pours a third over it.

Tabitha also gives "a metrical recipe" for Christmas pudding, which was taken from a literary man's journal, giving the ancient air to which one should sing it: "Jeanette and Jeanot." Here it is:

If you wish to make the pudding in which every one delights,
Of six pretty new laid eggs, you must take the yolks and whites,
Beat them well up in a basin till they thoroughly combine,
And be sure you chop the suet up particularly fine.
Then tie the mixture in a cloth and put it in a pot—
Some people like the water cold and some prefer it hot.
But though I don't know which of these two plans I ought to praise,
I know it ought to boil an hour for every pound it weighs.
O, if I were Queen of France, or, still better, pope of Rome,
I'd have a Christmas pudding every day I dined at home;
All the world should have a piece,
And if any did remain,
Next morning for my breakfast I would have it fried again.

We would praise the boiling water plan and a one pound pudding would be cooked more than an hour, so that rule has its limitations, as do almost all the rules, scores of them, one may find concerning Christmas plum puddings.

CHRISTMAS TABLE IN MODERN SPIRIT

Corn Meal Scrapple.

In my files there are over sixty separate recipes for scrapple, recipes collected from over a wide territory for this unique product of the city of Philadelphia. They canot all be Philadelphia scrapples, nor do they pretend to be. Almost every conceivable meat and different cuts of pork and beef and chicken, etc., are used in these recipes. There are probably recipes for scrapple in nearly all of my collection of American cook books, numbering something over two hundred.

Just recently some one wrote to me for my own scrapple version, worked out some years ago for the sake of a small and inexpensive recipe, the old time recipes making large amounts of scrapple. Also, the bona fide meat for a true Philadelphia scrapple was the hog's head.

This small recipe is: Scrape off any adhering dirt from one pound of spare ribs and wash. Add to them one quart of water, one or two onions, some dried or fresh celery leaves and what you choose of seasonings. Old recipes always call for sage which must be added with great discrimination. Bring this collection slowly to a boil and cook it at a simmering temperature until the bones will slip out of the meat, then shred the meat from the gristle and strain the liquor.

It is all right to leave the fat in if to make the scrapple a more valuable winter food, but the liquor can be cooled and the fat removed. Into a pint of this stir one-half cup of yellow corn meal and a tablespoon of flour until all is thick. Add shredded meat and cook gently an hour or more. Turn into a small bread pan rinsed out with cold water.

Let is set for some hours, then cut in thick slices and fry in bacon or other fat. It must be gently fried to get a delicious brown crust and one which will not peel off when the fork cuts through it.

AIR LINE CUTS RATES TO PARITY WITH RAIL FARES

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—(AP)—A reduction of air passenger fares into the southwest equal to the existing rail-Pullman rates was announced today by the Southwest Air Fast Express, effective Jan. 1. The air line is the first to place its rates on a parity with railroad fares.

The drastic cut was announced by Erle Halliburton, president of the air line, as an experiment to determine whether the comparatively slow increase in commercial air traffic is due to "air fear" or to so called prohibitive prices.

The new rates, which will be approximately 5 cents an air mile, will be effective between St. Louis and Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Forth Worth and Dallas, Tex., and other southwest points.

The first "excursions by air" were announced today by the Transcontinental Air Trasport-Maddux lines and the Universal Aviation corporation.

The Universal offers excursion rates of round trip for one way fare effective tomorrow and continuing up to and including Jan. 5, for the benefit of holiday travelers, chiefly between St. Louis, Chicago and Cleveland.

WOMAN MAY NOT GET THAT $10,000 U. S. CLERKSHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Just when friends of Miss Annabel Matthews were congratulating her on having won the most lucrative job to which any woman ever has been appointed in the government service a hitch developed today.

The senate, which yesterday confirmed President Hoover's appointment of Miss Matthews to a $10,000 position as a member of the board of tax appeals, voted to reconsider the action and sent the nomination back to the finance committee. This step was taken on the insistence of Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], a member of the committee and critic of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who pointed out that approval of the appointment was in conflict with the policy established under a resolution adopted by the senate in 1926.

It appears that the senate in 1926, on the motion of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], expressed its opinion that treasury employés should not be named as members of the board of tax appeals unless they had been out of the government service for two years.

ARCHITECTS BUSY ON FINAL PLANS FOR 1933 FAIR

Members of the architectural commission for Chicago's Century of Progress exposition yesterday opened a three day meeting during which they expect to complete the final ground plan for the 1933 fair. Edward H. Bennett, Hubert Burnham, and John A. Holabird, Chicago members of the commission, who were selected as a subcommittee to design the Administration and Travel and Transport show buildings, also were to submit their sketches to the commission as a whole for criticism.

The meeting is being held in the office of Architect Bennett at 80 East Jackson boulevard. It was started late yesterday and will continue through today and probably tomorrow. Harvey Wiley Corbett of New York, chairman of the commission, was expected to be present today, although it was stated he may not arrive until Saturday. Raymond M. Hood and Ralph Thomas Walker, both of New York; and Paul Phillippe Cret of Philadelphia, were members of the commission who were present with the Chicago members.

Old Customs Are Nicest on Christmas Day

Let Your Table Radiate Good Cheer.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Whether your Christmas dinner or luncheon is to be a large family group composed of all sizes and ages of relatives, or whether it is to be a more formal affair with the guest list culled from the kitchenette and hotel "orphans" of your acquaintance, you'll want to dress up the table in gay and festive Yule decorations.

If you're fortunate enough to have the ingredients available for the family party, you can arrange a table of special appeal to the juvenile element, because the adults will be glad to join in the rollicking fun, or if you have a separate table for the youngsters, you can make that colorful with snappers, paper hats, and favors, to delight childish souls, and create a more conservative decoration for the elders.

Chance to Be Old Fashioned.

Christmas is one occasion when the charm of old fashioned customs is cherished, even in this age that is characterized by eagerness to discard everything savoring of the past. The elaborateness of table decoration that is now frowned upon for other events is always permissible for Christmas affairs. A wealth of Santa Clauses, favors, red holly, imitation shiny snow, and all the other pretty fripperies add to the joyousness of the day that should be old fashioned in its uninhibited enjoyment.

The business of having amusing little presents at the table is a good device for promoting merriment, and there are numerous ways in which they can be attractively arranged. A large cardboard Santa Claus, with his pack chockfull of knobby bundles can be set in the center of the table with ribbons extending to each place, or place card. A small Christmas tree, artificial or real, can be hung with the parcels containing ten cent store gifts, also with the ribbon arrangement.

Trees for the Table.

Some of the grocery stores have attractive little real trees, painted with some special kind of green paint to keep the needles from falling, and these would be nice for this purpose. I also saw some silvered trees of a size suitable for table use. If your color scheme is red and green, the packages can be tied in white tissue paper and red baby ribbon. Gold, silver, or fancy Christmas wrapping paper stuck with tiny stars would also be pretty, either with the red and green combination or whatever you are using.

I think it is the best to decide before you begin planning your decorations just which of the Christmas motifs you are going to use, and then stick to that one. A conglomeration of Santa Causes, holly, stars, Christmas trees, and red candles is likely to produce a messy effect, whereas a judicious combination of a few of these symbols will be attractive and pleasing.

13,000 TEACHERS FACING PAYLESS YULE; DUE TODAY

The chances of Chicago's 13,000 public school teachers receiving their Christmas pay checks, due today, appeared slim last night when President Caldwell of the board of education announced he had not yet negotiated a loan of $3,598,457 with which to meet the pay rolls and other December indebtedness.

He declared he was hopeful of obtaining the money this morning in order that the checks could be sent out to the schools before closing this afternoon for the holiday vacation.

Dr. R. L. Douglas, chief accountant of the school board, and employés in the auditing department stayed on the job last night in preparedness to mail the checks should Mr. Caldwell report the necessary funds had been deposited in the bank. They finally gave up hope, however, and left for their homes.

President Caldwell said he is trying to raise the money through the sale of an extra legal amount of 1929 anticipation warrants. Only $1,115,443 remains in the school treasury.

HOUSEHOLD DISCOVERIES

I keep a small bag hanging near the kitchen radiator. It is filled with the children's gloves and mittens. On snowy days the bag is dumped on a newspaper, where the kiddies find dry pairs as often as needed. The wet ones are thrown over the radiator, and at night the bag is filled with the dry gloves and hung up for another day. MRS. B. K. H., Oak Park.

I buy cheap glass bowl sets, put them in a pan of cold water and boil them. This hardens the glass and I can pour anything into them thereafter and they do not break. MRS. O. W., Chicago.

I find that any sharp or rough edges on glassware can be made smooth by rubbing with fine sandpaper. MRS. J. A. G.

A dome shaped wire sieve with the handle removed makes an excellent flower holder. Push some of the wires apart to make room for the large stems. L. M. B., Evanston.

Sew two or three pockets on a piece of canton flannel or other material, large enough to contain medicine bottle, teaspoon or clean handkerchief, and hang by means of a tape from the head of the bed. The patient can thus care for many of his own wants. MRS. E. G. S., Chicago.

Linen table things keep better rolled than when folded. An easy way to make rolls is to cover cylinders made of newspapers of the required length with the fancy Christmas wrapping papers tied at the ends with bits of ribbon. MISS A. H., Keokuk, Ia.

If you live in a small apartment and have no drawer for your silverware, cut up a dark blue flannel silverware holder the width of your pantry or cupboard door, and nail on the inside, one piece under the other. MRS. S. A., Chicago, Ill.

I had some individual salt and pepper shakers for which I had trouble to find small corks. I finally thought of using the rubber erasers from new pencils, and they work like a charm. MRS. E. G., Elgin, Ill.

A pleasing bit of frostiness that will not melt may be added to your holiday decorations with this method. Place as much powdered alum in hot water as will dissolve. Into this submerge sprays of evergreen, small tree branches or anything you are to use. Set aside, and they will crystallize in several hours.—MRS. J. N., Eldora, Ia.

Make a pocket of oilcloth for the end of the ironing board on which it stands when not in use, and the cover will be kept clean. MRS. W. E. G., Chicago.

I keep an all wool knitted cloth (I knit my own), about a foot square, hanging near my sink. This cloth, used dry, is better than any scouring powder for cleaning the sink, as it takes up all the grease and dirt with little rubbing. Rinsing it occasionally in warm soap and water keeps it clean. MRS. M. H., Chicago.

Curtains may be kept from hitting the screen by stretching one or more strands of wire across the window. MRS. P. R. P., Bloomington, Ill.

You Can Satisfy That Longing for Juicy Squab

Plentiful Supply Forces Price Down.

BY PAUL POTTER.

While the turkey gobbler reigns supreme in the November holiday dinner setting, he gives way to many other kinds of plain and fancy poultry dishes when the table is set after a morning with the new Christmas presents.

Many there are who have been fortunate enough to have a hunter in the family, or who have discovered that rabbits, ducks, and many other less common animal meats are on the market. Still others have a longing that culminates annually in a juicy squab dinner during the holiday festivities.

There are some seasons during the year when the observing market goer finds almost any table luxury relatively cheap. By taking advantage of these bargain day offerings, even such choice delicacies as squab come within the reach of the average pocketbook. This winter, with an abundance of all kinds of poultry, and prices correspondingly lower, even the fender meat of the baby pigeon is selling for something like 25 cents a pound less than at this time a year ago.

Dealers Get 50 Cents a Pound.

With sufficient quantities of squabs on hand to meet any normal demand at this season, leading Chicago dealers state that they are getting from 50 to 75 cents a pound. The demand seems to be for birds averaging from 10 to 12 pounds to the dozen. Retailers usually add about 25 cents a pound to these wholesale prices. The supply, shipped in by highly specialized squab breeders all over the middle west, comes ready dressed and with considerable care given the period of three to four weeks of fattening for market.

The squabs have an egg incubation period of about seventeen days, one pair of breeding birds having from two to as high as 10 or 11 pairs each year. The parents feed the young until they are taken for market, just before they would naturally be leaving the nest. Squabs grow prodigiously, attaining two-thirds of their mature weight by market time.

Whether this unusual dish is made the center of the Christmas setting, or some other of the wide range of poultry or meat selections is chosen, every indication points to very reasonable prices. This is due to some extent to the increased holdings in cold storage of poultry, meats, and butter, as indicated in the federal department of agriculture's December reports.

Plenty of Poultry.

Total stocks of frozen poultry were estimated at 115,818,000 pounds on Dec. 1, compared to 79,173,000 pounds a year ago. Holdings of turkeys, however, are practically unchanged, with nearly 25 per cent of this year's crop immature at Thanksgiving and held for further feeding for the approaching holidays. Creamery butter stocks, reported at 111,617,000 pounds Dec. 1, as against 70,985,000 last December, are especially disconcerting to dairymen.

The reserve supply of eggs is especially light this year, and prices have reflected the shortage in production, as well. In the realm of fresh fruits, supplies of apples in storage are the lowest in years.

Warmer Climes Lure Chicago Society Groups

BY THALIA

The fashionable exodus for winter resorts is to start even sooner after the Christmas holidays this year than usual.

Many of those who travel toward warmer places than Chicago for the winter are not even going to wait for the opera season to close before they depart.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Brown of 2450 Lake View avenue are to leave the day after Christmas for Chandler, Ariz. Mrs. Brown hasn't been well all fall, and she is to remain in the west until about March 1, although Mr. Brown will be back shortly.

The Albert Blake Dicks and their son and daughter-in-law, the Sheldon Dicks [Dorothy Michelson], have set Jan. 8 to leave for Florida. There they will board the Chieftain, the Dicks' spacious houseboat. They customarily entertain a succession of houseboat guests during their long southern stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson are going to try out their new yacht. It is the Gadfly II., launched recently at Gloucester, Mass. They leave shortly after the new year begins for deep sea fishing off Florida and in the Caribbean. The first Gadfly is also in Floridian water, but it is a houseboat-type.

The Stanley Fields and the Potter Palmers will go some time in January to their respective places in Sarasota, Fla., and the Richard T. Cranes will undoubtedly spend some time at their place at Jekyll Island, Ga.

Latest bulletins on the party situation! Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lynde of Winnetka are to give a dinner party for Miss Joy Fairman, debutante, at the Palmer house on Monday evening, afterward taking the guests to the Yale Glee club concert at Orchestra hall. Both Miss Fairman and the Lyndes' daughter, Margaret Emily, plan to go east for some visits after the holiday season.

The 75 undergraduate members of the cast of "The Golden Dog," the Princeton Triangle club's offering this year, have been invited to the tea dance Mrs. Ralph Small and Mrs. Willing Kirk are to give for their debutante daughters, Anne Small and Janet Kirk, at the Drake hotel before their performance at the opera house next Friday evening. The men are also bid to the Barrett Wendells' ball for their daughter, Barbara, to take place the same evening, after which they must take their special train at midnight for Cleveland for their next performance.

This evening's parties include the large supper dance Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis and their daughter, Miss Emily Otis are to give at the Blackstone; the Hugh Wilsons' dinner dance at the Casino, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Williamson's debut dinner dance at the Fortnightly for their daughter, Betty. The Otis affair is being given for the three sons of the host and their respective wives, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Otis of Santa Fe, N. M., who are the most recently wed of the trio; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Otis. Some four hundred guests are expected. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are entertaining for Mrs. Wilson's brother-in-law and sister, the Oliver Brysons, just arrived this week from Asia.

An eastern banker in Chicago for a short business stay was being entertained at dinner a few nights ago. As he accompanied one of the guests toward the dining room he remarked audibly: "You know, I'd never heard of Chicago's apparent avidity for ducks. I've been to a luncheon and a dinner every day since I've been here, and have had duck for every single meal." Imagine the hostess' chagrin. She, too, was providing a duck dinner for the visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav I. Tolson of Atlanta, Ga., are being congratulated on the birth of a son on Tuesday, Dec. 17, at the Presbyterian hospital here. Mrs. Tolson was formerly Julia Belle Faurot and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faurot of Riverside.

Susan Badgerow and Allen Withers arrive tomorrow from Miss Wright's school at Bryn Mawr to be with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Withers of Winnetka, for the Christmas recess. They are to have an evening party the night after Christmas at the Indian Hill club.

Holiday Cheer Forces Gather to Help Poor

Being Santa Claus' first deputy in charge of the region of the Cathedral shelter, Washington and Peoria streets, has brought the responsibility of distributing Christmas cheer to 7,500 unfortuantes for the Rev. David E. Gibson, friend of the down-and-outer, the poor, and the needy.

The busiest Christmas season in the history of the shelter, which is aided by friends and Episcopal parishes, has pressed into service a staff of workers both night and day, the Rev. Mr. Gibson said yesterday.

About 1,000 will be served Christmas dinner at the lunch counter in the mission dormitory. The 2,000 inmates of the House of Correction will receive fruit and candy, as will the 1,300 inmates of the Cook county jail. In addition Christmas baskets of food and gifts will be provided for 900 poor families.

Yesterday President A. J. Cermak of the county board, who each year looks after Christmas dinners for the lodging house population near the loop, presented checks to help defray dinner expenses to the Rev. Mr. Gibson, the Rev. Johnston Meyer of the Immanuel Baptist church, and the Rev. William A. Cummings of the Holy Cross mission. Approximately 28,000 hungry men are also expected to be served both Christmas and New Year by President Cermak at 15 North Wells street, over the old Daily News offices.

Another Santa Claus helper is the Salvation Army. Included among its gifts to the mid-west poor are 100,000 toys, 600,000 pounds of potatoes, 60,000 fruit cakes, 360,000 apples, 120,000 dressed chickens, 180,000 oranges, 60,000 pounds of candy, 240,000 cans of milk, soup and vegetables, 120,000 pounds of sugar, 60,000 loaves of bread, and as many pounds of coffee.

The Chicago chapter of the Junior Red Cross played Santa to ex-service men in the Chicago territory yesterday. More than 3,000 packages of Christmas cards and stamps ready for mailing were sent to hospitalized soldiers so they might remember their friends on Christmas. They were wrapped at Fenger High school, Lindblom, Skokie, Josephenum, Wendell Phillips, Tuley, Parker, and Kohn. Five hundred packages of toys and Christmas stockings were sent to children of disabled ex-service men, made or collected by Harrison High, Garfield Junior High, Cornell, Peabody, and Sullivan Junior High schools.

The senior chapter of the Red Cross will entertain soldier patients at the Oak Forest sanitarium with a turkey dinner today, provided by the Protestant Woman's Service league. Yesterday a party was given for ex-service men at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium.

Christmas gifts of foster parents were those received yesterday by three homeless children in Judge I. L. Weaver's court in the county building. Six year old Jack was adopted by Mrs. Selma Kratochvil, 5815 South Hermitage avenue. The other two, both eight months old, will spend their first Christmas in a new home: Baby Boy Leistikow, who is being taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schardt, 4310 Belle Plaine avenue, and Baby Boy McLaughlin, who is being adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Wimmer, 7947 Birchdale avenue, Elmwood Park.

Principal David D. Davidson of the Nicholas Senn High school announced last night that distribution of the 900 Christmas baskets donated each year by the students will begin at 9:30 o'clock this morning instead of next Monday, as previously stated.

Antoinette Tells Tall Girls Not to Be Self-Conscious

The new dress mode may be a blessing for the five-foot-one-and-two girls; thinks the tall thin one, but what they do to her tall type of woman is "nothing short of scandalous," she says.

"Lord," she exclaims, "we were just getting to the point where we could manage to look human, but now with those long lines stretching us out for more and more inches—well, just look at us, pray for us, but in the meantime tell us what we can do."

One thing that can be done is to ignore the extreme in skirt lengths. They do not have to be adopted—not right away. Neither does one have to succumb to the wallpaper fittings.

There is no denying that the new vogue does draw out sweetness already long drawn out to five feet, seven, eight and nine inches. But there are halfway measures that always may be resorted to—and should be.

There was a time when the tall girls were told to wear droopy hats and flat heeled shoes so that they would not appear to be their actual height. But that kind of advice has no place in our present day scheme of women being themselves whatever else may happen. If one is tall, be it. If one is tall and slender, the new mode, adopted with variations to suit the individual, may be extraordinarily flattering.

We know one, five foot nine. Is she lovely in the gown that ends half way down the calf of her legs? Does she move with a magnificent grace? She is and she does. But she is one of those wise tall girls who says: "Of course, I'm tall, but what of it!"

There is nothing to be ashamed of about one's height. Except for keeping the feet out of stilt heels there is not much that can be done about it, either. But why should anything be done about it? That's the attitude to take and then go ahead and be just as modish as you please.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

G. J. D.: CONSTIPATION SUFFerers should drink more water—six to eight glasses a day—eat more fresh and dried fruits, and green vegetables. Plenty of exercise should be had—long walks, stair climbing and gymnastics. Also, plenty of sleep.

MRS. H. B. D.: THE CHIEF OBjection to hair dyes is that many of them are poisonous and harmful. It is well to have hair dyeing done by an experienced operator at a reliable hairdressing establishment.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The deep pointed effect of the hipline is outstandingly smart in an all day dress. The molded bodice assures the desired slender appearance and the skirt starts to flare well below the hips, with graceful, fluttering fulness at the bottom. Printed rayon crêpe in red dahlia tones, with the collar and cuffs of white crêpe de chine, daintily embroidered around the edge in a dahlia shade, was used for this chic dress.

The pattern, 3075, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 32 inch contrasting and 2¼ yards of trimming and 3¼ yards of binding.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Clothing for Rheumatic.

"I need a winter coat and a blouse badly and I cannot buy them. I am an elderly woman, living alone, and I support myself by cleaning and scrubbing, when I am able. I have been sick with rheumatism lately and haven't been able to do much, but if you can get me the things I need it will help. I am quite short and wear size 38. M. M."

Blankets for an Old Lady.

"I am writing for a dear old lady who lives alone. She injured her leg and is badly in need of white woolen stockings, size 10 or 10½, and a quilt or blankets. She is a most deserving person and will be glad to get anything offered. MRS. A. R."

Book Helps Solve Difficulties of a Child's Mealtime

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A small collection of Christmas carols will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of 14 cents in stamps, which covers cost and postage. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, Chicago Tribune.

When the earlier letters about mealtime difficulties came in, I attempted to answer each one individually and at length. Even so, I felt the replies inadequate, because the subject is a particularly intangible one to handle.

There are so many reasons why a child may not eat and so many ways in which he may be induced to eat, that the subject could not be covered in a letter. So I looked about for a book which was sound, simple, and practical—and particularly one not devoted to case records—which would be really helpful to mothers and others in charge of children. I think I found it in the rather short book called "Cultivating the Child's Appetite," by Charles Anderson Aldrich, M. D. The book is published by the Macmillan company, 60 Fifth avenue, New York City, and costs $1.75. Dr. Aldrich is particularly qualified to write such a book, being on the Children's Memorial hospital of Chicago, consulting pediatrist of the Chicago Tuberculosis sanitarium, etc.

An intelligent reading of this book—not even a study of it—will without doubt give a really constructive slant to the thinking of any one who is trying to handle one of these numerous little "eating problems." For, after all, this is like all the other tangles mothers have to straighten out that it needs to be understood.

Dr. Aldrich takes up the first logical things which make people of any age want to eat—appetite and hunger. He distinguishes between them and explains them. He goes on into the various causes for a child's refusal to eat—both psychological and physiological. Then in the last third of the book he discusses how to prevent a child acquiring the habit of not eating, and also how to treat and cure the habit when it is once well established.

This is a short sound book, the fruit of wide experience and practice, and will well repay reading.

Flares and Wings Mark Silk Frocks

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A great deal of today's fashion drama goes on in the side wings. These occur in both millinery and gowns, to say nothing of coats. Wings—by which one means any exuberance at the sides—are developed in exactly one thousand different ways.

Let us take today's example of an afternoon gown. Made of green crêpe marocain, it owes much of its charm to circular inset pieces of self-material at the sides. These pieces are prolonged both front and back, for it must be remembered that the usual smart skirt of today is as likely to dip downward in front as at the back.

Unevenness of hem being thus insured, the model goes about its chore of chic with customary attention to neckline and belt. The former reflects once more the feminine note in the loosely draped and knotted fichu of self-material. The latter is drawn down at the sides to fasten in front with a matching bone buckle.

Crêpe marocain, one of the favorite daytime materials, is but one facet of the season's mood for silk crêpes. For evening wear—much as the stiff silk is advancing upon our consciousness—there can be no doubt indeed that the woman of average income, she who can afford only one evening model, had better turn her attention to either georgette or crêpe romaine. Both of these materials are in excellent standing, and, whether in black, white, or some such favored tint as the brilliant green blue, they are well adapted to extract the best from the season's silhouette.

HAROLD TEEN—FAME IS FLEETING

Voluptuous East Shows in Some of Jacques' Paintings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

At the Allerton galleries, Allerton House, there is an exhibit of twenty-four oil paintings by Louftu Jacques, an artist of an origin that attributes both Paris and Armenia to his background. This explains in part a certain voluptuous softness found in some of his canvases. Many of these are designs for murals and the mosaic of brilliant colors that gives character to the applied figures of girl or man is fascinating in its profuse use of broken lines and shades of orange, yellow, blue and red.

One exquisite little painting of water and a sunset sky is complete in itself. There is charm and there is beauty in "Landscape, No. 22." The "Orientale" is particularly brilliant. In "Finale," the figure of Satan is dynamic, but the Christ is too weak, too lacking in that compelling force which fired those words "Get thee behind me!" "L'Accent Aigue" is a waterfall of flowing ice, a broken opal glistening cold sliding over gray cliffs.

The exhibition will run through the month.

Here's a Formula for Keeping Off Tracks That Lead to Reno

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Molly says that all one reads in the papers now is the great alimony rush to Reno. But you don't have to take the train there, and here's how Molly is "keeping off the rocks," or, as she says, "off the railroad tracks."

She was married at 21, it may be explained, against her family's wishes. Three months later her husband lost his job and the folks all said, "I told you so!"

Molly didn't listen. She dashed out and got a job, kept on working, and her hubby found a fair position. She kept on working two years longer. Then hubby got a better job. Now Molly is staying home, presiding over the nicest kind of apartment and having a glorious time keeping it spick and span.

Happy? Molly says—"terribly!" Once in a while a fuss, to be sure, but it's patched up before it goes too far.

"I try to make him comfortable—he can smoke all over the place and spill his ashes if he wants to. I pick up his clothes when he forgets and say nothing about it. I encourage him to bring his friends to the house, parade my best culinary tricks, ask his opinions, as he does mine, compliment him, and LOVE him, and let him know it every day.

"When he comes home at night from work I let him know I'm happy to see him by hugging the life out of him, almost. And does he love me? Well, I hear it all the time. Right out of a clear sky when we may be talking about something else, he'll stop and tell me what I mean to him. It's a glorious feeling! But I have the most wonderful man God ever made—kind, thoughtful, generous, loving, happy, and contented.

"Some day he is going to have his big chance, because he is conscientious, hard working, honest, ambitious, and fine. And what a memory he has! He remembers the day we met, the day we became engaged, birthdays, and just everything.

"Four years we're married now, and I still get love notes that he writes before he leaves for work. Am I for marriage?" Molly concludes. "Don't be foolish. It's jes' grand!"

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Dash of Pepper.

My most embarrassing moment occurred while at a dinner party given by the sorority of which I am a member. There were about fifty or more girls seated at the dinner table and we had just started our meal. When it came time for the consomme my liking for spicy foods got the best of me and I decided to use some pepper.

Just as I shook the pepper shaker the cover flew off and into the soup and all the contents were emptied in my soup, splashing it on the tablecloth and on my neighbor's lap. I saw everything go black before me and if it were not for the girls being so sweet about the matter and not laughing, I am sure I would have been more embarrassed than I was.

U. S. Will Aid State Survey for Better Care of Children

Coöperation of the children's bureau of the United States department of labor in helping provide the 1931 general assembly with facts and recommendations for better child welfare legislation in Illinois was pledged yesterday. Miss Grace Abbott, head of that federal bureau and formerly of Hull house, made the promise.

The University of Chicago's department of social service already has offered aid in making surveys. It is probable that other universities in this state also will coöperate. The committee was organized Oct. 30 at the close of the state conference on public welfare in Evanston. Among the members who are serving on committees investigating delinquent children, dependent and neglected children, defective children, and health and education as a basis for making the report to the assembly are the following: Dr. Herman M. Adler, Judge Mary Bartelme, State Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer, Miss S. P. Breckenridge, Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

A few weeks ago I called at one of the hospitals to visit a friend who had just had a new baby. During my visit her husband and son, Ronald, 3, came in. Ronald no sooner greeted his mother than out into the hall he pranced, begging the nurses to see the baby. They repeatedly explained to him that they were not allowed to disturb babies during sleeping hours, but he finally won his point.

Ronald drew a long sigh and replied, "O, it's ours if we ever get it home!"

E. O'D.

Edmund, 3½, had a bad cough and was so annoyed with it, that he was more than pleased to call on the doctor. The doctor gave him a thorough examination, pronounced it whooping cough; gave me the necessary advice and walked to the door with us.

He was closing the door to his office with his next patient, when Edmund got another spell of coughing. He ran back to the door, pushed it open, saying, "Doctor, the cough came back."

LA GUARDIA FOR FEWER LAWS, NOT BIGGER PRISONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Less legislation to regulate the morals of men rather than bigger prisons to confine them was advocated by Representative F. L. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] today in a hearing before the house judiciary committee on five pending bills designed to enlarge the country's prison facilities.

Representative La Guardia sought in vain to question Attorney General William D. Mitchell, who appeared in behalf of the bills, as to the cause of what the attorney general described as "desperate" overcrowding of the federal penitentiaries. In answer to La Guardia's suggestion that the prohibition law has jammed the prisons, Mr. Mitchell said he did not think that was germane to the matter in hand.

"The facts show that a large percentage of the increase in the prison population is caused by the dry laws," La Guardia asserted. "I think it is high time for this congress to stop putting men into prison for violating such laws rather than consider building bigger and bigger prisons to hold them."

La Guardia will have more to say on the bills when they reach the floor of the house. The committee probably will report them favorably tomorrow. They seek two new penal institutions and a reorganization of the entire federal prison system. They would require an outlay of from $6,500,000 to $7,000,000.

"This is too modest," said the attorney general.

"If all that is asked for in these bills is provided, we probably will have to come back for more within a year."

W. C. Roberts of Chicago, representing the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the committee to oppose the provisions in one of the bills for leasing prisoners to the states. Mr. Mitchell explained that this provision had been inserted on the representation of a federal judge in Minnesota who would have federal prisoners in that state assist in clearing the vast tracts of cutover land there. Every disposition of the administration, Mr. Mitchell said, was to keep prison made goods out of competition with regular manufactures.

Attacks Prison Welfare League.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Col. George F. Chandler, organizer of the state police, in his report, made public tonight, on the Auburn riot of last week, says that "a veritable reign of terror has obtained in this prison through the machinations of the criminals in control of the mutual welfare league." He had recommended to Gov. Roosevelt the abolishment of that organization.

33 BOY SCOUTS AWARDED HIGHER RANKING IN TEST

Fourteen Chicago Boy Scouts assumed the rank of Eagle Palm, and nineteen that of Eagle, at an Eagle review conducted last night in The Tribune tower. The examination followed a talk on the relation of scouting to business by Frank Dahm of W-G-N.

S. G. Goraline, scout commissioner of Chicago, assisted by six district commissioners, and Allan S. Carpenter, educational director, examined the boys on their past life in home, church, school, recreation, and adventure, and planned with them their future in scouting.

To attain the rank of Palm and Eagle Scout, the 33 boys each earned twenty-one merit badges.

WE MAKE SECOND MORTGAGES

We confine the loans we make to second mortgages on homes (construction up to a three-flat building as a home)—and because of this concentration on a single type of transaction we are able to give lower rates and better terms on second mortgage loans to home owners than can be obtained anywhere else in the city of Chicago.

Our charges are not based on a sliding scale, and do not vary. We charge 7% interest, which accrues monthly, and commissions which work out as follows:

$90 per $1,000 for 3 Years.
